

Deacon's Beacons

And let us not grow weary of doing good, for in due season we will reap, if we do not give up. So then, as we have opportunity, let us do good to everyone, and especially to those who are of the household of faith. Galatians 6:9–10

Sometimes it can be very wearisome to do what is right. That is still no excuse to choose to do something wrong. This is particularly applicable to a situation where you may choose to do good for someone or to do evil or at least do nothing. Maybe we feel that we can be justified in not doing good because of the “type” of person the other is, at least in our opinion. God loves everyone. Do you think you know better than God? And note that the passage says especially those who are of the household of faith. It does not say exclusively those. God loves everyone. What do you not understand in that?
