

Change...

Our weather is changing, back and forth, but with the leaves falling, we know what is to come, and we prepare for it.

It has been a year of change.

How you learn, where you eat, the masks you wear.

Yet, you are learning, growing, and achieving things which make your families proud.

Be kind to them, they love you so, and that will never change.

Though we must physically distance ourselves from one another, spiritually, we are together.
