

CFAD Privacy and Terms of Use Statement

The Catholic Foundation in the Archdiocese of Dubuque October 19, 2020

Use of the Catholic Foundation in the Archdiocese of Dubuque's (CFAD) website by visitors and the website's data collection practices by CFAD are subject to the terms of this statement. This statement may change at any time and the updated version will be posted. This statement does not apply to third-party websites, which visitors may visit through links on CFAD's website, nor does CFAD assume responsibility for any data sharing visitors may engage in on third-party websites. Should visitors have questions, comments or concerns, please contact CFAD.

In general, when CFAD requests information, it is voluntary on visitors' parts to provide it to CFAD and is generally through the "contact us" or "donate" forms or other forms CFAD periodically uses. Information CFAD may collect and store includes: name, comments and email. In addition, for donations or certain forms, this includes: organization, phone, mailing address, donation amount, donation details (such as dates and honorariums or memorials), donation designation, payment method and other form details (such as demographic information for our photo contest). CFAD does not store specific financial information, such as credit card data.

When completing forms on the CFAD website, the IP address of the network visitors are using may also be collected with the personal information visitors provide. It is used only to administer CFAD's website and help diagnose server or website error reports.

Other information than outlined here may be requested depending on the circumstances, but it is completely voluntary to provide it.

In addition, when visitors interact with the website, servers used by CFAD may keep a log that does not identify visitors personally ("non-personal information") since CFAD does not combine it with any identifying information. CFAD uses this data to ensure the security and performance of its website, to mitigate website and server issues and to pursue its mission and better serve those interested in CFAD. This data includes:

- Device information used for accessing the website such as device type, platform, IP address, geolocation information, unique device identifiers, browser type, browser language and other transactional information; and
- Other "traffic data" such as time of access, date of access, error reports, pages accessed and referring website addresses.

Other non-personal information CFAD may collect includes:

- Demographic data such as age, gender, general interests and five-digit zip code;
- Usage information about what is accessed on the website including pages viewed and time spent on the website; and
- Search terms and search results.

There are many ways that visitors can control non-personal data that their computer sends to CFAD, but it depends largely on privacy settings visitors control through their internet browser. CFAD suggests that visitors utilize their internet browser setting options to control this.

CFAD does not sell, exchange or give away visitor data to those outside CFAD other than through ethical use through third-party contractors, affiliates who help us carry out the mission of CFAD or as required by law. All information is protected by physical, electronic and procedural safeguards as CFAD works to maintain up-to-date and appropriate security measures.

By accessing CFAD's website and the information it contains, including graphics, visitors agree and understand in good faith to the following:

The information has been provided in order to advance the public interest for educational and guidance purposes only and is not intended to provide specific commercial, financial, investment, accounting, tax or legal advice. Some of the materials on the CFAD site or its third-party site are subject to specific restrictions with respect to use. Visitors expressly agree that they will comply with any and all such restrictions and if they have questions may contact CFAD.

CFAD disclaims any responsibility or liability for any issues resulting from downloading or accessing any information or material through the products and services. CFAD shall not be liable for any cost or damage arising either directly or indirectly from visitors' use of the site. Visitors agree to indemnify and hold CFAD and its officers, agents and employees harmless from any claim or demand, including reasonable attorneys' fees, made by any third-party due to or arising out of visitors' use of the site, their connection to the site, their violation of the terms of use or their violation of any rights of another person or entity.
