Kalamazoo United invites ministry leaders to event planning kick-off

Kalamazoo United, Catholic and Protestants coming together to mark the 500th anniversary of the Reformation, started out as a nagging thought with Jeff Wenke, pastor of The Bridge Church, Portage. Now after months of meetings and plans a core committee is hoping to expand awareness by inviting key ministry leaders to a kick-off prayer event on May 8th at 6 p.m. at Wenke’s Church.

The event aims to increase awareness for Kalamazoo United’s community event scheduled for Sunday, October 29th at 4 p.m. at Wings Stadium in Kalamazoo.

“We believe God is stirring a new level of unity in our city,” wrote Pastor Wenke in his letter to ministry leaders. During the kick-off event, clergy and ministry leaders will come together with Bishop Bradley and Pastor Wenke for prayer and to learn more about the vision and strategy for Kalamazoo United.

Current plans are underway for additional prayer gatherings scheduled for Tuesday, June 6th at Greater Faith Church; Tuesday, August 8th, St. Luke’s Episcopal Church, Kalamazoo and September 12th at a location to be determined. A rally event will be held at St. Augustine Cathedral on September 24th at 4 p.m.

Planning for the 2017 event began in late September as Bishop Bradley hosted a series of informal gatherings of local ministers at the Diocesan Pastoral Center in downtown Kalamazoo [The Good News, November 2016].

“I have been encouraged by the enthusiasm and dialogue from our Protestant brothers and sisters for this effort toward a show of our unity,” said Bishop Bradley.

Parishes host celebrations to mark Centennial anniversary for Our Lady of Fatima

As Catholics worldwide ready for celebrations to mark the 100th anniversary of Our Lady’s first appearance to shepherd children in Fatima, Portugal, opportunities are available in the Diocese to mark this historic event. Parishes are planning a variety of special events from May Crownings to special Masses and prayer services beginning this month and throughout the summer and to October which marks the anniversary of the sixth apparition.

The diocese’s only namesake parish, Our Lady of Fatima, Union City, will mark the 100th anniversary with a special Mass on May 13th at 4:30 p.m. Beginning 45 minutes prior to Mass parishioner Rosanne Toney will lead the rosary outdoors at the Our Lady of Fatima Grotto. Also, before and after Mass, the Crowning of Our Blessed Mother will be held. Crowning indoors will occur at the beginning of Mass and outdoor crowning immediately after Mass. A dessert reception will be held immediately following.

For more information on Our Lady of Fatima, additional local events and requirements for a plenary indulgence see page 7.

Pope’s laundry for homeless has Whirlpool connection

Thanks to Benton Harbor-based Whirlpool Corporation the first washing machines and tumble dryers for the homeless in Rome whirred into action last month as “Pope Francis’ Laundry’ opened its doors to provide a much-needed service. The company’s European branch donated six, latest generation washers and six dryers along with several irons.

According to a report by Vatican Radio one of the many difficulties for those who live on the streets is to be able to wash, dry and iron their clothes and blankets, and the Vatican-sponsored laundry is a response to Pope Francis’ invitation to give concrete signs of solidarity to our brothers and sisters in need.

FROM THE EDITOR

By Victoria Cessna
Communication Director & Editor of The Good News

During a recent religious education lesson for my first graders, I was quizzing them on the Trinity. As I completed my rather crude drawing of a triangle on the chalkboard I asked the children who belonged on each of the three points.

As they shouted, “God! Jesus! The Holy Spirit!” one precious little girl, furrowed her brow, shot up her hand and asked, “Hey, what about Mary?”

I was touched by her innocent yet profound question. She clearly recognized our Blessed Mother’s importance and felt very protective of her, not wishing her to be overlooked. At the same time she seemed to be working out how Mary fits into the equation.

May is a great time to ruminate on this very question of Mary’s importance in our faith. As young children, like my student, we’re drawn to Mary’s gentleness reflected in Nativity paintings and beautiful artwork. As we mature we begin to grasp intellectually her many important roles in our own spiritual journey from our Intercessor to her Son to being our model for selflessness and sacrifice.

