We are so thankful for our partnership with Catholic Daughters of the Americas. Their commitment to join our mission to build up vibrant and transformative faith communities shows such inspiring devotion to the Church and to the poor.

REV. JOHN J. WALL
President, Catholic Extension
MY DEAR CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS IN CHRIST,

The season of Advent is the time given to us by the Church to prepare ourselves to celebrate the birth of Christ at Christmas. We make of our hearts the stable in which Mary and Joseph seek shelter and in which the infant King is born. This takes great effort. In our fallen human nature, it is far easier to allow our heart to be made into the inn full of “important people,” in which God finds no welcome.

We can, however, overcome these worldly orientations. It helps to contemplate the significance of Christ’s birth. When God became man to suffer and die for us, to save us from sin and death, He might, had He so wished, have appeared as an adult: the conquering hero enters, stage right, as it were, on the morning on which He was baptized by John the Baptist.

But He did not wish this. He freely chose to endure, or rather, to share with us in every sense, the full experience of being human, save only that He did not sin. He chose to begin at the moment of conception, in Mary’s willing womb. He, the God and Creator of the universe, chose to be born just as we all are, and to accept the helplessness of the infant, entirely dependent on Mary and Joseph for everything. He chose to grow and learn, as we all do, to be hungry and tired, to submit to the authority of others, to work with His hands in Mary’s kitchen and in Joseph’s shop.

We don’t remember our own infancy, but so many of you, as mothers, know in the most intimate way what it means to embrace an infant in your loving arms. You know what it means for that child to be loved, unconditionally, simply for being. You know, because you have loved another in that way, how the simple knowledge that one is loved makes all other growth and choices possible.

This is the human life and love which God chose in the Incarnation. This is what we celebrate at Christmas – Christ’s birth, yes, both then in the manger and now in our hearts; the birth of our faith, and our Church, and our salvation, of course. But also, we come to understand, the birth of a new hope, a new freedom to love, a new tenderness between all the brothers and sisters of the human family. When we live in Christ and for Christ, when we love God and neighbor unselfishly, as Christ commanded and modeled, then we, too, “choose life and love,” in imitation of His empowering choice.

It is a sad irony of our fallen humanity that our celebration of the Christmas season is marred by the anniversary of imposing legal abortion on our country – a contemporary “slaughter of the innocents,” and the very antithesis of choosing life and love. Christ’s full union with our humanity allows us to have compassion on all the victims of this terrible choice – not only the babies, but their siblings who know they are missing a brother or sister to love, the mothers who regret their choice and are agonized by not having loved, the fathers whose children were taken from them. We renew all our efforts to change both the law and the hearts and minds of our country, so that, once again, choosing life and love will be the only imaginable choice.

My dear sisters in Christ, in fidelity to our Lord Jesus Christ, may we make a lasting home for Him in our hearts, and thus live our noble vocations as baptized believers, as wife and mother, and as sister in the human family with generous, Christ-like love for all. May all the joys and blessings of the seasons of Advent and Christmas be yours, and may God bless you and yours most abundantly. Please pray for me, as I pray earnestly for all of you.

Your brother in Christ,
Most Reverend R. Walker Nickless
Bishop of Sioux City
About the Cover

The beautiful picture on the Cover was taken at the first of three “Faithful Women Set the World on Fire” retreats held by National Secretary-Treasurer Connie Dronette. The picture shows hands of retreatants extending to the center, each holding rosary beads. It symbolizes the spiritual unity that can be experienced when praying the rosary with others and was one of the many ways in which the retreats brought Catholic Daughters together and nourished their faith.

Choose Life and Love

Choose life and love. “I call heaven and earth to record this day against you that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing, therefore choose life.” (Deut. 30:19)

First “choosing life” involves loving God. Not grade school Valentine kind of love. Nor the infatuation or selfish kind of love that says, “I love you because you make me feel so good.” Rather, it is the Godly marriage kind of love, whole hearted love. Deuteronomy 6:5 says, “Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength.” Therefore, to “Choose Life” we must have a change of heart. And that change can only come through faith in Jesus, who graciously teaches us, “I am the way, the truth and the life, no one comes to the Father except through Me;” (Jn.14:6) and again Jesus tells us, “You did not choose Me but I chose you and appointed you to go and bear fruit...” Jn.15:16. “Bearing fruit,” “Choosing life,” living by God’s commands is God’s gracious work in us, daily turning us away from sinful self and in true repentance “being turned back” to Jesus.

