

Creating a Scoring Plan for Any Given Standard

I have a few test questions that “get to the heart” of the skill or concept I am trying to assess. The students MUST know these to demonstrate mastery.

All or Nothing Strategy

For example:

A student MUST answer all three questions correctly.

I have five or more similar test questions that assess the same skill or concept at the same level. I think all are important.

“This many correct” Strategy

For example:

A student will show mastery if he/she answers 4 out of 6 correctly for this given standard.

I have a combination of different types of test questions that assess the same skill or concept, but at different levels.

Use both strategies.

This Many Correct

Example: 3 out of 4 multiple choice answered correctly

All or Nothing

Example: BOTH short answers answered correctly
