Missalettes

Bring your missalettes with you from home and do not leave them in the church. The blue vinyl covers are still being collected by simply depositing them in the empty racks in church. The next “installment” will be in February. Extra Spanish Misal del Día are available (they last the entire year as they are only for Sunday readings) by simply asking the ushers. Again, even with these, it is important to bring/take home and not ask for a new one each time coming to Mass as there is only a limited number...and as you’ve heard previously...these annual subscriptions are a major expense for the parish family.

Homebound Communion

As a reminder, those who have been on the homebound Communion list as well as the Extraordinary Ministers who bring them the Sacrament are expected to discuss between the minister and the recipient if they desire to resume the practice. At present, several of our homebound extraordinary ministers are exercising caution for their health as well as the homebound in opting not to resume the ministry just yet. The core issue must be the concern and precaution on both sides of the practice. In situations where someone would like to receive homebound Communion they are welcomed to contact the parish. An ideal situation would be to arrange for a family member/friend who is able and who frequents the home of the homebound to simply have a “quick” training and then commence weekly bringing the Sacrament. This is referencing long-term reception at home. In an emergency the Sacrament will be brought immediately when requested.

Hospital, Nursing Homes and Assisted Living Facilities

Again – as an exercise of precaution on everyone’s part – the parish has not resumed bringing Holy Communion to these facilities. When the situation improves and access/visitation is “normalized,” the practice will then begin.

Continuing Precautions

All are required to social distance, use hand sanitizer and practice good hygiene when coming to Mass. If you are feeling a bit under the weather (sneezing or coughing) it would best to remain at home until the situation improves. Our ushers (wearing masks and gloves) are already having to search for available spaces at certain Masses and have had to turn some away when the church is at capacity. Please be patient and understanding as having to turn anyone away is regrettable. By the way, on a related topic to the precautions, and if truly needed--then it is fine--but during the last month the usher’s “supply” of gloves is being “cleaned out” on Sunday afternoons--even after the Masses are concluded and they are put in storage. If someone is in need of gloves or masks at home simply call the office and they’ll be provided.
