Stewardship: Christians share their talents, time and treasure to carry on the work of the Church. Your offerings are essential to St. Ignatius Church, for us to maintain our staffing, programs and buildings.

Cemetery: There are grave sites available for active parishioners in the new section at the base of the hill. Catholic Cemeteries of the Archdiocese of Washington administers the sale of lots and burial. Because we do not have an adequate endowment, the costs of maintenance come from general parish funds. Mystical invitations or revelations: Cornelius and Peter

Prior to the events in Sunday’s reading from the Acts of the Apostles, the centurion Cornelius experienced a call to know Christ and to live his life in ever deeper conversion. It was a personal revelation, no new doctrine, just a personal encounter and invitation to join with Jesus through the ministry of Peter.

One afternoon about three o’clock, he saw plainly in a vision an angel of God come in to him and say to him, “Cornelius.” He looked intently at him and, seized with fear, said, “What is it, sir?” He said to him, “Your prayers and almsgiving have ascended as a memorial offering before God. Now send some men to Joppa and summon one Simon who is called Peter.

Meanwhile Peter had his own encounter with divine messengers. Peter’s vision of a sheet full of animals did not reveal any new doctrine but it did suggest a new ways of living out God’s inviting love. Peter already knew that the Lord had welcomed Gentiles and Samaritans into his presence even healing them and sharing water from a well and cup. His private vision built on his knowledge of Jesus seen in the healing of the Centurion’s servant and speaking with the Samaritan woman at the well.

He saw heaven opened and something resembling a large sheet coming down, lowered to the ground by its four corners. In it were all the earth’s four-legged animals and reptiles and the birds of the sky. A voice said to him, “Get up, Peter. Slaughter and eat.” But Peter said, “Certainly not, sir. For never have I eaten anything profane and unclean.” The voice spoke to him again, a second time, “What God has made clean, you are not to call profane.” This happened three times, and then the object was taken up into the sky. (Acts 10:11-16)

Peter knew Jesus and his welcoming of sinners, of foreigners, of gentiles, of the lowly and of the powerful but his internalized sense of the Law of Moses made him uncomfortable with any variance from his youthful sense of religious obligations. He had been trained to maintain ritual purity, to be concerned with the good of others and devotion to God, but above all to avoid exclusion from the people of God by encountering the unclean. It was hard to ignore this training.

The church did not settle areas of question or dispute, by a constant succession of private revelations of new doctrine. Jesus Christ as the Incarnate Son of God is the fullness of revelation. In prayer, in dialog with converts and those who converted them, church leaders found their way through the natural struggles of forming a new community of faith in the Holy Spirit. We still need to turn to God in prayer, to each other in the church and to those who seek God in the ministry of the Church as we continue the perpetual process of refining our understanding and the articulation of the reality of God in our lives. Allowing gentiles to be gentiles opened the gospel to the world.

Happy Mother’s Day to all our mothers, living and deceased, grandmothers, great grandmothers, and all those who are like mothers to us. May you have a blessed and beautiful day filled with joy and peace.

Second Collection Next Weekend There will be the annual collection of the Catholic Communications and Catholic Campaign for Human Development next weekend. Please be as generous as you can.

Condolences Our parish offers prayers and condolences for Carrie Livers, on the death of her sister Elaine Geddes.

Does anyone have a spare Cannon we could borrow?

No it would not need to be a 16th century French cannon. The beginning of the Ignatian Year is set on the anniversary of the Battle of Pamplona, when Ignatius was nearly killed by canon fire. Even just a small ceremonial cannon might be useful to commemorate the rather forceful invitation to our future patron to deepen and personalize his faith. A carbide cannon would be fine.

Please be vaccinated

I know lots of people who have been fully vaccinated- but then again, I know lots of people over 65. Over 75% of those sixty-five years up in Charles County have been fully vaccinated. Only 39% of all those over 18 are similarly immune. If we are going to put this disease behind us, we really need to encourage others especially those who are “young” to help us all live disease free, by increasing our rate of immunity. Those of us who are fully inoculated feel a greater degree of freedom from concern even while still wearing masks to help others. We are only about half way to where we need to be to really move on. Faith in God is essential, but testing God, by doing things that invite disaster is not the same as faith. We should not invite injury or illness without taking prudent precautions. Many a person has gotten vaccines in order to travel to foreign lands or go to restaurants in safety, shouldn't we be willing to do so enjoy family and our faith life here?

Restore and Renew PLEASE - We ask that you write a separate check for donations and pledge payments to the “Restore and Renew” capital campaign. We have a separate account for the restoration work. It confuses the tracking of funds when they have to be transferred between the two accounts.

Wayside Food Bank April Report On Saturday, April 17, Wayside Food Bank volunteers served 14 families, which included 38 adults, 3 teens and 12 children for a total of 53 clients. We have been very surprised at the low turnout at our distribution. We've reached out to the So. Md. Food Bank and others and it seems to be happening at many places. It's believed that during the pandemic there has been a lot of additional resources and help for the needy in the community. Although that's good, it is a temporary fix; and once aid and resources return to pre-covid levels the need will return. Either way, Wayside Food Bank will continue to be here to serve the less fortunate in the southern Charles County area.

We thank you all for your monetary support and with donations of non perishable items that are so gratefully received by those that continue to come to distribution month after month. We could not be the success we are without each and every one of you. Thank you.

Collection Report for May 1-2, 2021: Offertory $4,036; Votives $25; Easter $150; Church Missions $50; TOTAL: $5,061. Thank you for your continued generosity.
