Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Holt and Boyd Counties,

This weekend's gospel [John 10: 11-18] presents us with one of the most loved images of Jesus when he says of himself, "I am the good shepherd." We are sometimes seduced by images of a smiling Middle Eastern shepherd with a cuddly, clean, and fluffy lamb tucked under his arm. Much less romantic and more accurate and robust is the earliest known statue (ca. 60 CE) of the Good Shepherd at Caesarea Maritima in Israel. The legless remnant has a huge, heavy sheep draped around the shepherd's shoulders. To carry such a load would be no easy task! In 1 Samuel, we have another vigorous Old Testament description of a shepherd in the context of King Saul's attempt to dissuade the young David from fighting against the mighty Philistine warrior, Goliath. David argues his case for the fight with a graphic description of how he kept sheep for his father: "Whenever a lion or bear came to carry off a sheep from the flock, I would chase after it, attack it, and snatch the prey from its mouth. If it attacked me, I would seize it by the throat, strike it, and kill it. . . . The same Lord who delivered me from the claws of the lion and the bear will deliver me from the hand of this Philistine" (17:34-35, 37; NABRE).

As our Good Shepherd, Jesus fights for us, saves us from the gaping jaws of whatever or whoever seeks to grab and destroy our discipleship and wound the little "flock" of the Christian community. He shepherds us with his loving care so that we may "have life and have it more abundantly" (John 10:10; NABRE).

In contrast to the Good Shepherd is the hireling who is concerned primarily with his own self-interest: his reputation, remuneration, and safety. Through the prophets, God had denounced the shepherd leaders of Israel who had prostituted their pastoral ministry. "I myself will pasture my sheep," God promises his people (Ezek 34:15; NABRE; cf. Isa 40:11; Jer 31:10). There are still some political, social, and ecclesial "hired men" with us, but there are also the magnificent shepherds who are willing to lay down their life for their sheep. In Oscar Romero: Memories in Mosaic, Maria López collects the memories of two hundred people who had lived, prayed, and worked with such a shepherd— Archbishop Oscar Romero. Here is one:

One morning in rainy season when the skies were heavy with the day's rain, a man in rags, with a shirt full of holes and hair made curly by dust, covered with dust, was cleaning (Romero's) tomb carefully with one of his rags. When he left to go out, I felt I needed to talk to him.

"Why do you do that?"

"Do what?"

"Clean Monseñor's tomb."

"Because he was my father."

"What do you mean . . . ?"

"It's like this. I'm just a poor man, you know? Sometimes I make some money carrying things for people in the market in a little cart. And sometimes I spend it all on liquor and end up lying hungover on the streets. But I never get discouraged. I had a father! I did! He made me feel like a person. Because he loved people like me and didn't act like we made him sick. He talked to us, he touched us, he asked us questions. He had confidence in us. You could see in his eyes that he cared about me. Like parents love their children. That's why I clean off his tomb, because that's what children do."

As a child, as a son, Jesus the Good Shepherd lives, dies, and is raised to life in the power of the mutual love between him and his Father. Into this love Jesus gathers his disciples so that they may also share in it.

Ad multos annos!

Fr. Bernard Starman, Pastor