Through the daily blessings of Holy Baptism and through the daily blessings of God’s gracious Word and Sacraments, we CAN and DO “Choose life,” live in the blessings of Eternal Life with Jesus, now and eternally. With the Apostle Paul we rejoice, “I have been crucified with Christ and I no longer live, but Christ lives in me. The life I live in the Body, I live by faith in the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me.” Gal 2:20

God says, “Choose life, that both you and your descendants may live.” God wants you to live a blessed, full and flourishing, prosperous life, and He knows that the only way for that to happen is to make the right choices. And in this case, that choice is life. When you choose life, you and your descendents declare and show that you serve the living God who definitely wants only good for you and not evil. You declare and show that God is your God by the choices you make. God bless you all.
Thérèse of Lisieux is one of the most popular saints in the world, but the details of her life and spirituality are still not widely known and are somewhat of a mystery even to her devoted followers.

With over 150 stunning photographs, profound text, and plentiful sidebars on history, geography, and spiritual themes, this gorgeous work by Fr. Didier-Marie Golay, O.C.D. helps us enter into the universe of "the greatest saint of modern times" to discover the simplicity, yet depth of her daily life and of her relationships, both human and spiritual.

Her whole life is encapsulated in her poem "Living on Love": a passionate love of Christ lived out in the everyday joys and trials of life, in inner and outer sufferings. Living on love is a spiritual program for life, but to live it requires a special grace for which we must ask, especially through the intercession of the "Little Flower" of Jesus – who is also a Doctor of the Church. This unique, stunning, and very beautiful work will inspire readers to desire to imitate St. Thérèse in "living on love". Lavishly Illustrated—Color, B & W

MY DEAR SISTERS IN CHRIST,

We are almost at the end of another year! What difference have we made in our personal lives? Our spiritual lives? With our families? With our courts?

A new year starts with vigor and making many promises that we will change our lives to make a difference in our world. What was on your list?

Have we added more time for talking to God? How about listening to God? The Magnificat has helped in my prayer life. It contains a simple morning and evening prayer plus a saint of the day.

The lives of the saints are interesting. Our beloved saints lived very simple ordinary lives. Anyone can become a saint. Isn’t that our purpose in life? From the Baltimore Catechism we learn that we are on this earth to know, love and serve God and our neighbor here on earth and join God in heaven.

One of the best places to know, love and serve God is in our beautiful organization, the Catholic Daughters of the Americas. The Circle of Love is a perfect start for changing our lives. Start with spending more time with Jesus. Read the Bible every day. Thank God for every day. Give from your heart by visiting the sick, praying for all God’s people, giving food to the hungry and clothing to those in need or preparing a Box of Joy. Study the lives of the saints then imitate them in your life. Share your God-given talents at home, work or the church.

With the many challenges in this pandemic year, have we spent more time listening to, talking with and enjoying our families? A weekly game night is one great way to set time aside for just being with our loved ones. Attending Mass as a family is a wonderful way to tell our children without saying a word that God is important to this family. Many ball games, parties and gatherings were curtailed this year giving each one of us an opportunity to gather as family. Remember Father Peyton and his words, “The family that prays together, stays together.” As prayerful women, may we always remember in our prayers our loved ones here on earth, those who are in heaven and our great organization.

The March for Life will be held January 21, 2022. Your national officers and directors will be attending the Vigil Mass at the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception the evening of January 20. Please pray for us as we travel to Washington, DC, and march with many other pilgrims to support life from conception to natural death.

Most courts have returned to in-person meetings. The challenge of Zoom meetings, planning a fund-raiser or just keeping members informed was difficult this year. Are we better about coming to our local meetings and volunteering because we missed that during the challenging pandemic?

Am I pleased with who I was this past year? Could I have been kinder to everyone, even those I did not know? Was I willing to take a chance to make life a little better for my family? My court? My world?

So, my dear sisters, we have another chance to make a difference! Take that chance with a smile, and “Let all you do be done with love.” 1 Cor 16:14

The First Call to the 59th Biennial Convention in San Juan, Puerto Rico, will be sent in December. Consider attending the convention. Our sisters in Puerto Rico are planning a beautiful convention.

