Epiphany Sunday

A Prayerful Reflection Welcoming A New Year

As we bid farewell to 2020, let us prayerfully reflect on and welcome the New Year of 2021, reminding ourselves that “Jesus Is The Answer For The World Today.” I want to share, for your reflection, these words penned by Howard Thurman:

In many ways beyond all calculation and reflection, our lives have been deeply touched and influenced by the character, the teaching, and the spirit of Jesus of Nazareth. He moves in and out upon the horizon of our days like some fleeting ghost. At times when we are least aware and least prepared, some startling clear thrust of his mind is our portion—the normal tempo of our ways is turned back upon itself and we are reminded of what we are, and what life is. Often the judgement of such moments is swift and silencing: sometimes his insights kindle a wistful longing in the heart, softened by the muted cadence of unfulfilled dreams and unrealized hopes. Sometimes his words stir to life long forgotten resolutions, call to mind an earlier time when our feet were set in a good path and our plan was holy. Like a great wind they move, fanning into flame the burning spirit of the living God, and our leaden spirits are given wings that sweep beyond all vistas and beyond all horizons.

There is no way to balance the debt we owe to the spirit which he let loose in the world. It is upon this that we meditate now in the gathering quietness. Each of us, in his own way, finds the stairs leading to a Holy Place. We gather the fragments of our lives, searching eagerly for some wholeness, some all-encompassing unity, capable of stilling the tempests within us and quieting all the inner turbulence of our fears. We seek to walk in our own path which opens before us, made clear by the light of his Spirit and the radiance which it casts all around us. We join him in the almighty trust that God is our Father and we are his children living under the shadow of His Spirit.

Accept the offering of our lives, O God; we do not quite know what to do with them. We place them before Thee as they are, encumbered and fragmented, with no hints, no suggestions, no attempts to order the working of Thy Spirit upon us. Accept our lives, our Father—work them over. Correct them. Purify them. Hold them in Thy focus lest we perish and the spirit within us dies.

And as we welcome 2021: May knowing Jesus bring us peace to bless each day, hope for each tomorrow and joy for every season.

Happy New Year, and remember
“Jesus is the answer for the world today!”

New Year!
