Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever. Hebrews 13:8

God is unchanging. God is eternal so that He is unchanging is pretty much a given. God is outside of time and space so what would affect change does not affect Him. But physical attributes aside (since no one can really comprehend the physical attributes of God), the most amazing unchanging aspect of God is His love for us. We do not deserve God's love. We can do nothing to earn God's love. But He loves us anyway. He loves us unconditionally. That itself is difficult for us to comprehend. Loving unconditionally may be something to which we aspire or even approximate, but God's love surpasses anything that we can accomplish. Scripture tells us that our love is but a shadow of the love that God has for us. Still we must try.