And they love to party! Tuesday evening, July 19, Father Willie Peña, and his students from the college will be presenting a tribute to Puerto Rico. Father is known for his fabulous productions. This will be an evening to remember. Interesting tours will be available. We have important business to complete. Please send your suggested bylaw changes to Carolyn Malik, National Bylaw Chairman, P.O. Box 243, Shiner, TX 77984 by January 15, 2022.

May love and laughter light your days and warm your hearts and homes.

God bless you in the new year.
If you haven't registered for CDA's National Convention in Puerto Rico next summer, what are you waiting for? If you are waiting for a sign that you need to attend, then look no further; this is it! Join me and your sister Catholic Daughters as we take over Puerto Rico in the fabulous flair the Catholic Daughters bring wherever we go. Sip margaritas on a beach, relax by your hotel pool, fall asleep on a hammock in the shade; it's all waiting for you.

Most of all, join with Catholic Daughters from around the country as we celebrate our faith, struggles, and triumphs in this wonderful, four-day event. Best part? No passport is needed! My sisters on the National Board join me in our invitation to you. Don't struggle with the "FOMO" (Fear Of Missing Out). The only thing you should struggle with is picking which sandals to wear while strolling on white-sand beaches. The island of Puerto Rico is waiting to enchant you, so register soon while space is available. Don't put it off until next year - gift this blessing to yourself now. I'll see you on the beach!

Recently, I was blessed to be able to attend the National Council of Catholic Women Convention and spoke with a remarkable woman of God, Ms. Tessie O’Dea. She works for the ministry Cross Catholic Outreach, and after speaking for just a few moments, I want to encourage you all to do something incredible; it has to do with Cross Catholic Outreach’s “Box of Joy” campaign.

As we prepare to enter the joyous season of Advent, I would like to invite each court to consider making Box of Joy their central project. This amazing mission involves hundreds of parishes, thousands of volunteers, and one common goal: to fill boxes with essentials and transport them to the impoverished and vulnerable children in dire situations. These boxes will be filled with toiletries, school supplies, rosaries, toys, and clothing to children in countries such as Guatemala, El Salvador, the Dominican Republic, the Bahamas, Haiti, and Nicaragua. Just last year over 1,352 volunteers in 724 parishes worked joyfully and diligently to send Boxes of Joy to 61,422 children in seven impoverished countries, and this year, Catholic Daughters is joining the mission.

What can you do to help? There are many ways. You can involve your parish by being a donation site. Your court can set a goal of how many children you’re hoping to bless, and then work together to receive donations for those boxes. Ask for donations at different parish Masses. Create donation drop-off bins. Or, encourage each family in your parish to put together just one box. We can easily work together to make a difference and to share the love of Christ.

Once you sign up for Box of Joy or ask for information you will receive the address of where to send the boxes and an envelope with all the details and information of what you can buy.

If that doesn’t seem like something your court is interested in doing, there are links where you or your court members may donate to the boxes online via Amazon Prime. Lastly, there is even a website which allows courts to donate a flat fee to this ministry through the web addresses featured below:

Amazon Donations: https://tinyurl.com/boxofjoyCDA
Cross Catholic Direct Monetary Donation: https://crosscatholic.org/box-of-joy/online/

I encourage you all to say “yes” to making this ministry something that we all do to bless God’s children. Every Box of Joy represents one child who will feel loved, honored, and cared for. If your court can create just one box, or provide the financial means to bring a box to a child, imagine what a difference that will make in his/her life! These boxes may seem so small in size, but their blessings are abundant in the hearts of children. Be generous and help us provide for the most vulnerable in our world. If you or your court is not able to take on this project this year please consider it for next year, also please let me know if you participated. I would love to hear from you.

I ask for your prayers for this endeavor as we prepare to do something amazing for Advent. You are in my prayers constantly. 🌟
We often hear conversations that include how much one loves their family, friends, work, prayer groups, fighting for rights and helping others in need. We know that love can be shown in many different forms. As leaders, one’s love should be in the form of Christian love to include kindness and respect. Having the ability to include love, kindness and respect in our CDA activities and communications will make a huge impact on the survivorship of our CDA organization.

There are numerous ways to show members how we can incorporate love, kindness, and respect in our leadership role. Below are a few examples:

- Interacting or communicating with others. Our tone of voice can play a huge role in how members will react to different situations.

