Pope Francis

Jesus asks his disciples who they think the Son of Man is. Speaking for all the disciples Simon Peter answers, "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God." (Matthew 16:16). Jesus blesses Simon Peter for his response, naming him "Cephas," the word for "rock," and telling him that upon this rock he would build his Church. The gates of hell would not prevail against it.

"Peter is the rock, the visible foundation of the Church's unity; but every baptized person is called to offer Jesus his or her lowly but sincere faith."

Prayer

Lord Jesus, let us love you with a sincere heart so we may dwell in your house our whole life long.

fill the heart with bitterness.*

Mourning our Barrenness

by Ron Rolheiser, OMI

Several years ago, while teaching a summer course at Seattle University, I had as one of my students, a woman who, while happily married, was unable to conceive a child. She had no illusions about what this meant for her. It bothered her a great deal. She found Mother's Day very difficult. Among other things, she wrote a well-researched thesis on the concept of barrenness in scripture and developed a retreat on that same theme which she offered at various renewal centers.

Being a celibate whose vows also conscript a certain biological barrenness, I went on one of her weekend retreats, the only male there. It was a powerful group experience, but it took most of the weekend for that to happen. Initially most everyone on the retreat was tentative and shy, not wanting to admit to themselves or others the kind of pain the loss of biological parenthood was creating in their lives. But things broke open on the Saturday night, after the group watched a video of a 1990s British film, Secrets and Lies, a subtle but powerful drama about the pain of not having children. The tears in the movie catalyzed tears within our group and the floodgates opened. Tears began to flow freely and one by one the women began to tell their stories. Then, after the tears and stories had stopped, the atmosphere changed, as if a fog had lifted and a weight had been removed. Lightness set in. Each person in the group had mourned her loss and now each felt a lightness in knowing that one might never have a child and still be a happy person, without denying the pain in that.

Barrenness is not just a term that describes a biological incapacity to have children or a life-choice to not have them. It's wider. Barrenness describes the universal human condition in its incapacity to be generative in the way it would like and the vacuum and frustration that leaves inside lives. Karl Rahner summarizes that in these words: In the torment of the insufficiency of everything attainable we ultimately learn that here, in this life, all symphonies must remain unfinished. No matter if we have biological children of our own or not, we still all find ourselves barren in that for none of us is there a finished symphony here on earth. There's always some barrenness left in our lives and biological barrenness is simply one analogate of that, though arguably the prime one. None of us die having given birth to all we wanted to in this world.

What do we do in the face of this? Is there an answer? Is there a response that can take us beyond simply gritting our teeth and stoically getting on with it? There is. The answer is tears. In mid-life and beyond, we need, as Alice Miller normatively suggests in her classic essay, The Drama of the Gifted Child, to mourn so that our very foundations are shaken. Many of our wounds are irreversible and many of our shortcomings are permanent. We will go to our deaths with this incompleteness. Our loss cannot be reversed. But it can be mourned, both what we lost and what we failed to achieve. In that mourning there is freedom.

I have always been struck by the powerful metaphor inside the story of Jephthah's daughter in the biblical story in the Book of Judges, chapter 11. It captures in an archetypal image the only answer there is, this side of eternity, to barrenness. Condemned to death in the prime of her youth by a foolish vow her father made, she tells her father that she is willing to die on the altar of sacrifice, but only on one condition. She will now die without experiencing either the consummation of marriage or the birthing of children. So she asks her father to give her two months before her death to "mourn her virginity". Properly mourned, an incomplete life can be both lived in peace and left in peace.

Tears are the answer to barrenness, to all loss and inadequacy. Marilyn Chandler McEntyre, in her book, A Faithful Farewell, has this to say about tears: "Tears release me into honest sorrow. They release me from the strenuous business of finding words. They release me into a childlike place where I need to be held and find comfort in embrace – in the arms of others and in the arms of God. Tears release me from the treadmill of anxious thoughts, and even from fear. They release me from the strain of holding them back. Tears are a consent to what is. They wash away, at least for a time, denial and resistance. They allow me to relinquish the self-deceptive notion that I'm in control. Tears dilute resentment and wash away the flotsam left by waves of anger."

Not insignificantly, tears are salt water. Human life originated in the oceans. Tears connect us to the source of all life on this earth, within which prodigal fecundity trumps all barrenness.

Pope appoints Bishop Deshotel to lead Lafayette

Please join me in congratulating Bishop Doug Deshotel on his appointment by Pope Francis as the new Bishop of the Diocese of Lafayette in Louisiana. The appointment was announced this morning in Washington, D.C. by the papal nuncio to the United States, Archbishop Carlo Maria Viganò. A news conference will be held at 11 a.m. in the Diocese of Lafayette.

The Holy Father has made an excellent decision in appointing Bishop Deshotel to lead the Catholic faithful in Lafayette. His knowledge of the diocese and the wonderful Cajun culture there will be a tremendous asset as he returns as the chief shepherd. His pastoral manner and deep devotion to our Church will certainly be missed by all in our diocese.

With the appointment, Bishop Deshotel will return to lead the diocese where he was born and raised and where his large extended family still lives today. Since entering Holy Trinity Seminary in 1972, Dallas has been his home. Bishop Doug told me that he will certainly miss the many good friends who have blessed his life for the last 43 years. I am certain, and I know you will agree, that he will be a tremendous blessing to the people of the Diocese of Lafayette.

Please pray for our friend, Bishop Doug, that God our Heavenly Father will bless him with wisdom, strength, peace and happiness as he begins this new chapter in his faithful ministry. You may read the news release that includes a more detailed history of Bishop Deshotel's life and ministry, as well as find a link to the live stream of the news conference that begins at 11 a.m. at www.cathdal.org. El Papa nombra al Obispo Douglas Deshotel Pastor de Lafayette Felicitemos al Obispo Doug Deshotel en ocasión de su nombramiento por el Papa Francisco como nuevo Obispo de la Diócesis de Lafayette en Louisiana. El nombramiento fue anunciado esta mañana en Washington, D.C. por el nuncio apostólico en los Estados Unidos, el Arzobispo Carlo Maria Viganò. Una conferencia de prensa tendrá lugar a las 11 a.m. en la Diócesis de Lafayette.

El Santo Padre ha tomado una excelente decisión al nombrar al Obispo Deshotel como guía de los fieles Católicos en Lafayette. Su conocimiento de la diócesis y de la maravillosa cultura Cajun será de gran beneficio a su regreso como pastor principal. Su trato pastoral y profunda devoción a nuestra Iglesia será, sin duda, extrañada por todos en nuestra diócesis.

Con el nombramiento, el Obispo Deshotel regresará a dirigir la diócesis que lo vio nacer y crecer y en la que radican sus familiares en la actualidad. Desde su ingreso al Seminario Holy Trinity en 1972, Dallas ha sido su hogar. El Obispo Deshotel me ha dicho que extrañará los tantos queridos amigos que han bendecido su vida durante los últimos 43 años. Estoy seguro, y estoy seguro que ustedes compartirán mi opinión, que será una gran bendición para las personas de la Diócesis de Lafayette.

Les pido que recuerden en sus oraciones a nuestro amigo, el Obispo Doug, que Dios nuestro Padre Celestial le conceda sabiduría, fortaleza, paz y felicidad al iniciar este nuevo capítulo en su fiel ministerio. En la conferencia de prensa podrá leer una historia más detallada de la vida y ministerio del Obispo Deshotel, así como un enlace a la transmisión en vivo de la conferencia de prensa que dará inicio a las 11:00 en www.cathdal.org.
