Cinco de Mayo

Cinco de Mayo is a Mexican holiday. It is also celebrated in California and other southwestern states of the United States. This part of the United States used to belong to Mexico. Many Mexican-Americans live in this area.

Cinco de Mayo means the fifth of May in Spanish. On May 5, 1862, Mexican soldiers won a famous battle against the French army in the city of Puebla, Mexico. They were led by General Ignacio Zaragoza. This was an unexpected victory. The Mexican army of 4,000 soldiers conquered the French army of about 8,000 soldiers. This victory showed the Mexican citizens that they could fight successfully against stronger countries. This success increased national pride.

Cinco de Mayo is not the same as Mexico's Independence Day. Mexico won their independence from Spain on September 16, 1821. This was about 40 years before the Battle of Puebla.