- Show members how much they are appreciated. A handwritten thank you note or phone call is more personal than an email. Go one step further and acknowledge members publicly.

- Offer encouragement. If we see or learn that a new officer is struggling, offer kind words that will give her the boost she needs.

- Ask members how they are doing and really mean it. This will let members know we really care about them.

- Offer support or help in time of need. Pray for members and ask what we can do to help.

- Train rather than criticize. If a member is not meeting the assigned expectations offer support to include training.

- Keep lines of communication open. Let members know that we are available to assist them at any time. Do not assume they know.

- Offer respect. Let members know their opinions and suggestions count. One may not like another’s opinion or suggestion; however, it is important to stay in a loving and accepting mode. This will let others know that we are approachable and that their opinion is appreciated.

- Have a listening ear. Do not be in a position where we are doing all the talking. Give members the opportunity to express themselves. A good listener relates not only to hearing the words of the speaker but also to paying close attention to the non-verbal signals (gestures and body language) and sending them back to the speaker. Hearing is a physical ability and listening is a learned skill. Learn it. During our waking hours, we are communicating 80% of the time. At least 45% of that time we should be listening.

- Show compassion. when a member is having a family issue or is just going through a rough time. Remember, we never know what a member is experiencing in her personal life. If a member wants to share; just listen to what she has to say. There are times when members just need someone to listen.

Receive members unconditionally...Withhold judgment, welcome diversity of self-expression.

As we continue to grow in our leadership roles, we must constantly nourish the seeds of kindness, love and respect.

“The fruit of love is service, which is compassion in action.” Mother Teresa
A pilgrimage is a sacred and holy journey. It is a trip that is not meant to simply get away from the mundane, but also to allow oneself to encounter, see, and experience the Divine. It is accomplished by traveling with holy people, visiting holy places, and responding in faith.

Many pilgrimages, including the CDA pilgrimage to Poland, scheduled for last year and this year were cancelled or postponed because of COVID. Travel outside the country continues to be difficult. I was blessed to join the New York CDA in a pilgrimage to Mexico in October. It was my first organized pilgrimage and was a trip of a lifetime. Gazing on the image that the Blessed Virgin Mary left on St. Juan Diego's tilma is impossible to describe. It was a spiritual experience that I will never forget.

When I returned, all I could think of was going on another pilgrimage. One day I want to make a pilgrimage to the Holy Land and Rome. With my present commitments, it isn't a trip that I can take right now, but I have realized that there are some pilgrimages that I can take with my family or CDA sisters right here in the US. I have many on my bucket list, but I decided to do a little research on other sacred places that can be visited during an extended weekend or over a few days.

I have always wanted to visit the National Shrine of Divine Mercy in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, on Divine Mercy Sunday. Each year, I always watch the live broadcast on EWTN. The Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament in Hanceville, Alabama, is another shrine on my bucket list. This shrine was built by Mother Angelica and is often seen on EWTN. Does anyone want to meet me there?

There are many shrines dedicated to The Blessed Virgin Mary around the country. I recently visited a beautiful shrine in Portland while visiting my CDA sisters in Oregon. The Grotto, The National Sanctuary of Our Sorrowful Mother, is a beautiful garden of our Blessed Mother under one of her many titles. A couple of years ago, I attended the National March for Life in Washington, DC. I attended the vigil Mass at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. My mother visited with many of her CDA sisters and had such fond memories of the National Basilica of the Immaculate Conception. Even though I had seen the pictures that Momma had taken, I was overwhelmed by the beauty and... peace of the Basilica. I had traveled to both of the cities before, but had not visited these sacred places. Now, anytime I visit a new city, I google churches and shrines in the city before I arrive and make plans to visit them.

There are several other Marian Shrines that I want to visit. The Basilica of the National Shrine of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary near Baltimore, Maryland, is our country's first cathedral. I hope to visit the National Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in Emmitsburg, Maryland, that is situated on sixty acres that include lush gardens, a pond, rosary paths, devotional areas, and St. Mary's Chapel on the Hill. The stone Grotto cave was built in 1875 as a replica of the miraculous Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France. I hope to visit the Shrine of Our Lady of LaSalette in Attleboro, Massachusetts. But the one that is on the top of my list is the Shrine of Our Lady of Good Help in Champion, Wisconsin. It is the site of the only approved apparition of the Virgin Mary in the United States. Why not find a Marian Shrine near you to visit?

