History

Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church is located at 1713 N. Tinsley in Angleton, TX. as a part of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston. It is the fourth church building to serve the Roman Catholics of Angleton and was dedicated on the Feast of the Holy Trinity, June 18, 2000, with Archbishop Joseph Fiorenza and priests of the Basilian Fathers presiding.

The history of Angleton Catholics dates back to November of 1931 when Sacred Heart Church, located just north of Anchor Road near Front Street, was dedicated. Prior to that, Catholics met in private homes and halls and some went to the neighboring town of Danbury where a resident priest was established. The joy of having Sacred Heart proved to be short-lived, however, as the structure was destroyed in a 1932 storm, less than one year after construction.

Angleton Catholics waited almost 12 years before a church was to be established again when in 1944 the Basilian Fathers came to Angleton from Rosenberg. After receiving formal invitations from the local Hispanic community, the Basilian Fathers eventually took up residence and became the parish priests of the Church of St. Thomas Aquinas as a mission church of Our Lady of Guadalupe in Rosenberg.

St. Thomas, located on South Erskine St., served both Spanish and English speaking residents. Then in August of 1957, the parish of St. Basil was canonically erected with the cornerstone laid in September 1959 and the first Mass celebrated on January 1, 1960. St. Thomas Aquinas then became a mission of St. Basil parish serving the Spanish community.

In 1994, St. Thomas Aquinas and St. Basil were merged into one parish to serve the Angleton Catholic Community.

On Palm Sunday April 16, 2000, a new era began as it was unified under the name of Most Holy Trinity and held its first mass in a newly constructed facility at its current location.

In July 2016, the Basilian Fathers returned the leadership of the parish to the Archdiocese and it is now served by diocesan priests. Christian fellowship and new friendships abound at our weekly Sunday celebrations of the Holy Eucharist, as well as through other weekly activities and numerous ministries for children, youth, and adults.

Our 1,500 registered parish families make a difference for our church community... won't you?

Community Outreach

One of the many goals of Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church is our commitment in maintaining positive involvement for the betterment of our extended parish community.

Our parishioners come from all walks of life and each year the parish is growing with the addition of more and more families. Our church family supports the many outreach ministries provided to the community.

The Parish ministries include faith formation for youth, adults and families. Our social ministry touches the lives of those in need within our community through the St. Thomas Center, which provides clothing, food, shelter, and utilities assistance and other needs.

The facilities at the former location of St. Thomas Aquinas on Erskine street, now named St. Thomas Center, are the location of the parish's social ministry services, which include St. Thomas Food Pantry, Aquinas Gently Used Goods Store, a community garden and financial assistance services to low income individuals and families.

The food pantry and Client Assistant Office serves all individuals in the Angleton and surrounding communities.

The Liturgical Ministry supports the worship life of our parishioners who are called to serve within and outside the church community. Many of our parishioners give of their time and talent and define what Christian stewardship really means.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE...

IT'S A WIN-WIN

The annual Fall Bazaar which benefits Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church has an excellent reputation and allows the church to continue its work within our community.

Our Fall Bazaar, which is attended by hundreds of participants, has grown over the years due to the community's love and appreciation of the parish. MHT raises funds through donations from private individuals, businesses and special fundraising campaigns.

Sponsorships are critical to our event's continued success and provide your company the unique opportunity to connect with the church parishioners and greater Brazoria County community.

Become a sponsor and feel good about supporting our parish and our social ministries.

This is a great time to be a part of our largest fundraising event which will promote unity and bring financial security to the parish.

The proceeds will aid the parish in continuing our community outreach programs, debt reduction efforts and our annual operating expenses.

Consider the several sponsorship options available to you.
