Whoever walks with the wise becomes wise, but the companion of fools will suffer harm. Proverbs 13:20

This is a reminder that the company that we keep is important. We should avoid people who draw us away from the Lord. We should seek to be with people who help us in our spiritual walk. We must be careful so that we do not extend that beyond what it is meant to do. Keeping to your own kind is not a good policy either. We must be open to all people, particularly people of good faith. Their beliefs may not be the same as ours but their hearts seek the same thing – peace and love between all people.

Go raibh síocháin Chríost a bheith in éineacht leat.
