I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather that they turn from their ways and live. (Ezekiel 33:11)

By Fr Gabriel

We have come to this beautiful world, by the creation of God, as a gift and consequence of his wisdom and love. We have come to this time and to this space with the firm intention of growing. This leads us to a constant progression throughout our lives. During life, because of our fragility and human condition, because of our ignorance, and our disobedience we fall into sin. We hear so much about sin that very rarely, with sincerity and consciousness, do we take the time to really know what sin is.

"Sin ... is in the one who knows how to do good and does not do it" (James 4:17); St. John described sin as "all unrighteousness" (1 John 5:17) and the "transgression of the law" (1 John 3: 4). That is why the Lord said that “… all men, everywhere, must repent…” (Moses 6:57). With the exception of Jesus, who lived a perfect life, every person who ever lived on earth has sinned.

Likewise, if we speak of sin, like any negative action, that goes against our spiritual growth and our union with God, we must speak of repentance, as the spiritual fruit of personally and freely recognizing our faults, always trusting in the mercy of God, who calls us to follow him with sincerity and purity of heart. Repentance is the spiritual means to free ourselves from our sins and receive forgiveness for them. Repentance allows us to progress and grow spiritually again, recognizing the pain it has caused us, which is sadness, disappointment, anguish, and feeling the desire to get rid of and abandon them. Confessing our sins is very important, because in this way we recognize that God's presence is purifying us, that his light is illuminating those dark areas of our lives and that his healing is eliminating those diseases that impede our spiritual health.

The Lord has commanded us to confess our sins, because we cannot live in community and we cannot enjoy his blessings when we distance ourselves from Him, since confession frees the sinner from a heavy burden, allows him to feel a member of a community, which is ours ecclesial assembly and grants him the grace of sincerity and obedience: “He who conceals his sins will not prosper; But the one who confesses and forsakes them will obtain mercy”. Proverbs 28:13 Part of repentance is restoring the damage done. This means that we must try to repair as much as possible the evil we have caused. Well, just as we have realized that sin has caused us great pain and sadness, we must try, as far as possible, to replace those negative consequences through the action of works. That is why we are called to do good, since in this way we demonstrate the forgiveness that we have received from God and the tranquility of moving away from the wrongdoings.

My dear Spiritual Family may the invitation to repentance that we hear today in our readings grant us the sincere and personal joy of acknowledging our sins, of acknowledging our mistakes with humility, seeking forgiveness, and trusting in the mercy of God, who does not want the death of a sinner but for us to turn from transgressions and live. (Ezekiel 33:11)
