As the year 2017 marks the 450th birth anniversary of St Francis de Sales, it is befitting to re-read and reflect on the teachings of this great master of spiritual life who is popularly known as the ‘gentleman saint’. For Francis de Sales “nothing is so strong as gentleness, nothing so gentle as real strength.” We, the Fransalians, are privileged to live the spirit and spirituality of St Francis de Sales who continues to inspire millions of faithful even today. Francis de Sales was a person ahead of his time and his spirituality is relevant to people of all ages. As Pope Emeritus, Benedict XVI, rightly attests: “Saint Francis de Sales (...) after a powerful experience of God’s liberating love in his youth, became a priest and then Bishop of Geneva, at that time a stronghold of Calvinism. His fine education, his personal gifts of charity, serenity and openness to dialogue, together with his brilliance as a spiritual guide, made Francis a leading figure of his age. His spiritual writings include the celebrated Introduction to the Devout Life, which insists that all Christians are called to perfection in their proper state of life, foreshadowing the insistence of the Second Vatican Council on the universal call to holiness. His Treatise on the Love of God develops this teaching, stressing that we find ourselves and our true freedom in the love of God. The Christian humanism of Saint Francis de Sales has lost none of its relevance today.” (Pope Benedict XVI, General Audience, Wednesday, March 2, 2011).

In today’s postmodern and globalised world, a missionary is called to equip himself to face the challenges from various domains such as political, economic, social, religious and so on. Hence, he needs to be well informed about the various dimensions of mission and ministry so as to be an effective missionary priest. As regards the importance of knowledge for a priest, Francis de Sales admonishes: “Priests who occupy themselves with works that hinder them from study are like men who refuse their stomach the food it needs for nourishment... Ignorance in a priest is more to be feared than sin, because it does not merely lead him to ruin, but dishonors and degrades the sacerdotal character. For the priest, knowledge is the eighth sacrament of the ecclesiastical hierarchy; and the church’s greatest misfortunes have come from this that the ark of knowledge has passed from the Levites into the keeping of others. If Geneva has wrought such terrible havoc among us, it is because, in our idleness, we did no more than read our breviaries without any care to make ourselves more learned” (André Jean Marie Hamon, Vie de Saint François de Sales I, p. 499).

On this auspicious occasion of 450th birth anniversary of St Francis de Sales, once again we are reminded that our religious and priestly vocation is to become all things to all people following in the footsteps of our beloved patron, and practicing the little virtues of gentleness, humility, patience, simplicity, cheerfulness, hospitality etc. May St Francis de Sales guide us in the pursuit of holiness, true knowledge and wisdom and help us to find our real joy and fulfillment in our journey of life.

Conversation is natural to humans. No one likes to remain silent for a very long time. God wants us to speak to one another. Conversation may be a source of blessings, encouragement and recreation. It can also become a source of harm, discouragement and destruction. So, we must pay great attention to conversation. All the same we should never be artificial, and tensed but natural, simple and spontaneous. Little things can do miracles. Once I wrote a word of encouragement on a slip of paper and gave it to a person in distress. Within few days I received a letter from him: “you have saved me from killing myself.” Saint Francis de Sales has something beautiful to say about Conversation. “In your speech be gentle, free, sincere, straightforward, simple and truthful. Be on your guard against duplicity, cunning and pretence. Although it is not good to say always all kinds of truths yet it is never allowed to go against truth. Accustom yourself never to tell a lie deliberately either by way of excuse or for any other reason. Remember that God is the God of truth (Ps31:5). If you happen to tell a lie inadvertently and you can correct it on the spot, by some explanation or alteration, do so. A genuine excuse has much more grace and strength as an apology than a lie.”

Mermier Bytes

2017 has been declared the MSFS year of EDUCATION and SOCIAL APOSTOLATE with the focus on SOCIAL EMPOWERMENT. The purpose is to promote justice, to counter injustices and to protect human rights, with the required knowledge, skills and values, so that all people can live with dignity, free from oppression (Superior General’s Message, MSFS Inter-secretariat Newsletter Jan 2017).

Mermierian Charism: The seeds of such vision and commitment were sown at the very beginning of Fr. Mermier’s priestly life as curate-teacher at Magland. (Here he devoted himself “tirelessly teaching children during the day, and spending part of the night to the study of theology”. His subsequent Pastoral assignments were as warden-professor at Melan College, Parish priest in the de-Christianized village of Chatelard, and as Spiritual Director in the diocesan seminary of Annecy.

His pastoral zeal led him initially to personally address the problem of illiteracy among children, by engaging the services of a private tutor teaching from the Presbytery. The wide impact of this social evil on families, church and society as a whole led him to envision a more broad and more permanent, lasting means to address the issue.

