Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

"If you choose, you can make me clean," a man cries out to Jesus. "If you choose you can change my life," we cry out in prayer. "If you choose, you can change our lives," come the cries in the news and in our streets.

Throughout our daily life, we lift our needs and hopes to God, trusting in God's mercy. And if we take some time to reflect on the flow of our lives, we realize and rejoice that, like the man with leprosy, we have been changed and our lives have been shaped by our own encounters with Jesus. These changes bring us closer to Jesus; they also make us more like Jesus. God is shaping us individually and as a community, empowering us to be Christ in our world, acting in his name. It's up to us to listen and act.

In today's celebration, we gather to lift our voices to God in praise and thanksgiving for God's action in our lives. We cry out to God, giving voice to the pleas of refugees and others seeking shelter, of prisoners seeking rehabilitation and freedom, of all the forgotten ones in our complicated world. And finally, we are sent forth with grateful hearts to stretch out a hand in response to the cries we hear. With God's grace we will change the world.
