3. Science

Topic: Astronaut Launch to Space Station

Objectives: Your child will be able to

- use new vocabulary words: astronaut, space station, rocket, space craft, space suit
- identify pictures having to do with space travel

Materials/Resources: View launch tomorrow, Wednesday, May 27*, coloring pages (in today's email), crayons

Activity: Tell your child that 2 astronauts will be going into space tomorrow. They will travel in a spacecraft to the space station. Rockets will take them there.

*(The launch is scheduled for around 3:30 pm. You can probably view it on most TV stations, Nasa.com and Space.com).

The space capsule is named "Crew Dragon."

Your child can choose one or more coloring pages to complete.

Optional easy name rocket craft—Have your child write each letter of his/her name on its own paper square. Line up and glue letter squares vertically to form name rocket on a piece of drawing paper Add paper triangle to top, orange/red/yellow paper strips or marker lines coming out of bottom for flames.

No lessons Wednesday May 27-----It's Family Walkathon Day!!!!

You can view Space X launch in afternoon.

Also your child can work on hat for Friday's party!
