Tri-Parish Retreat

Our tri-parish retreat is coming up soon! Friday-Sunday, January 15-17. The Sisters of Mary Mother of the Church are going to lead this retreat for us. The theme of the retreat: "How Do I Become a Saint? The Basics." Sanctity seems elusive, but it is at the heart of what animates us daily: the walk of Faith in a Person, Jesus Christ. This retreat will be centered on how we can live an adventure of sanctity within the reality of what we do daily, with clear, solid, biblical actions and intentions that bring Christ's resurrected light into our day. Specific topics that will be covered: Baptism; Grace; the Beatitudes; the Sacraments; Prayer (various forms); true Joy vs. Addictions — all in a unity that will keep things simple for our work-a-day world. To sign up, call the parish office. Retreat cost and other information coming soon. We hope to see you there!

Forming Right Conscience, Part Four

Last week, we considered what happens when a person's conscience is wrong, and we began to look at the necessity of a rightly formed conscience for the worthy reception of Holy Communion, applied specifically to instances of divorce and civil remarriage. This week, we will address pastoral care needed for erroneous conscience.

What would appropriate pastoral care be for persons in this situation who have an erroneous conscience? If the individual is not personally culpable for receiving Communion, it nonetheless remains objectively evil to receive communion in a state of mortal sin; thus the Catechism states "one must therefore work to correct the errors of moral conscience." (CCC 1793) This statement could be taken to mean that one must work to correct one's own errors, but since the pastors of the Church have an obligation to assist the faithful in forming their conscience, they share in this obligation as well.

If the individual is personally culpable for receiving Communion, then the matter is even more urgent. Not only is he committing an objectively evil act, he also is culpable for doing so (as it were: eating and drinking judgment upon himself, in St. Paul's words). And the pastors of the Church need to take effective action to address the situation. Thus in both cases (whether the person is culpable or not), it is not sufficient to simply say that the person is just following his conscience and leave it at that. If it is an erroneous conscience, the pastors of the Church must work to correct it. This is particularly so in light of what the Catechism has to say about common causes of errors in moral judgment: "Ignorance of Christ and His Gospel, bad example given by others, enslavement to one's passions, assertion of a mistaken notion of autonomy of conscience, rejection of the Church's authority and her teaching, lack of conversion and of charity: these can be at the source of errors of judgment in moral conduct." (CCC 1792) Since "rejection of the Church's authority and her teaching" is one of the known causes of erroneous conscience, pastors of the church must combat this by issuing calls to accept the Church's authority and teaching (as well as explaining the reasons for doing so). Furthermore, simply concluding that a person is acting on his conscience and leaving the matter fosters precisely the "mistaken