As many of you know, I have a love for the Saints. I discovered many shrines dedicated to Saints across the United States. I visited the Shrine of St. Joseph in St. Louis, Missouri. I also visited a Shrine for a Saint in the making—The National Shrine of Blessed Xavier Seelos in New Orleans, Louisiana. I want to visit so many more, and there are so many around the county. There are three shrines dedicated to St. Therese of Lisieux, also known as the Little Flower. They are located in Nasonville, Rhode Island; Royal Oak, Michigan; and San Antonio, Texas. San Antonio is only five hours away from our home, and I have visited many times without realizing it was there. I would love to visit the Basilica of the National Shrine of St. Ann, Mother of Mary, in Scranton, Pennsylvania. There are Shrines dedicated to St. Kateri Tekakwitha, St. Bernadette, St. Elizabeth Ann Seton, St. Francis of Assisi, and many more. Why not find a Shrine that honors a saint near you?

This December, I will be visiting New York City. I can't wait to visit St. Patrick's Cathedral. I hope to visit the National Shrine of St. Mother Cabrini while I am there, too. I will call it my Christmas pilgrimage. Why not find a sacred place to visit this Christmas or New Year? Perhaps, some of your CDA sisters would be interested in joining you! ☃️
Excitement is in the air at this time of the year. Leaves changing colors, the weather turning cooler, the cheer of the holidays! Aw! I just love this time of the year. We should all be focusing on the changes in our courts, too, especially growing our membership. And there’s a Membership Contest to add to the excitement!

Are you focused on growing your court? Has your court planned a fun or eventful activity, or a membership drive, to arouse new interest in membership in your court? Many times, we are our worst enemy when it comes to recruitment. We are hidden from the public eye with our great works. Why? Because we don’t market ourselves well; let your light shine! Remember it’s very important always to let others know who we are and what we do. The wonderful projects your court is involved in can help to grow your membership by including your church parish to help. Ask your parishioners or community to contribute. However, always be sure they know who is leading this endeavor.

Market yourselves. We must brand ourselves for others to hear about us. As Chairman for Membership and Development and being very involved in development for my state, I hear from many pastors and women that they have never heard about the Catholic Daughters. When helping one of our older courts with recruitment, I have heard comments, such as, “I have never heard about Catholic Daughters,” and that court has been in their parish for over 100 years. Or, “No one has ever asked me.” What does that tell us? We need to work on improving that by letting everyone know about our great organization. Here are a few ideas to help make that happen.

- Put an article in your church bulletin about projects you’ve worked on, at least monthly, if your pastor allows. Let the world know about your Court and its good works.
- Post flyers around your area focusing on upcoming projects.
- Make business cards for your members with the Membership Chairman’s contact information. It’s good to include the meeting date, time and location.
- Send articles to your local community paper and your diocesan paper.
- Wear your CDA colors with pride.

Our Membership Contest in in full swing. Remember you are the light of Christ in this world. Go out and shine your light! Join in the excitement, and let’s all be winners.

Setting off early Friday morning to the Catholic Conference Center in Hickory, North Carolina, Anne Burgan, Immediate Past State Regent of Maryland, and I had plenty of time to chat and catch up during our seven hour drive down the busy interstate.

Three National Officers, Regent, Sherry Nilles, Second Vice Regent, Essie Walker, and Secretary-Treasurer and retreat facilitator, Connie Dronette greeted us with big hugs. National Directors Carolyn Malik, Dawn Fortenberry and Michele Bowman escorted us to our rooms to get settled in.

Representing nine states from the east coast to Texas, twenty-four daughters spent the weekend being “inspired by the stories of women who lived out God’s will in their lives and brought love and hope to the world around them.”

Meals were definitely social times, catching up with old friends and making new ones.

Following Friday dinner our opening session began with an ice breaker, “Three Truths and a Lie.” With heaps of laughter; it was the perfect way to get to know one another!

Ready to learn, we concentrated on Mary and Joseph, our most important saints and the American saints, St. Kateri Tekakwitha, St. Katherine Drexel, and St. Marianne Cope. Evening prayer in the chapel included the Litany of St. Joseph. As we concluded we departed in absolute silence until gathering for breakfast the next morning. I don’t think I realized how powerful silence can be.

