Third Sunday of Easter

It takes about two months to form a new habit, but I'll bet collective trauma bakes in a new habit a lot faster. I suspect that because, after just eight weeks or so of maintaining a six-foot distance from everyone, I'm shocked that the "Stranger" just walked right up to the two disciples (Cleopas and Mrs. Cleopas) and started talking to them. Was he wearing a mask? Were they? More disturbingly, when he broke the Bread with them, did they all share it from a common plate? Probably. There would be hundreds of devastating plagues in the two millenia to come. There is no evidence there was one in that room that night.

These disciples of Jesus had been in Jerusalem for Passover, and had (perhaps) even witnessed his horrifying crucifixion. And yet, they didn't recognize him until his Risen Body broke through time and space, met them on the road, revealed the scriptures to them, and then revealed himself to them (and us) in the breaking of the bread.

Do you feel like your eyes have been opened during this strangest of all seasons? Mine are opened wide. The healed air quality is breaking through a century of brown cloud. I stand outside at night and see the STARS! Then, our young neighbor comes outside and plays a beautiful piece on his flute. All the neighbors applaud. Our hearts burn within us. My eyes are opened wide about who the essential workers are, too. From now on, every teacher of any grade gets a 100% raise. Grocery store workers get our warmest respect. And health care workers? They own our hearts. And our hearts burn within us with gratitude.

How have your eyes opened since this experience?

Conversaciones Sagradas

Tercer Domingo de Pascua

Toma más o menos dos meses formar un habito nuevo, pero apuesto a que el trauma colectivo puede hornear un habito nuevo mucho más rápidamente. Se me ocurre esto porque, a pesar de que solo han pasado alrededor de ocho semanas de que comenzamos a mantener seis pies de distancia de todo el mundo, me sorprendió tantísimo que el "desconocido" simplemente se les acercara a los dos discípulos (Cleofás y Señora Cleofás) y comenzara a conversar con ellos.

¿Traía su mascarilla? ¿Y ellos? Lo que me pareció más perturbador fue cuando partió el Pan con ellos, ¿Comieron todos de un mismo plato? Probablemente. En los siguientes dos milenios, vendrían cientos de devastadoras plagas. No existe evidencia que había alguna plaga en ese cuarto en esa noche.

Estos discípulos habían estado en Jerusalén para la Pascua, y habían (quizás) hasta presenciado su horrorizante crucifixión. Y a pesar de eso, no lo reconocieron hasta que su Cuerpo Resucitado irrumpió por el tiempo y el espacio, y los encontró en el camino, y les reveló las escrituras, y luego el mismo se les reveló (y a nosotros) en la partida del pan. ¿Sientes como si se te han abierto los ojos durante esta temporada que ha sido la más extraña de todas? Mis ojos están muy abiertos. La calidad del aire ha sanado de un siglo de grises nubes de contaminación. ¡De noche me quedo afuera viendo las ESTRELLAS! Y después, nuestro joven vecino sale a la calle y toca una hermosa pieza musical en su flauta. Todos los vecinos aplaudimos. Nuestros corazones arden en nuestro pecho.

También he abierto muy bien los ojos para ver quienes son los trabajadores esenciales. De hoy en adelante, todo maestro de cualquier grado recibe un 100% de aumento. Los trabajadores de las tiendas de comida reciben nuestro más merecido respeto. ¿Y el personal medico? A ellos les pertenece nuestro corazón. Y nuestros corazones arden en nuestros pecho llenos de gratitud.

¿En qué forma se han abierto tus ojos desde que comenzó esta experiencia?