Unfolding of the Charism: Mermierian Initiatives:

(1) To redress the scourge of illiteracy, especially among girls in rural Savoy, and its consequences on family and social life, Fr. Mermier promoted the training (academic and spiritual) of lay women who would serve as teachers and catechists. This initiative culminated in the founding of the Congregation of the Missionaries of St Francis de Sales – popularly known as Fransalians.

Discernment, Focus and Guiding Principles: Divine Providence opened numerous avenues to Fr. Mermier to respond to the demands of the Apostolate, specifically in the Ministry of Education. After prayerful discernment with the Bishop, conferees and stake-holders, namely, government agencies, diocesan priests and laity, our Founder decided to take up the Colleges of Evian and Melan.

The factors that militated against taking up of the College of Evian, among others were the following: (a) lack of qualified personnel among the existing MSFS conferees; (b) involvement here, in spite of financial gain, would dampen the parish mission preaching in Savoy and availability of conferees for Overseas Missions – the apostolic charism of MSFS, and (c) the perception that such Institutions of the State rarely served to turn out better Christians - Fr. Mermier’s main concern. However, the factors that weighed in favour of taking up the project were, firstly obedience to the expressed desire of the Bishop, when no one else wanted to run an institution that was on the downside. This was the typical sensitivity of Fr Mermier springing from his passion for renewal of faith. Secondly, his perception that this would provide the required skills for conferees preparing for Apostolate in the Overseas Missions.

The College of Melan, in spite of financial liabilities, was taken up as an obligation, again at the request of the Bishop, due to the departure of the Jesuits and in the absence of other takers. Positively, Fr. Mermier’s favourable response, (besides the fact that Melan was his Alma Mater) was because this college (Minor Seminary) could turn out to be a seed-ground for vocations.

Return to our Roots: The challenge for the MSFS today is to ensure a judicious approach in vision and practice with regard to the initiatives undertaken in the Apostolate of Education and Social Service. We need to ensure that the resources – personnel, technical, financial – invested in the projects and institutions are at the service of mission. We need to remain focused on the Foundational and Apostolic Charism of our Founder and keep close to the heart of Fr. Mermier in fidelity to his missionary ideal.

Solemn Feast of St Francis de Sales

On the afternoon of the 24th January 2017, Msgr Yves BOIVINEAU, Bishop of Annecy, presided over the solemn Eucharist of St Francis de Sales, at the beginning of which he declared that the process of the Cause of beatification of Servant of God Peter MERMIER has been opened again.

Mass was attended by a large group of faithful, among them many Sisters of the Cross of Chavanod (along with their Provincial, Sister Maryline DARBELLAY), many Sisters of St Joseph of Annecy and some parishioners of St James’ parish, comprising Chaumont, the birth place of Fr. MERMIER. Fr. Eric TRABOULGA, the parish priest of St James, was among the concelebrants.

After communion, Fr. Yves CARRON MSFS, Provincial, gave a vote of thanks to the Bishop for re-opening the Cause, and to the Visitation community who generously permitted that the mortal remains of Fr. MERMIER be buried in the crypt, (along with the remains of Bishop P.J. REY). The transfer of the relics took place exactly 10 years ago.

New Mission Venture at Domwe in the Diocese of Tete in Central North Mozambique

The Delegation Administration selected Domwe Parish in the diocese of Tete, which is about 278 kilometres away from the city of Tete and 47 kilometres away from the township of Angonia and 120 kilometres away from the capital city of Malavi and two days’ journey from Maputo. Public transport is available till Angonia township. The parishioners are poor farmers. The main church has a presbytery which needs renovation as only walls and foundation works are intact. Ever since the civil war broke out, there was no resident priest. There are uninhabited buildings in the church land which can be made use of when renovation is done. Except the wall of the rooms, all other works like flooring, electrical wiring, plumping, fixing of windows and doors must be done. There are 103 sub-centres in this Parish which makes it a very vast territory to be covered for ministry. The Parish Church at Domwe is named after St. Peter Claver. Delegation Superior and Fr. Paul had visited the place and met the Bishop of Tete, followed by Fr. Aajo who stayed with the nearest Jesuit Community and explored the place and presented this new mission very beautifully with the help of video clippings during the Colloquium. Everyone felt the need to take the MSFS Mission to Central North Mozambique as most vocations come from that place. Insertion of the MSFS into a larger catholic area is paramount to our future growth. The mute question was from where will the resources come to meet the immediate expenses. In an optimistic frame of mind, it was felt that we cannot keep the needed funds before us and start missions. Let us respond to the urgent need of 103 sub-centres and the main parish community. We need to take it as a challenge, trusting in the providence of God to allay the fears of insecurity. Funds will come in course of time, if we work for it. The members said that the Province should take responsibility and get directly involved in stabilizing this mission to instil confidence among the young province missionaries. The Provincial gave all assurances for the same.