Bright and early Saturday morning before breakfast, we hiked through the peaceful setting to the Ava Maria Chapel quietly tucked away among the trees. There we paused for quiet personal prayer.

Saturday, was a busy day packed full with the lives of our contemporary saints, St. Faustina Kowalska, St. Gianna Beretta Molla, St. Josephine Bakhita, and St. Catherine Labouré. We then focused on to the “Three Theresa’s,” St. Teresa of Calcutta, St. Teresa of Avila, and St. Theresa of Lisieux. We concluded with “The Brave and the Warrior Saints, St. Cecilia, St. Agatha, and St. Joan of Arc. The life of Blessed Carlos Acutis was also discussed. Following each of the five sessions, we broke into our teams to discuss the saints that had been presented.

Pausing midday on Saturday we prayed the Divine Mercy Chaplet and had the opportunity to receive the sacrament of reconciliation with Father Ed Sheridan. Our penance prayer was Psalm 103.

After dark, gathering once again in the chapel, we celebrated Holy Mass with Father Ed. The weekend provided us with the gift of a plenary indulgence, praying for the souls of the deceased.

Enjoyable activities included making a rosary and a banner similar to what would have been carried into battle with St. Joan of Arc.

Ending a full day of learning, we participated in a lively game of Jeopardy, Name That Saint! Who knew we could be so competitive!

The weekend correctly demonstrated that Catholic Daughters are faithful, prayerful women. We truly enhanced our “spiritual life through the lives of the faithful women that had set our world on fire.” ☀️
Jesus called and the Catholic Daughters of the Americas has responded! Catholic Extension has asked if National CDA would make a commitment to donate $20,000 per year for five years for a total commitment of $100,000. This might seem like a huge undertaking, and it is. It is also an opportunity to help the poorest of the poor Catholic communities and dioceses here in the United States.

Why support Catholic Extension? The Catholic Church has given us the Seven Corporal Works of Mercy to follow. They are Feed the Hungry, Give Drink to the Thirsty, Clothe the Naked, Shelter the Homeless, Visit the Sick, Visit the Imprisoned, and Bury the Dead. By donating money to Catholic Extension, we are helping to fulfill the Corporal Works of Mercy here in the United States.

Catholic Extension is described as one of the best kept secrets in the Catholic Church. Exactly what is it? Wikipedia states, “Catholic Extension is a national fundraising 501 (c) 3 organization which supports and strengthens poor mission dioceses across the United States.”

Catholic Extension was founded in 1905. Serving one in every five people of the United States, Catholic Extension fulfills its mission of working in solidarity with people in America’s poorest regions to build up vibrant and transformative Catholic faith communities. Catholic Extension focuses on six main areas: developing leaders, building churches, strengthening ministries, reaching out to the poor and vulnerable, educating seminarians, and engaging young people. In past years, Catholic Extension gave annual assistance to 550+ seminarians, 770+ scholarships to Catholic universities for lay leaders and religious sisters, and 2,000 grants were awarded to dioceses. Additional grants are awarded to help improve religious residences.

Catholic Extension is fulfilling Pope Francis’ call for all Catholics to be more “missionary.” Catholic Extension's funding supports isolated and/or financially under-resourced Catholic dioceses in the United States and territories. These “Extension Dioceses” are reviewed and approved by Catholic Extension’s Board of Governors.

Catholic Extension is the only producer of Catholic calendars that gives 100% of proceeds to fund grants that benefit poor mission dioceses where faith is thriving, but the resources are scarce. Many parishes in the United States give out these calendars for free.

More information can be found on the Catholic Extension website www.catholicextension.org. A few of the current articles on their website are:

- Minnesota priest inspires works of mercy without borders.
- Catholic sisters serve as channels of peace among the poor in East Tennessee.
- Missionary priest serving Native Alaskans receives Lumen Christi Award.

Will you consider helping with this great opportunity to evangelize our Catholic people? Please consider donating through your court or individually to Catholic Daughters of the Americas to help us meet our pledge goal. We encourage local courts and state courts to have special fundraisers for this National Charity.

This is one way we can answer Pope Francis’ call to support the poorest of poor Catholics in our country! Remember, by sending donations for Catholic Extension, we are helping to fulfill many of the Works of Mercy.
We must accept infinite disappointment, but never lose infinite hope.” This quote by Martin Luther King is appropriate today. Our infinite disappointment to me is the pandemic known as COVID-19.

