Saint of the Week

This week, our Saint of the Week is St. Hilary, whose Memorial is January 13.

Born in the year 315, this bishop of Poitiers in France was a staunch defender of the divinity of Jesus Christ and was a gentle and courteous man, as well as a devoted writer of some of the greatest theology on the Most Holy Trinity. Like Jesus Himself, he was frequently labeled a "disturber of the peace." In a very troubled era of Church history, his holiness was lived out in both scholarship and controversy.

He was raised a pagan and converted to Christianity when he met his longed-for God of nature in Sacred Scripture. He was chosen, against his will, to be the bishop of Poitiers in France. He was soon taken up with battling what became the scourge of the 4th Century: Arianism (which denied the divinity of Jesus Christ).

The heresy spread rapidly. St. Jerome had said, "The world groaned and marveled to find that it was Arian." When Emperor Constantius commanded that all the bishops of the West sign a condemnation of St. Athanasius, the great defender of the faith in the East, St. Hilary refused and because of his refusal was banished from France to far off Phrygia (in modern-day Turkey). He eventually came to be known as the "Athanasius of the West." While writing in exile, he was invited by some semi-Arians (hoping for reconciliation) to a council that the emperor had convened to counteract the Council of Nicea. But St. Hilary predictably defended the Church, and when he sought public debate with the heretical bishop who had exiled him, the Arians (dreading the meeting and its outcome) pleaded with the emperor to send this troublemaker back home. St. Hilary was warmly welcomed by his people upon his return.

Jesus did say that His coming would bring not peace but a sword (Mt 10:34). The Gospel offers no support for us if we fantasize about a warm-fuzzy holiness that knows no problems. On His part, Jesus did not escape at the last moment, though He did live happily ever after (after a life of controversy, problems, pain, and frustration). St. Hilary, like all saints, simply had more of the same; so, too, will we in our own holy strive to become and remain faithful disciples of Jesus Christ.

St. Hilary...pray for us.
