Second Sunday of Lent

Reflecting on the Word – Luke 9:28b-36

At the Transfiguration, the three Apostles are allowed to view Jesus in his divinity. They knew Jesus as human, and now they have a glimpse of his divine nature. In this instance, Peter, James, and John are allowed another perspective of Jesus. During Lent, we will not enter a cloud as the Apostles did, but we can give ourselves a chance to see ourselves, one another, and creation with different eyes. If you could see how you and those around you are made in the image of God, what would you see?

-What might God’s vision reveal in you?

How to Raise a Gen Z Kid
(Mid-1990s-Mid-2000s)

TIP#7 LISTEN. If you are curious about what's going on in your teen's life, asking direct questions might not be as effective as simply sitting back and listening. Kids are more likely to be open with their parents if they don't feel pressured to share information. Remember even an offhand comment about something that happened during the day is her way of reaching out, and you're likely to hear more if you stay open and interested — but not prying. Validate their feelings. It is often our tendency to try to solve problems for our kids, or downplay their disappointments. But saying something like "She wasn't right for you anyway" after a romantic disappointment can feel dismissive. Instead, show kids that you understand and empathize by reflecting the comment back: "Wow, that does sound difficult."

MARRIAGES

TIP#7 LEARN TO REPAIR AND EXIT
THE ARGUMENT.

Happy couples have learned how to exit an argument, or how to repair the situation before an argument gets completely out of control. Examples of repair attempts: using humor; offering a caring remark ("I understand that this is hard for you"); making it clear you're on common ground ("We'll tackle this problem together"); backing down (in marriage, as in the martial art Aikido, you often have to yield to win); and, in general, offering signs of appreciation for your partner and their feelings along the way. If an argument gets too heated, take a 20-minute break, and agree to approach the topic again when you are both calm..
