Quotes from the Saint:

"Without the priest, the passion and death of our Lord would be of no avail. It is the priest who continues the work of redemption here on earth...What use would be a house filled with gold, were there no one to open its door? The priest holds the key to the treasures of heaven: it is he who opens the door: he is the steward of the good Lord; the administrator of His goods...Leave a parish for twenty years without a priest and they will end by worshipping the beasts there. The priest is not a priest for himself, he is a priest for you."

~St. Jean-Marie Vianney

August 4th: Feast of St. Jean Marie Vianney

Saint Jean-Baptiste-Marie Vianney was born on May 8, 1786. He was a priest of France and is venerated as the patron saint of parish priests. He is often referred to as the "Curé d'Ars" (i.e. the parish priest of Ars), internationally known for his priestly and pastoral work in his parish in Ars, France, because of the radical spiritual transformation of the community and its surroundings. Catholics attribute this to his saintly life, mortification, persevering ministry in the sacrament of confession, and ardent devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

By 1790, the anticlerical Terror phase of the French Revolution forced many loyal priests to hide from the regime in order to carry out the Sacraments in their parish. Even though to do so had been declared illegal, the Vianneys traveled to distant farms to attend Masses celebrated by priests on the run. Realizing that such priests risked their lives day by day, Vianney began to look upon them as heroes. He received his First Communion catechism instructions in a private home from two nuns whose communities had been dissolved during the Revolution. He made his First Communion at the age of 13 in a neighbor's kitchen; during the Mass, the windows were covered so that the light of the candles could not be seen from the outside. His practice of the faith continued in secret, especially during his preparation for confirmation.

The Catholic Church was re-established in France in 1802 by Napoleon Bonaparte, resulting in religious peace throughout the country. By this time, Vianney was concerned about his future vocation and longed for an education. He was 20 when his father allowed him to leave the farm to be taught at a "presbytery-school" in the neighboring village, conducted by the Abbé Balley. The school taught arithmetic, history, geography and Latin. Vianney struggled with school, especially with Latin, since his past education had been interrupted by the French Revolution. Only because of Vianney's deepest desire to be a priest—and Balley's patience—did he persevere.

Balley persuaded the Vicar general that Vianney's piety was great enough to compensate for his ignorance, and the seminarian was ordained priest on August 12, 1815. In 1818 he was appointed parish priest of the parish of Ars, a town of 230 inhabitants. St. Jean Marie became lost trying to find the town. He met a local boy who put the stranger on the right road. "My young friend," said the priest, by way of thanking the lad, "you have shown me the way to Ars; I shall show you the way to heaven." The young shepherd added that the spot where they stood marked the boundary of the parish. On hearing this the new curé knelt down to pray.

St. Jean Marie Vianney came to be known internationally for his holiness and skill as a confessor, and people from distant places began travelling to consult him as early as 1827. "By 1855, the number of pilgrims had reached 20,000 a year. During the last ten years of his life, he spent 16 to 18 hours a day in the confessional. Even the bishop forbade him to attend the annual retreats of the diocesan clergy because of the souls awaiting him yonder". St. Jean Marie died on August 4th, 1859.

"What love is there like to that of Jesus Christ? He chose for the institution of the Eucharist the eve of the day on which He was to be put to death! Men weave the darkest plots against Him, and He thinks only what is the most precious gift He can give them! They think only of lifting Him on an infamous cross to die. He thinks only of raising an altar on which to immolate Himself each day for us."

~ St. John Vianney