In his homily this past January 1st, the Solemnity of Mary, the Holy Mother of God, Pope Francis paints a beautiful image of Mary as one who’s always with us, guiding us with the love of a Mother. He said, “In the Gospels, Mary appears as a woman of few words, as one who’s always with us, guiding us with the love of a Mother. She teaches us that we do not have to be drawn to Mary’s gentleness reflected in Nativity plays and beautiful chapels in the most far-off places, how many pictures in our homes, how many paintings in our homes, how many statues, how many images of the silent of her children’s hearts. How many devotions, shrines and chapels in the most far-off places, how many pictures in our homes, how many paintings in our homes, how many statues, how many images of the silent...”

May is a reminder to us that Mary is the Mother of a multitude. She drew near to the most diverse situations in order to sow hope. She accompanied the crosses borne in the silences of the first Christian community, and in this way she learned to be the mother of a multitude. She drew near to the most diverse situations in order to sow hope. She accompanied the crosses borne in the silences of her children’s hearts. How many devotions, shrines and chapels in the most far-off places, how many pictures in our homes, how many paintings in our homes, how many statues, how many images of the silent...”

This month as you plant flowers around your Mary statue or attend a May Crowning or pray the rosary, may you be blessed by Mary’s love and guided by her example.

Pope Francis MAY Intentions

Universal: That the rejection of the culture of indifference, we may care for our neighbours who suffer, especially the sick and the poor.

Evangelization: That Mary’s intercession may help Christians in secularized cultures be ready to proclaim Jesus.

Mary: Mother and Disciple

Spring is undoubtedly my favorite season of the year, and these recent days are proof positive as to why that is. First of all, nature is coming back to life, and the evidence is everywhere: the birds are chirping, the daffodils and tulips are blooming, the trees are flowering, and the sound of lambs and baby turkeys can be heard in the morning, noon and evening are indicative of growth all around us. As I drive throughout the Diocese, I am consistently inspired by the beauty of this part of the world in which we live. And of course, it reminds me of the great challenge that God has given us to be good and responsible stewards of His creation.

Besides the joy of celebrating nature's beauty, the second and even more important reason why this is my favorite time of the year is that we are in the midst of the Easter Season. For 50 days (seven weeks) we get to celebrate the New Life of the Risen Jesus and what that means for each of us who are baptized into His Life and who thereby share in the victory He won for us on Easter. Alleluia!

And thirdly, this month is filled with wonderful celebrations: Mother's Day, First Communions, Confirmations, graduations, weddings, and best of all, a month dedicated in a special way to honor our Blessed Mother with May Crowning, special Marian devotions and the beautiful Feast of Our Lady of Fatima on May 13th. This year's celebration of this feast is even more special since we observe the 100th anniversary of Our Lady's first several appearances to the three shepherd children in Fatima, Portugal on May 13, 1917. (See cover story and page 7). For many of us in our earliest days of childhood, devotion to our Blessed Mother began and has been an integral part of our spiritual lives since then; for others of us, perhaps devotion to Mary may still be new to us, or we may even be unfamiliar with it in any way.

As Catholics we are well aware there are several very important Solemn Feast Days/Holy Days of Obligation which honor the special role that Mary plays in our faith. The very first day of the calendar year, January 1st, honors Mary the Mother of God; March 25th celebrates the Annunciation; August 15th is the day when we remember the Assumption of Mary's body into Heaven; December 8th celebrates Mary's Immaculate Conception; and of course December 25th celebrates Jesus' Birth through His Blessed Mother. These are all very special events that are significant in and essential to Jesus' act of saving the world. And of course, in addition to this month of special devotion to Mary, we also dedicate the month of October to special devotion to the Rosary.

