O LORD my God, I cried to you for help, and you have healed me. Psalm 30:2

Do you feel that God hears you when you cry out? Do you feel that your prayers are heard? It can be easy to say that God is not listening because we may not receive an answer as quickly as we think we should. That does not mean that God is not listening or that He is not answering. Do not stop crying out to God particularly when you feel you are out of all other options. Actually, crying out to God should be your first option, not your last. Maybe that is the lesson: Depend on God first rather than on yourself.
