

Deacon's Beacons

September 10, 2019

The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in temples made by man, nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mankind life and breath and everything.
Acts 17:24–25

Here is the key to Creation: God made all things for us. He did not need anything but He desired for us to be in relationship with Him. The Church is where we come together to worship God. While we, as Catholics, have a definite sense of the Presence of Jesus in the Tabernacle, God cannot be contained by any building. So, while God is everywhere, it is entirely proper to come together in a sacred space for communal worship. That is the limit of the building's function. We are the Church, not the building.

Go raibh síocháin Chríost a bheith in éineacht leat.

Deacon Mike