Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

As we begin this season of Lent, I was happy to come across a reading from a saint. It is one of his sermons for the first Sunday of Lent. The saint is Blessed Isaac, abbot of the monastery at Stella in France. Blessed Isaac lived during the 1100s and was a member of the Order of Cistercians. While the sermons of abbots can often be difficult to put into practice, as they deal with particulars of monastery living, the wisdom expressed in this sermon is perennial and easily guides us who live a more active style of life. I took the time to translate it from the original Latin so that we could all focus on the charity we are called to live. All that we plan to do this Lent, any prayer, fasting, almsgiving, all progress we make spiritually, must be guided by this highest of virtues. Consider the beginning of chapter 13 of St. Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. While we may associate that section with marriage, it powerfully speaks of all that we may undertake in the name of God, who is love. And so, here is an excerpt from Blessed Isaac's sermon.

Sincerely,
fr. Jason

----------------------------------------------------------------------------

Why are we so little concerned, brothers, to seek opportunities for salvation in each other, that where we perceive a greater need, thus the more we come to the aid of one another, and bear our fraternal burdens for each other? For in this way the blessed Apostle admonishes us: each should bear the burdens of the other, and thus you will fulfill the law of Christ; and in another place: support, he says, each other in charity. This, without a doubt, is the law of Christ.

What I perceive as incorrigible in my brother - either out of need or out of a weakness of body or character - why do I not bear it patiently, console him cheerfully, as it is written: their children will be borne on their shoulders, and will be consoled upon their knees? Or is it because I lack that which suffers so that it may bear, is kind so that it may love?

This, therefore, is the law of Christ who truly bore our weaknesses by His passion, and bore our sorrows by His compassion, loving those whom He bore, bearing those whom He loved. However, he who attacks his brother in need, who seizes upon his weakness of whatever sort, subjects himself, without a doubt, to the law of the devil, and fulfills it. Therefore, let us be compassionate towards one another and lovers of fraternity, bearers of weaknesses, censurers of vices [...]

For every habit which more honestly pursues the love of God and love of neighbor on account of Him (by whatever observances or habit one lives), will be accepted more by God. For this is charity, according to which all things ought to be done, or not be done, be changed, or not be changed. For this is both the principle by which, and the end to which, each thing is fit to be arranged. For nothing happens culpably which happens truly because of love and according to love.

May God deem it worthy to furnish us with love, Himself, whom it is impossible to please without it, and without which we are completely nothing, who lives and reigns for undying ages. Amen.

Thrift Shop News

Dear Friends,

Once again, we turn to your kindness so that we can finish fixing the Thrift Shop. As you know last year the Thrift Shop was flooded when one of the toilets was blocked. The damages were extensive. We had to change the floors and walls of three rooms on the first level and four of basement rooms. In addition we had to use a company to clean the asbestos and the mold. Due to the high costs of those repairs, the insurance had to be used to pay the deductible of $5000. Also, we lost a lot of the donations from different seasons that we stored in the basement because the bins were on the floor.

It is for this reason and trying to prevent the same situation from happening again, we have thought of putting the donations in storage bins on shelves that keep them at a certain height off the floor which will protect donations in case of other floods. Additionally, donations will be more accessible and safer for our volunteers to work with.

Here is where we turn to your generosity once again. For this project we would need at least twenty metal shelves which cost $140 each. This is a high cost for us to cover without your help. Therefore, if you would like to give us a hand with this project you may send your donations to St. Joseph Outreach. Please note in the memo: Thrift Shop’s shelves.

We appreciate your kindness in advance.

OUR LOAVES AND FISHES

One of the features of being at least a practicing Catholic for so long is hearing and reading stories from the Bible, especially the New Testament, on a repeated basis. This often allows me to anticipate what the next line will be. Once it is delivered, the lesson is reinforced in my mind. Occasionally, however, I hear or ponder something new, and a totally different aspect of the passage evolves. It happened to me last week when I heard the Gospel reading about Jesus feeding the 4,000 after He finished a prolonged day of preaching His Word.

As I stood casually listening to the deacon reading the passage, I heard the words I so often had and came to the same conclusion. According to St. Mark, after the seven loaves and “a few fish” were blessed, distributed, and consumed, the disciples went around and picked up the “fragments” of food which remained and “over-seven baskets” were filled. For years, I took this story to exemplify the magnitude of Christ’s miraculous power. Forget the boy who had the box lunch to start with (Mark does not mention from whence the food came; we’ll have to wait for chapter 6 in John for that), the sagacious priest who preached the short sermon that day opened my eyes to a new point.

Metaphorically speaking, Fr. Jack suggested the loaves and the fishes could be equivalent to the talents God gives us to use to help ourselves and those around us. On previous occasions, I may have made that connection. What I did not, however, and what Fr. Jack made so clear was the fact that, after all the food (talents) was consumed, there were still some leftovers. In other words, no matter how much we use the gifts which we have received, we will always have more to continue God’s work on earth.

As we begin our Lenten journey, let us be mindful of the inexhaustible supply of gifts we have been given so that we have no fear they will not be around for another day when we may be called to use them.
