The Pastor's Corner:

Today's Scriptures teach the fullness of life in the light of God's wisdom. The Wisdom passage shows how the human condition, by its very nature, requires divine assistance. If we are to learn the art of genuine living, God must communicate the spirit of wisdom. Spirit-filled wisdom saves people; being wise means being alive in God. Psalm 90 pleads for wisdom of heart, as a way to combat human sinfulness and failure. This wisdom is the art of correct living, of adapting to life's problems, and of interacting with the God of Israel. God's presence makes life not a burden to be endured, but a gift to be celebrated.

Luke has Jesus speak about the demands of discipleship. He gathers three sayings and two parables. The second parable is a commentary on wisdom and life, explaining that to enjoy life in the kingdom, the disciple must be wise enough to see the implications of his or her choices. Both parables highlight the need to use wisdom in assessing the cost of discipleship. To accept the person of Christ, is to accept his cross as well.