The Virgin Mary, a human being like any other human person, was kept special and unique among all other human beings by being the only person born in the normal course of human events (through the love of her human parents) to be kept free from Original Sin. That is what we celebrate on the Holy Day of the Immaculate Conception (December 8th). Though Mary freely chose to say "Yes" to the request of the Archangel Gabriel on behalf of God to become the Mother of God's only-begotten Son through the power of the Holy Spirit (which is what we celebrate on the Holy Day of the Annunciation on March 25th), God anticipated her "Yes/"her "Fiat" and kept her from the stain of Original Sin, and remained sinless throughout the rest of her life in this world. And it was due to her sinlessness and consistently faithful life that God assumed her body and soul into Heaven, which is what we celebrate on the Holy Day of the Assumption on August 15th. As we can readily see, each of these events is intrinsically connected with Mary's role as being the Mother of Jesus, as He was conceived within her womb for nine months, was given birth on Christmas, and throughout the remainder of Jesus' human life in this world, she remained His mother and first disciple, who consistently said "Yes" to whatever Jesus asked in terms of faith.

We celebrate Mary with such high regard and great devotion because she was Jesus' mother and because she was His first and most faithful disciple. That was true throughout the number of years that she lived in this earthly world, and that has been the case throughout all of human history ever since from her heavenly home. She continues to say "Yes" to Jesus and to do everything she can to help all of humanity to say "Yes" to Jesus. Mary has little to say that is recorded in the Gospels, but she was always present to Jesus and followed Him throughout His public ministry, along the way to Calvary, at the foot of the cross until Jesus died, and received Jesus' dead body into her maternal arms and helped to lay Him in the tomb. There were few words recorded; only generous acts of love; only a constant "Yes" to Jesus. The words that are recorded in the Gospels are powerful and faith-filled. Besides saying "Yes" to the Angel Gabriel, and in addition to her "song of praise" that has become part of the Church's prayer life known as the Magnificat, Mary's final recorded words in the Gospel is found in the Gospel of St. John at the account of the Wedding Feast of Cana. After she urged Jesus to consider working His first miracle to save the young married couple from embarrassment at their wedding reception, Mary said to the waiters: "Do whatever He tells you." Those powerful words of our Blessed Mother conduzido por la Diócesis, estoy constantemente inspirado en la belleza de esta parte del mundo en el que vivimos. Y por supuesto, me recuerda el gran desafío que Dios nos ha dado de ser buenos y responsables administradores de Su creación.

Además de la alegría de celebrar la belleza de la naturaleza, la segunda e incluso más importante razón por la que esta es mi época favorita del año es que estamos en medio de la temporada de Pascua. Durante 50 días — siete semanas — celebramos la Nueva Vida de Jesús a través de Su muerte y esta es una celebración que significa para cada uno de nosotros que somos bautizados en Su Vida y que por lo tanto compartimos la Victoria que Él ganó para nosotros en Pascua. ¡Aleluya!

En tercer lugar, este mes está lleno de celebraciones maravillosas: el Día de la Madre, Primera Comuniones, Confirmaciones, graduaciones, bodas, y lo mejor de todo, un mes dedicado de manera especial a honrar a nuestra Santísima Madre con las Coronas de Mayo, devociones marianas especiales y la hermosa Fiesta de Nuestra Señora de Fátima el 13 de mayo. La celebración de este año es aún más especial, ya que se observa el 100 aniversario de la primera aparición de Nuestra Señora a los tres niños pastores de Fátima, Portugal, el 13 de mayo de 1917. (véase la historia en la portada y la página 7). Para muchos de nosotros fue desde nuestros primeros días de infancia, cuando la devoción a nuestra Santísima Madre comenzó y se ha mantenido como parte integral de nuestra vida espiritual desde entonces; Para otros de nosotros, tal vez la devoción a María puede ser nueva, o incluso podemos no estar familiarizados con ella en ninguna manera.

