Dear Parents,

It's a bit surreal we are dealing with this right now. I was just celebrating how we made it through winter without a missed day of school. Regardless, we are still blessed to be in a country and in the state of Iowa that has the resources we have. It could always be worse.

We know that being in school would be the best scenario, but that is not an option at this time. Teachers are pulling together resources and activities that your children can work during their time away from school. We have set up a Home-School Resource tab on our web-site at www.aquin.org. It has a variety of links for you to use if you want. Please know that this material we are sharing is optional. It's only to give your child things to do during their absence.

With the Archbishop's recent press release of not having Mass (with the exception of funerals and weddings) we will be sending you weekly information through Formed. Nicole Casey, our Faith Formation Director, will help get you signed up, if you aren't already. We will then send you links to videos each week. We hope this allows you and your family to continue your journey of faith especially during this season of Lent. You will also find how to sign up for Formed on the Home-School Resource tab as well.

If at any time you have a question please email your child's teacher directly. We'll do our best to answer questions, but please know that the information is always changing so please be patient with us. We know we want answers quickly, but we continue to wait for the guidance of the governor and the arch.

Blessing and prayers to you all.
