Hello! My name is Ellen and I’m in my second year at Western studying Linguistics and Spanish! I grew up in Renton, WA and have always loved the natural beauty of the PNW. I enjoy anything related to poetry, photography, and family (even better if I can mix this all alongside the youth, and I’m excited for the program to begin this summer! -Agape Coordinator

Winter Program updates from the Agape Director

Winter with Agape is all about developing ideas and creating plans for the program. This season, the Director position was finally made full-time, something for which we are so grateful! Thank you all for your support in making that happen. Because of this time, I was able to meet with the local food banks, organizations, and state educational groups to discuss ways in which we can best serve migrant farm workers this coming summer. One of those ways which we are excited to announce is for the first time this summer there will be an interactive Summer program happening at two of the largest migrant farm worker camps in the area. It will be put on and directed by the team at the Northwest Educational Service District. We have been working with them to help the program get up and running. Agape has been serving the youth and families at these camps for many years now, and we are so excited and honored to finally see such a unique, necessary, and complementary program to Agape come to fruition. We also have some other exciting plans in the works, such as working with the local school district to get a summer meals program at the camps, as well as continuing to work with the food banks to get quality items and serve more families at our Agape Food Bank.

As you can see, I also worked with our returning Coordinator, Emily, to hire three new incredibly gifted staff members for this summer. They are currently in the works of planning an amazing interactive program for the parishes and youth serving with us this summer, many of whom will be their first time attending Agape. Something I’m excited about Agape is the relationships I will build in the summer with the youth, helping each other get closer to God! -Agape Assistant Coordinator

Hi! My name is Juan, I am a junior at WWU and am studying to become a future science teacher. I like to be active by going out and playing sports like basketball. I also like to stay indoors sometimes and play with my cat or play video games. Something I’m excited for you all to join us this summer with the youth, helping each other get closer to God! -Agape Coordinator
