Dear Friends,

To say that we have been through unique and fearful times is an understatement. We have been challenged like never before and we have experienced the loss of beautiful friends along the way due to Covid-19. In spite of all this, we as Catholics in the Diocese of Tucson have persevered and moved forward being a witness of hope for all of Tucson. This is why this year's Annual Catholic Appeal is so important.

In a recent video, Bishop Weisenburger described the work and the struggle of the diocese at this time. He described how, in spite of the challenges the diocese was continuing to support needy parishes, by developing vocations to the priesthood and minister to the neediest in the community. The Annual Catholic Appeal has always supported the needs of our parishes, including our own. The ACA helps to ensure that we can provide the best ministry experience possible in order to build the faith and offer hope to our communities. This year is of particular importance because of the pandemic.

Since the pandemic started, we have seen parishes struggle in significant ways to the point of closing major ministry services. We have seen services by the diocese streamlined in order that the work of the diocese can still be provided but sometimes in a limited capacity. This year's appeal is more than just sustaining ministry and parishes, it is about rebuilding for a brighter future.

Now that we are seeing vaccines roll out and into arms, we as a diocese can look toward a brighter future. For the first time we can see light at the end of the tunnel as parishes begin to reopen indoor mass and begin planning for a fuller ministry in the fall. However, for that to happen we need your help.

This appeal is specifically focused on rebuilding and making better. Building up our parishes, strengthening our diocese services to the parishes and the community, and better serving the neediest in our community. It really is about a better and brighter tomorrow.

I hope you will join me in participating in the Annual Catholic Appeal. It is important not only for us at Most Holy Trinity Parish but important for the future of the church. Let's rebuild our church together and walk into a more meaningful tomorrow. Thank you as always for your support and your consideration in supporting this year's important appeal.

Please donate by the envelopes provided in this mailing or the Diocese of Tucson link <https://support.cathfnd.org/donate> (please select Most Holy Trinity as your parish).

May God protect and bless abundantly you and your family.

Yours in the Savior,

Fr. Tom
