In May of 2019, the school said goodbye to our math specialist Mrs. Mazur. And now, we welcome her back as a fourth grade teacher! When she left three years ago, it left a hole in the Saint Charles community, and now that she's back, that hole is filled with joy and fun! As a fourth grade teacher, she teaches math, English, religion, health and reading to her homeroom, and science for all of the fourth grade. Her students are always happy around her, and are always learning something new. Fun Friday is a highlight of their week with her, where the students have 20 minutes to play outside, in the classroom, or in the gym. She finds many exciting ways to teach new topics like Kahoots, cut & pastes in notebooks, and creative science experiments. She encourages questions if you don't understand something.

Who could talk to Mrs. Mazur and not realize how funny she is! She makes jokes all throughout the day. She always keeps a light spirit present in the classroom. She can smile even on the worst days, and all the students are in a better mood because of it. (When you're a fourth grade teacher, you definitely need to have patience!) Somehow, Mrs. Mazur seems to have an infinite amount of it! If you don't understand something in her class, she is always happy to help you out. She truly cares about everyone's grades and their emotional health.

We are all very happy to have Mrs. Mazur back in our Saint Charles school community. I hope she knows that we are grateful for her presence and joyous spirit!
