The Thirtieth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples for Jesus

ALL SAINTS DAY MASS SCHEDULE (Holy Day of Obligation)

Friday, Nov. 1st, 12:00 pm, Frankfort

All Saints Day Background

According to some sources, the idea for All Saint's Day goes back to the fourth century when the Greek Christians kept a festival on the first Sunday after Pentecost (in late May or early June) in honor of all martyrs and saints.

Pope Gregory IV
made All Saint's Day an authorized holiday in 837 CE. It is speculated that the chosen date for the event, November 1st may have been an attempt to supplant pagan festivals that occurred around the same time. It is the day after the feast of All Hallows' Evening (also known as Halloween).

This solemnity comes from the Christian tradition of celebrating the martyrdom of saints on the anniversary of their death.

All Souls Day

This day is a Christian festival that honors all souls of Christians who have died. Observing Christians usually remember and pray for the souls of people who are in Purgatory, the place in which those who have died atone for their sins before being granted the vision of God in heaven.

The thought behind this is that when a soul leaves a body it is not entirely cleansed from sins. Purgatory is a beautiful sign of God's infinite love.
The best way to help the souls in purgatory is the Mass, the Rosary, the Way of the Cross, & Eucharistic Adoration. Of the four the holy sacrifice of Mass is the highest act of worship, the highest form of prayer and the most efficacious means to help the souls in Purgatory.

WORLD PRIEST DAY TODAY

Heavenly Father, we come before you today to ask your blessing on our brothers whom you have called to the Sacrament of Holy Orders. Lord Jesus we ask that you support them with your presence and fill them with grace to serve you faithfully. Gracious Spirit, unite us in spirit with those whom you have called. Open our hearts to encourage our brothers and sons to pursue your calling and open their hearts to hear your call to this most Holy Sacrament. Amen.

God Bless you Fr. Anthony, you are loved and appreciated!

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

Our self-image, especially our spiritual self-image, is a funny thing. So often it can be totally unreliable because it is based on erroneous information. Rather than basing our self-image on serious, prayerful reflection—"I bid every one among you not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think with sober judgment, each according to the measure of faith which God has assigned him" (Romans 12:3)—, we more often base it on distorted feedback, the comparing of ourselves with others. Comparing ourselves with others, especially to determine how we are doing spiritually, provides the same unreliable feedback as do the distortions of a fun-house mirror. When we compare ourselves with others some parts of our being are made larger than they are, while other parts are made more diminutive, it just depends on the mirror, or the person, against whom the comparison is made. Jesus in this week's Gospel reading deplores the inevitable self-righteousness that grows from these illegitimate comparisons. They are illegitimate because the comparison is invariably with people whom we believe are greater sinners than are we. When we compare the spiritual grayness of our life over against the utter blackness of a greater sinner, our spiritual self-image is greatly distorted and made to appear quite a bit lighter and brighter than it really may be. However, when we compare the spiritual grayness of our life over against the brilliant light of Jesus' righteousness, and his expectations for our holiness, we see our spiritual grayness for what it truly is, a terrible darkness in need of cleansing. That is undoubtedly why Jesus commended the tax collector for his attitude of contrition, for he rightly assessed his spiritual condition. With a little bit of effort the publican could have undoubtedly found someone with whom to compare himself whose sins were greater than his own and who would have made him look a little better, but he didn't. He refused to justify himself, instead he compared himself against his understanding of God's standard and found himself wanting. So in honest and vulnerable contrition he prayed for mercy. Jesus commended the publican for his spiritual honesty rather than condemning him for being such a terrible sinner. This is an important concept to grasp. As far as Jesus is concerned honest contrition warrants justification whereas dishonest self-justification warrants condemnation. When we attempt to justify ourselves and distort our spiritual record by comparing our self with others we are saying to God, "I don't need you to justify me, I can do it myself." However, when we recognize our sinfulness and in true contrition ask for his mercy, and when we admit that we cannot justify our self but are deserving of God's condemnation, Jesus steps forward in his mercy and justifies us through his sacrifice on the cross. Dietrich Von Hilderbrand, in the book Transformation in Christ, captures the process that true contrition entails, based on an accurate assessment of our spiritual self. "The initial step of the soul's meeting with God bears the mark of contrition. The man whose heart is smitten by the word of Christ, whom Jesus' face has brought to his knees, will at first say with St. Peter: 'Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord.' (Luke 5:8) Confrontation of our own selves with God renders us conscious of our unworthiness and sinfulness." Then when we come to this self-realization and repudiate evil, and revert to God, we are ready for his cleansing of the stain of guilt. Von Hilderbrand goes on to explain, "That guilt can only be eliminated by God's act of pardon, and be compensated for by the blood of Christ, of which it is said in the hymn of St. Thomas: 'Of which a single drop, for sinners spilt, can purge the entire world from all its guilt.'"