A pandemic is a global outbreak of a disease. This occurs when a new virus surfaces, infects people and is easily transmitted from person to person. Since there is no pre-existing immunity against the new virus, it easily spreads worldwide. This is what we are currently experiencing with the virus that causes COVID-19. As this disease rapidly progresses my infinite hope grows stronger to flatten the curve.

A year ago, before our life was what we know of it today, my mother “volunteered” me and a few of my friends to make “wash cloth kits” for her Catholic Daughter Court, Morning Star #899, New York. A wash cloth kit consists of a wash cloth, soap, and various hygiene projects. On a beautiful fall Sunday afternoon, my friends and I settled around the dining room table to watch some football. While watching the game, my mother bribed us with pizza to assemble the wash kits. I was not a willing participant, but the pizza helped the situation. We cut towels into small squares, cut bars of soap into fours, and placed both in a small Ziploc bag along with a few other random hygiene items. I thought to myself how is this really helping anyone? We made several hundred bags and the following Saturday, we delivered the same to Brentwood, which is located on Long Island in New York. This area is predominantly a Hispanic community and there are many homeless located there. I took the bags to a food pantry and begrudgingly handed them out. I again thought this wash kit was almost useless. Did anyone really need a quarter bar of soap and a small square of a towel? While I worked that afternoon at the pantry and acquired my community service volunteer hours, I thought I would never have to make the kits again. I even voiced this to my mother, repeatedly that day.

Fast forward to March of 2020, the pandemic ... every day in the news was all about the virus that was taking over our lives. Schools were closed, businesses were closed, people were getting sick, many were dying.... Life as we knew it was no longer the same safe bubble. Over and over, we heard the constant reminder that social distancing, hand washing, and disinfecting were of utmost importance to help stop the spread of the virus. Headlines read that the CDC recommends to wash your hands for at least 20 seconds to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

As I was in quarantine with my family, I heard the death toll from this pandemic rise daily, I thought to myself what could I do to help in a small way to end this virus? Brentwood was constantly mentioned in the news for the exorbitant number of cases. Coronavirus has proven most deadly among Hispanics in New York State, hitting Brentwood hard. Brentwood, the community that I distributed wash kits to in the fall, now had the most COVID-19 cases of any community on Long Island. In April 2020, in the early stages of the virus hitting Long Island, there were 3,376 confirmed cases in Brentwood alone. At that time, this figure made up 10 percent of all the cases in Suffolk County. Statistics showed that Hispanics made up 34 percent of coronavirus fatalities statewide in the first month of the virus surfacing on Long Island. I thought about my visit to the food pantry on that beautiful fall day, with what I thought were useless “wash kits.”
While watching television, my new pastime, I saw yet another public service announcement about washing hands to help flatten the curve of this virus. I decided to investigate how washing your hands really helps kill the virus. Pali Thordarson, a chemistry professor at the University of Wales, explains that soaps are amphiphiles. This means soap is a chemical compound possessing both hydrophilic and lipophilic properties. So, the molecules have a dual nature, meaning one end is attached to water and repelled by fats, and the other is conversely attracted to fats and repelled by water. The coronavirus encoded by RNA is surrounded by a coat of fat and protein. Since the chemical bonds holding the virus together are not strong, soap is a perfect annihilator. Then it hit me, the wash cloth kits I once called useless now served a true meaningful purpose.

This was my glimmer of hope. I rallied and collected towels, Ziploc bags, shampoo, multiple hygiene products, and of course SOAP. When I delivered this first batch of wash kits to St. Anne's pantry, there was a coronavirus testing site set up just a block from the pantry. It was daunting to see the police and medical providers in their protective gear at the site. There were lines of people to get tested. I knew I needed to do more so I went home and cut more soap. After I dropped the next delivery, I drove by the testing site again. It didn't look so scary now. It was empty with a sign stating to call if you needed to be tested. In my mind this was a good sign, a sign of hope.

With all of these generous donations collected, I was able to provide over 1,500 wash kits to the Brentwood pantry. This time, when I delivered the kits, I didn't think it was a useless idea. I thought of all the lives that could be saved by stopping the spread of the virus. I thought that I could make a difference and there was hope. Since this time last year with the generous donations from Morningstar #899, my friends, and classmates at St Anthony's High School in Melville New York, and I have continued with this cause. The number of completed kits have sky rocketed, and we will continue with this worthy cause.

