The Rosary

This past Monday, October 7th was the feast of Our Lady of the Rosary which is celebrated on the anniversary of the Battle of Lepanto fought in 1571. This significant naval battle stopped the expansion of the Ottoman Empire which was on its way to conquering the Christian nations of Europe. Though outnumbered, the allied Christian forces arranged by Pope Pius V defeated the Ottomans in the battle losing only 13 of their 212 ships. The Christian forces attributed the victory to the rosary which Pius V had urged all of the faithful to pray in anticipation of this battle.

Today, much like in 1571, the Church, the mystical Body of Christ, is being threatened by enemies both inside and out. While Jesus' promise to Peter assures us that the Church will never be conquered by the forces of evil (see Mt 16:8), there is still always real danger of many Christians making "shipwreck of their faith" (1 Tim 1:19). And so, just as with Lepanto, the rosary is one of the most powerful means we have to prevent this from happening. Pope Leo XIII even called the rosary, "a most powerful warlike weapon" in his first of twelve encyclicals on the rosary (Supremi Apostolatus Officio 3).

Pope Leo XIII summarizes the rosary as an "admirable garland woven from the Angelic Salutation, together with the Lord's Prayer, joined to meditation" (Diuturni Temporis 3). I think these three things are a good summary of what makes the rosary such a good prayer. The words "Angelic Salutation" here refer to the first part of the Hail Mary prayer in which we recite the same words that the Archangel Gabriel used to greet Mary: "Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee." And so, Pope Leo first reminds us that when we pray the Hail Marys of the rosary, we are approaching the Blessed Mother with the same respect and honor as the archangel. Pope Leo secondly reminds us that the rosary also includes the Lord's Prayer at interspersed intervals. Since this is the prayer that Jesus himself taught us, the excellence of this aspect of the rosary needs no defense. And thirdly, Pope Leo describes the prayers of the rosary as "joined to meditation." This is perhaps the part of the rosary most misunderstood. Many people have criticized the rosary as an instance of "babbling like the pagans" (see Mt 6:7). However, what these critics don't realize is that while the Hail Marys are being recited, the goal is that we are meditating on the mysteries of the rosary. In other words, each set of Hail Marys in the rosary is supposed to be like background music while our minds are focused on the events of the life of Jesus or Mary. For example, the first Sorrowful Mystery is the Agony in the Garden, where we might reflect on the love of Jesus who was willing to suffer even to the point of sweating blood for our redemption.

If you aren't familiar with praying the rosary (so long as you are a little tech savvy), you can find an abundance of resources on the internet. I encourage you to take up this powerful weapon!

Rectory Update

Fr. Stiles and I went on an expedition into the attic to get some more intel on the bat situation. We found some bat droppings and one dead dried-up bat (who knows how old), but not one sign of a living bat. It appears that they've moved out for the winter.

God Bless,
Fr. Sandquist