Como católicos somos muy conscientes de que hay varios días de fiestas solemnes muy importantes / Días de precepto que honran el papel especial que María juega en nuestra fe. El primer día del año calendario, 1 de enero, honra a María, la Madre de Dios; El 25 de marzo celebra la Anunciación; El 15 de agosto es el día en que recordamos la Asunción del cuerpo de María al Cielo; El 8 de diciembre celebramos la Inmaculada Concepción de María; Y por supuesto el 25 de diciembre celebramos el nacimiento de Jesús a través de su Madre Bendita. Estos son eventos muy especiales que son significativos y esenciales en el acto de Jesús de salvar al mundo. Y, por supuesto, además de este mes de especial devoción a María, también dedicamos el mes de octubre a la devoción especial al Rosario.

La Virgen María, un ser humano como cualquier otra persona humana, se mantuvo especial y única entre todos los demás seres humanos por ser la única persona nacida en el curso normal de eventos de la vida humana (a través del amor de sus padres humanos) mantenida libre del Pecado Original. Eso es lo que celebramos el Día de precepto de la Inmaculada Concepción (8 de diciembre). Aunque María eligió libremente decir "Sí" a la solicitud del Arcángel Gabriel en nombre de Dios de convertirse en la Madre del Hijo unigénito de Dios a través del poder del Espíritu Santo (que es lo que celebramos en el Día de precepto de la Asunción El 25 de marzo), Dios anticipó su "Sí" / "Fiat" y la mantuvo alejada de la mancha del Pecado Original, y permaneció sin pecado durante el resto de su vida en este mundo. Y fue debido a su vida sin pecado y consistentemente fiel que Dios asumió su cuerpo y alma al Cielo, que es lo que celebramos en el Día de precepto de la Asunción el 15 de agosto. Como podemos ver fácilmente, cada uno de estos eventos está intrínsecamente conectado con el papel de María como Madre de Jesús, como fue concebido dentro de su vientre durante nueve meses, nacido en Navidad y durante el resto de la vida humana de Jesús en este mundo, ella permaneció Su Madre y primera Discípula, quien consistentemente dijo "Sí" a lo que Jesús pidió en términos de fe.

Celebramos a María con tanta consideración y gran devoción porque es la Madre de Jesús y porque fue Su primera y más fiel discípula. Eso fue cierto durante el número de años que vivió en este mundo terrenal, y eso ha sido el caso a través de toda la historia humana desde entonces desde su Hogar Celestial. Ella continúa diciendo "Sí" a Jesús y hacer todo lo posible para ayudar a toda la humanidad a decir "Sí" a Jesús. María tiene poco que decir registrado en los Evangelios, pero siempre estuvo presente a Jesús y lo siguió a lo largo de su ministerio público, a lo largo del Camino al Calvario, al pie de la Cruz hasta que Jesús murió, y recibió Su cuerpo muerto en Sus brazos maternos y ayudó a ponerlo en la tumba. Hubo pocas palabras registradas; Sólo generosos actos de amor; Sólo un constante "Sí" a Jesús. Las palabras que están registradas en los Evangelios son poderosas y llenas de fe. Además de decir "Sí" al Ángel Gabriel, y además de su Canto de Alabanza que se ha convertido en parte de la vida de oración de la Iglesia conocida como el Magníficat, las últimas palabras registradas de María en el Evangelio se encuentran en el

Deadline to apply for next Permanent Diaconate class is May 25th

This coming September Bishop Bradley will ordain, God willing, 13 men from across the Diocese as Permanent Deacons. As those men finish their formation and look toward ordination plans are underway to begin a new class of deacon candidates this fall. This past March Bishop Bradley issued the official call for men to discern whether they have a call to the vocation of Permanent Deacon as a new class will begin the six-year formation process in September 2017. Informational meetings on the Permanent Diaconate hosted by Deacon John Bodway, Director of Deacon Formation, were held in March and April in all five deaneries. Anyone still interested in learning more should contact the Diocesan Office (269-903-0151) or Deacon John Bodway, Director of Deacon Formation at deaconjohnbodway@aol.com. The criteria for men seeking this vocation can be found at www.diokzoo.org/deacon-formation.

The deadline to submit an application for the Permanent Diaconate is May 25th.

The Bishop’s Perspective

remain the most important directives for each of us in terms of how we should live our lives. Mary is constantly urging us to do whatever Jesus tells us.