The COVID-19 coronavirus has had an impact on us all in some way. The toll it has taken so far is a sobering reality to all of us worldwide. This pandemic has reminded us during these challenging times the importance of kindness and empathy. We must all do our part, no matter how small, to foster healthy communities. Let's wash this virus down the drain. ✨

Priest and Beggar:
The Heroic Life of Venerable Aloysius Schwartz

By Kevin Wells
(Ignatius Press, San Francisco, CA 2021)

My hometown is Washington, D.C., which is known for sometimes divisive politics, not saints. So I was happily surprised to read about the humble, faith-filled Aloysius Schwartz, a priest who grew up in Washington and was known simply as Father Al.

He founded the Sisters of Mary, a religious order dedicated to the care of the sick and orphaned, and built homes and schools for orphans worldwide known as Boystown and Girlstown. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. Father Al, who died on March 16, 1992, was declared venerable by Pope Francis in 2015, and his cause for canonization is now in process. There is a prayer for his beatification at the end of the book.

Reading this book about his life is a challenge to all of us to consider how we can be more Christ-like in our own lives. This is “radical discipleship,” to use the words of the Most Rev. Thomas Daly, bishop of Spokane, Washington. I was rocked by the depth of poverty Father Al encountered, and I was overwhelmed by how Father Al gave his all to those he served – even keeping up a full schedule of saying Masses while struggling with the serious neurodegenerative disorder amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS, also known as Lou Gehrig’s disease). He routinely worked 16 to 18 hours a day.

Author Kevin Wells, a former Major League Baseball writer, has given us a meticulously researched biography – complete with photos showing Father Al during his ministry to the poor – of someone who never sought the limelight and gave his life for impoverished and abused children. Wells is the current president of the Monsignor Thomas Wells Society, which is dedicated to the promotion of strong priests and seminarians.

Father Al grew up poor, and lived among the poor for all of his life. After his ordination to the priesthood in 1957 he asked to be sent to the saddest place in the world: South Korea after the Korean War. In the prologue, author Wells describes how Father Al stepped off the train in Seoul as a fresh-faced 27-year-old priest, discovering a living horror show: “Squatters with blank stares picked through hills of garbage. Paper-fleshed orphans lay on the streets like leftover war landmines. So he reached down to lift up one child, then another.”

In Father Al’s own words, written as he remembered those early days in Korea, he wrote: “It looked like the end of the world. Everywhere I looked I could see squalor, shacks, shanties, slums, and refugees. I remember passing a beggar on a street corner, wrapped in rags, his hand outstretched, rocking softly back and forth, and whispering to himself, ‘a chuwo, a chuwo’ (so cold, so cold).”

I wish I could report that Father Al carried out his missionary work to those most in need without opposition, but that was not the case, as this biography makes clear. Unfortunately, as the chapter called “Storms” reveals, a conflict developed between Father Al and a Korean bishop. The bishop wanted to reshape the Sisters of Mary order which Father Al had started, making it more academic and using the Sisters as teachers in Catholic schools. Father Al worried that this would compromise the Sisters’ mission to serve the poorest of the poor by direct service. The relationship between the American missionary and the Korean bishop deteriorated, and the bishop considered Father Al a “renegade American missionary.” Then Father Al came up against a man who wanted him dead: a corrupt criminal who had risen to power and gamed the system in social welfare management work. This man was a true villain who cared nothing for the poor and needy and built a dangerous network of crime.

As I read about Father Al’s troubles, I thought of how Jesus was opposed by the Pharisees and Scribes in His own time, and how they sought to trap him. Jesus, a man of love, was killed in a horrific way. Those who follow the Master are often persecuted as well, and persecution of Christians goes on today in some parts of the world. We need examples of people like Father Al who stand firm and pursue the work of radical discipleship despite the oppression of outside forces. As he was dying from ALS, Father Al wrote, “My role, now, is more and more similar to that of Jesus on the cross...I believe God gives me this pain and suffering. I believe at the same time he gives me the strength and grace to accept it, endure it, and cope with it.”
In the Spirit of our founder, Father Patrick Peyton, C.S.C., we wish you and your family the blessings of this most holiest of seasons.
