

ORDINARIATE NEWS

4th Sunday after Trinity

July 5th, 2020

[Edition 1, Volume 1]

AN INTRODUCTION

The goal of this newsletter is simple: to provide a place to celebrate and learn about the good news from around the Personal Ordinariate of the Chair of St. Peter, and to learn more about the English Patrimony which it, along with the two other Personal Ordinariates, is intended to cultivate within the Catholic Church.

Towards that end, it will include a review of Sunday hymns, an excerpt of a homily from the previous week, profiles of different parishes and communities, excerpts from poetry and prose by different authors, liturgical notes, information on the daily office, and, of course, news of events around the Ordinariate.

SUNDAY HYMNS

Lift High the Cross (1887)

George Kitchin (1827-1912)

Our Lady of Walsingham, Houston

Sing of Mary (1938)

Roland F. Palmer (1891-1985)

Our Lady and St. John, Louisville

Jesus Christ the Apple Tree (1761, 1967)

Elizabeth Poston (1905-1987)

Our Lady and St. John, Louisville

Let us, with gladsome mind (1623)

John Milton (1608-1674)

St. Barnabas, Omaha

God that madest earth and heaven (1827)

Reginald Heber (1783-1826)

St. Barnabas, Omaha

(First Evensong of Ss. Peter & Paul)

This newsletter will be released free of charge, as a fundraiser for the Diocesan collection, which is currently the Seminarian fund. For every issue, it's suggested that the reader make a $2 donation to the collection. Please feel free to print & distribute copies for the same suggested donation.

This newsletter will also rely on submissions: upcoming events, reviews of past events, liturgical notes, excerpts from different authors, and, most importantly, suggestions on how to improve. Please ensure that liturgical notes are first approved by the local pastor for submission. This first issue highlights the bonfire for the Nativity of St. John at St. Aelred's. But there's always more: those live-streaming Mass in quarantine may have also seen the beautiful annual procession at the Cathedral on Trinity Sunday. All submissions will be credited.

While this first issue is sparse, it hopefully conveys the potential of such a publication. As more submissions come in, the newsletter will grow to include news from more of the Ordinariate. As Bishop Lopes has said, we need "a clear sense of what God's grace and God's providence has already brought forward" to continue doing His work. This can perhaps help cultivate that sense in a small way, with your help.

The opinions expressed here by different authors are their own, and do not officially represent the Ordinariate.

ST. JOHN'S HOLY FIRE (ST. AELRED'S, ATHENS)

St. Aelred's Catholic Church celebrated the Nativity of St. John with the traditional bonfire. After dinner, Fr. Tipton blessed the bonfire using the Rituale Romanum. They lit some fireworks, the children played with sparklers, and everyone enjoyed the fire together.

ST. PETER'S DAY

John Keble, The Christian Year

When Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping. Acts xii. 26.
Thou thrice denied, yet thrice beloved,
Watch by Thine own forgiven friend;
In sharpest perils faithful proved,
Let his soul love Thee to the end.
The prayer is heard—else why so deep
His slumber on the eve of death?
And wherefore smiles he in his sleep
As one who drew celestial breath?
He loves and is beloved again—
Can his soul choose but be at rest?
Sorrow hath fled away, and Pain
Dares not invade the guarded nest.
He dearly loves, and not alone:
For his winged thoughts are soaring high
Where never yet frail heart was known
To breathe its vain Affection's sigh.
He loves and weeps—but more than tears
Have sealed Thy welcome and his love—
One look lives in him, and endears
Crosses and wrongs where'er he rove:
That gracious chiding look, Thy call
To win him to himself and Thee,
Sweetening the sorrow of his fall
Which else were rued too bitterly.
E'en through the veil of sheep it shines,

POEM

COLOSSIANS III. 3.

OUR LIFE IS HID WITH CHRIST IN GOD.

*My words and thoughts do both express this notion,
That Life bath with the sun a double motion.
The first Is straight, and our diurnal friend,
The other Hid, and doth obliquely bend.
One life is wrapped In flesh, & tends to earth:
The other winds towards Him, whose happy birth
Taught me to live here so, That still one eye
Should aim and shoot at that which Is on high:
Quitting with daily labour all My pleasure,
To gain at harvest an eternal Treasure.

--George Herbert 1633 (1593-1633)

The memory of that kindly glance;—
The Angel watching by, divines
And spares awhile his blissful trance.
Or haply to his native lake
His vision wafts him back, to talk
With Jesus, ere His flight He take,
As in that solemn evening walk,
When to the bosom of His friend,
The Shepherd, He whose name is Good,
Did His dear lambs and sheep commend,
Both bought and nourished with His blood:
Then laid on him th' inverted tree,

Which firm embraced with heart and arm,
 Might cast o'er hope and memory,
 O'er life and death, its awful charm.
 With brightening heart he bears it on,
 His passport through this eternal gates,
 To his sweet home—so nearly won,
 He seems, as by the door he waits,
 The unexpressive notes to hear
 Of angel song and angel motion,
 Rising and falling on the ear
 Like waves in Joy's unbounded ocean.—
 His dream is changed—the Tyrant's voice
 Calls to that last of glorious deeds—
 But as he rises to rejoice,
 Not Herod but an Angel leads.
 He dreams he sees a lamp flash bright,
 Glancing around his prison room—

But 'tis a gleam of heavenly light
 That fills up all the ample gloom.
 The flame, that in a few short years
 Deep through the chambers of the dead
 Shall pierce, and dry the fount of tears,
 Is waving o'er his dungeon-bed.
 Touched he upstarts—his chains unbind—
 Through darksome vault, up massy stair,
 His dizzy, doubting footsteps wind
 To freedom and cool moonlight air.
 Then all himself, all joy and calm,
 Though for a while his hand forego,
 Just as it touched, the martyr's palm,
 He turns him to his task below;
 The pastoral staff, the keys of Heaven,
 To wield a while in grey-haired might,
 Then from his cross to spring forgiven,
 And follow Jesus out of sight.

PARISH PROFILE:

Would you consider writing a 50-60 word profile of your community? We want to know how your community came about, what its unique characteristics are, how it maintains fellowship, and what it does to help further God's work in the world.

HOMILY

It is hoped that we will be able to include an excerpt from homilies preached around the Ordinariate every issue, drawing on the previous Sunday. Does your priest publish his homilies online, in text or audio? Let us know. With his permission, we'll be able to publish excerpts here, transcribing if necessary.