Our devotion to Mary is not about Mary; it's always about Mary urging us to draw ever closer to her Son — to do whatever Jesus tells us to do. Since our sins are contradictions to what Jesus tells us to do, Mary also tells us to turn away from sin; to repent; to convert our lives and to draw closer to Jesus. That was Mary, Our Lady of Fatima's, message to the three children on the various appearances she made to them over a period of time, beginning on May 13, 1917 in the midst of World War I. Rather than appearing to world leaders, Mary chose to appear to 10-year old Lucia Dos Santos, and her cousins Francisco (age 9) and Jacinta (age 7) Marto with a "Peace Plan" for the world. The three-part plan was simple, but profoundly effective: 1) "Do whatever Jesus tells you;" 2) pray; and 3) do penance and turn away from sin. That is the message that Mary constantly gives, whether it is in Fatima, Lourdes, Mexico or any other place. If all humanity would follow that three-part plan, there would be peace in the world. Unfortunately we know that has not happened. And so we must begin with ourselves. I can guarantee you that if/when each of us lives according to that simple but profoundly effective spiritual "peace-plan," we will find peace in our hearts. We will find ourselves moving outside our own concerns and personal worries.

When we "do whatever Jesus tells us," we will find ourselves naturally doing what Jesus told us were the most important commands of all: to love God with our whole heart, soul, mind and strength; and to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. We will find ourselves living up to the challenges of the Parables of the Good Samaritan, the Prodigal Son, and the Parable of the Final Judgment as we feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, clothe the naked, shelter the homeless, visit the sick, and care for all those in need in the name of Jesus.

We have such deep devotion to our Blessed Mother not just during this month of May but always because she asks nothing for herself; it's all about bringing us and all the world to her Son Jesus — to conversion of hearts and minds — to living in this world according to the example of Jesus in leading by serving/washing the feet of others. It's all about "Doing whatever Jesus tells us"; it's all about saying "Yes".

While many of us know this beautiful hymn by-heart, it's well-worth reflecting on and singing especially in this month of special devotion to our dear Blessed Mother:

Sing of Mary, pure and lowly; Virgin Mother unfiled.

Sing of God's own Son most holy, Who became her little Child.

Fairest Child of fairest Mothers, God the Lord Who came to earth.

Word made flesh, our very Brother, takes our nature by His Birth.

God bless you and our Diocesan Family of Faith!

Evangelio de San Juan en la narración de la fiesta de las bodas de Cana. Después de instar a Jesús a considerar su primer milagro para salvar a la joven pareja de vergüenza en su recepción de boda, María dijo a los camareros: "Hagan lo que El les diga.

Eses poderosas palabras de nuestra Santísima Madre siguen siendo las directrices más importantes para cada uno de nosotros en términos de cómo debemos vivir nuestras vidas. María nos insta constantemente a hacer lo que Jesús nos dice.

Nuestra devoción a María no es sobre María; siempre se trata de María instándonos a acercarnos cada vez más a su Hijo — a hacer lo que Jesús nos dice que hagamos. Puesto que nuestros pecados son contradicciones a lo que Jesús nos dice que hagamos, María también nos dice que nos alejemos del pecado; que nos arrepintamos; que nos devolvamos nuestras vidas y que nos acercemos más a Jesús. Ese fue el mensaje de María, Nuestra Señora de Fátima, a los tres niños en las diversas apariciones que les hizo durante un periodo de tiempo, comenzando el 13 de mayo de 1917 en medio de la Primera Guerra Mundial. En lugar de aparecer ante los líderes mundiales, María eligió aparecer a Lucía Dos Santos, de 10 años, y a sus primos Francisco (9 años) y Jacinta (7 años) Marto con un "Plan de Paz" para el mundo. El plan de tres partes era simple, pero profundamente eficaz: 1) "Hagan lo que Jesús les diga.;" 2) oren; Y 3) hagan penitencia y apartense del pecado. Ese es el mensaje que María constantemente da, ya sea en Fátima, Lourdes, México o en cualquier otro lugar. Si toda la humanidad siguiera ese plan de tres partes, habría paz en el mundo. Desafortunadamente sabemos que no ha ocurrido. Y así debemos comenzar con nosotros mismos. Puede garantizarnos que, si/cuando cada uno de nosotros vive de acuerdo con ese "plan de paz" espiritual simple pero profundamente eficaz, encontraremos paz en nuestros corazones. Nos encontraremos moviéndonos fuera de nuestras propias ansiadas y preocupaciones personales. Cuando "hacemos lo que Jesús nos dice", nos encontraremos naturalmente haciendo lo que Jesús nos dijo que eran los mandamientos más importantes de todos: amar a Dios con todo nuestro corazón, alma, mente y fuerza; y amar a nuestro prójimo como a nosotros mismos. Nos encontraríamos a la altura de los desafíos de las Parábolas del Buen Samaritano, del Hijo Pródigo y de la Parábola del Juicio Final al dar de comer al hambriento, dar de beber al sediento, vestir al desnudo, albergar al síntecho, visitar al enfermo y cuidar a todos los necesitados en el nombre de Jesús.

