

Hello my name is Noelia Garcia. I am the new bookkeeper at St. Ambrose Church. I was born in Ocampo Guanajuato, Mexico. My family immigrated to the United States in 1994 when I was two years old. I received my entire education and upbringing in the United States; however my parents made sure we did not lose our traditions or our native language in this transition process.

I attended Barbara Jordan High School and graduated from the University of Houston with my Bachelor's in Accounting. I worked for a mid-size audit firm right out of college but eventually realized I did not enjoy that career pathway. I then got hired as the bookkeeper at St. Charles Borromeo Church where I worked at for 3 years. I found my time there to be very rewarding.

Playing the guitar and singing are some of my favorite hobbies. I was part of the Our Lady of St. John choir for 6 years. Being able to serve God in the music ministry was such a joy and overall made my faith stronger. At first I started simply as a singer but eventually I learned how to play the guitar. Also, I was a volunteer catechist assistant at our lady of St. John for a year. I recently got married in January and am expecting my first baby. I feel excited that my family is growing and thank God for allowing me to know the joy of motherhood.

I am beyond excited to be part of the St. Ambrose Family and look forward to working here and creating wonderful memories. Thank you!
