This seminar provides engaged couples with a unique opportunity for learning and exploring the art of communication. They will hear from experienced married couples who know well the day-to-day challenges the world presents. They share their knowledge in ways that couples can relate with an integrated focus on body, mind and spirit. The professional presentations are united in scope and focus to show vividly how God is integral to the love shared in married life.

The wife must love her husband as if there were no other man in the world, in much the same way as the husband should love her as if no other woman existed. Saint Robert Bellarmine
