Cooler mornings and the shorter days of fall are now upon us, and as the students and teachers begin with a new school year, our students have a new opportunity to gain knowledge and wisdom. We should also pray that students and teachers will continue to develop their relationship with Christ as they grow and deepen their faith. As the season and schedules of our physical world around us change, there is an opportunity to realign our spiritual connection with our God, the creator of both the physical and spiritual world, which ultimately is one and the same.

-Brother in Christ, Deacon John Lammers
