*From the Desk of Deacon Chris...BUILD UP TREASURES IN HEAVEN

Let's say you are out and about sometime this month, and you happen to meet a friend. Perhaps you haven't seen each other for some time, and you strike up a conversation. Since this is the Advent Season, I bet at some point in the conversation, one of you will ask the other this very important question, "Have you got your Christmas shopping done yet?"

Now don't get me wrong. I love the giving of the season, and how we search for just the right gifts for family and friends. Certainly, as I have gotten older, I appreciate the wonderful feeling of giving gifts much more than receiving gifts. However, isn't it a sign of how commercialized the season has become that we ask each other if we have got our Christmas shopping done? I wonder why we don't discuss spiritual things during the Advent Season. Why don't we ask each other what we are doing this Advent to prepare the way of the Lord? Or, why don't we ask one another what we are doing to add to our prayer life this Advent? Or, why don't we ask one another if we are reading every day from the Sacred Scriptures to help deepen our relationship with God? Or, why don't we ask one another if we are participating more fully, and more often, in the Holy Eucharist as we receive the one gift that truly matters, the gift of Jesus' body and blood in Holy Communion?

Again, I admit that this is a busy and exciting time of the year. I remember my childhood, and how I would get just as excited as any child does today in anticipation of Christmas day. Unwrapping presents on Christmas morning is a wonderful time for children, and their parents. But you know what? I honestly do not remember a single present that I opened on Christmas morning when I was a child. Not a single one! I will tell you what I do remember though. I remember Christmas Eve as a very special time. My father sang in the church choir on Christmas Eve, so we would all go to Midnight Mass early to hear the choir singing Christmas Carols. I was an altar server, so my brother and I always served at the Midnight Mass which was always beautiful.

Of course, my brother and I were always up early Christmas morning, and we would open presents. Then we would get ready, and go to my grandparent's house by 9:00 am to meet up with the rest of my mother's siblings and their family. Then we would travel house to house to share some stories and laughter in each other's company. Finally, that evening, we would go to my father's sister's house to meet up with the Keough family for more laughter, music, and joy. Those times with family are what I remember, not presents!

Jesus told us to build up treasures in heaven. Those treasures are not material possessions or what presents we receive on Christmas day. Those treasures are the memories we have of the love we share with family, friends, and even strangers. Those treasures are the way we live our lives in service of one another as disciples of Jesus. I urge all of you to enjoy all the excitement of the season, but always keep in mind what is truly most important, the coming of our Lord, Jesus Christ! God bless.

Deacon Chris

Nurses' Notes:

Health Tips: Joyful holidays: Tamp down the stress and ramp up the fun this season! If your holiday memories recall Dickens — "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times..." — it's high time you create a new game plan. While a certain amount of stress comes with the season, a few simple steps can tip the scales toward joy. Here are a few helpful tips for letting the magic of the holidays shine through: Cover your bases. The daily habits that keep you feeling good all year, like regular exercise, sound sleep, and nourishing meals, can slip away during the holidays faster than you can whistle "Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer." But you need them now more than ever. Resist the urge to burn the midnight oil wrapping gifts, stick with your morning walk, and find five minutes a day to sit in a quiet space, close your eyes, and focus on your breathing. That inner calm will help you manage any "outer" chaos. Less is more. Instead of bouncing around to four holiday parties in a night, pick one (at most, two). If you're hosting a holiday gathering, keep your menu simple and nourishing rather than elaborate — and take people up on their offers to help. Brainstorm ways to simplify gift-giving with your family and friends, such as doing a Yankee swap or going in on a group experience. Focus on fun. There is nothing like music to transform drudgery into delight! Crank up your favorite tunes, whether Jay-Z or Tchaikovsky, and you'll find yourself sailing through tasks with a smile. Splice in a family dance party for extra credit, extra exercise — and extra endorphins. . <http://www.clevelandclinicwellness.com>
