But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who looks intently at his natural face in a mirror. For he looks at himself and goes away and at once forgets what he was like. But the one who looks into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and perseveres, being no hearer who forgets but a doer who acts, he will be blessed in his doing. James 1:22–25

Faith is not just about what you hear and what you believe. There must be an element of action in your faith. Otherwise it is more of an educational exercise than a lifestyle. While religion is the codification of what we believe, if that is all that it is, we have missed the mark. Being a Christian needs to be less about what we believe and more about how we put that belief into action. Christianity truly is a lifestyle, led by the Gospel message.
