“But love your enemies, and do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return, and your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the Most High, for he is kind to the ungrateful and the evil. Be merciful, even as your Father is merciful.” Luke 6:35–36

If we could all do this, would the world not be a far better place? But we hold grudges, we nurse hurt feelings and we wish nothing to do with our enemies. This is not saying that you have to spend time with people that you do not like. It is saying that you must love them, which carries with it a responsibility to do good and not evil. Is that not really very simple? Walk away from an argument. Help a person in real need. Be like Jesus.
