

Not a day goes by that I don't think of my baby. The deep sense of loss and sadness is tremendous it has affected every relationship in my life For 19 years I have been carrying this invisible scar and only recently realized to what depth it extended. I have felt undeserving of any happiness because of what I did so many years ago.