Tenemos una devoción tan profunda a nuestra Santísima Madre no sólo durante este mes de mayo, sino siempre porque ella no pide nada para sí misma; Se trata de traernos a nosotros y a todo el mundo a su Hijo Jesús — a la conversión de corazones y mentes — de vivir en este mundo según el ejemplo de Jesús en liderar sirviendo / lavando los pies de otros. Se trata de "Hacer lo que Jesús nos dice.", Se trata de decir "Sí". Si bien muchos de nosotros conocemos este hermoso himno de memoria, vale la pena reflexionar y cantar sobre todo en este mes de especial devoción a nuestra querida Madre Bendita:

Canten de María, para y humilde; Virgen Madre inmaculada.

Canten del propio Hijo de Dios santo, quien se convirtió en su pequeño hijo.

Hermoso Hijo de la madre más hermosa, Dios el Señor que vino a la tierra.

El Verbo hecho carne, nuestro mismo Hermano, toma nuestra naturaleza por Su Nacimiento.

¡Que Dios lo bendiga a ustedes y a nuestra Familia Diocesana de Fél
May 7th marks 54th Anniversary of the World Day of Prayer for Vocations

“Pray the Lord of the harvest to send laborers into his harvest” (Mt 9:38; Lk 10:2)

Celebrated on May 7, also known as Good Shepherd Sunday, the annual World Day of Prayer for Vocations is a way of continually bringing this call to a particular vocation to the forefront of our faith practices.

In his message for the Day of Prayer, Pope Francis highlighted how we are all called to grow in our relationship with Christ through our vocation, whether that be to single, married or religious life. This relationship, he says, “entails being sent out into the world as prophets of his word and witnesses of his love.”

Our Holy Father continued, “by virtue of baptism, every Christian is a ‘Christopher’, a bearer of Christ, to his brothers and sisters. This is particularly the case with those called to a life of special consecration and with priests, who have generously responded, ‘Here I am, Lord, send me’.”

In a special way, we are called as members of the Diocese of Kalamazoo this year to remember the two young men who will be ordained to the Priesthood on June 24 at 10 a.m., Jeff Hanley and Max Nightingale, as well as those men and women currently discerning a call to religious life.

“There can be no promotion of vocations or Christian mission apart from constant contemplative prayer,” says Pope Francis. “The Christian life needs to be nourished by attentive listening to God’s word and, above all, by the cultivation of a personal relationship with the Lord in Eucharistic adoration, the privileged ‘place’ for our encounter with God.”

Ellen: Everyone approaches prayer in different ways, and that’s what I like about it. For some it is a standard from my childhood, more often then not it has fewer words than heartfelt feelings that I put out in front of me and ask for help in sorting through.

Deacon Jeff Hanley and Deacon Max Nightingale (shown above) will be ordained to the Priesthood on June 24, 2017.

New name plus new location equals great opportunity for young adult fellowship

By Sarah DeMott

Good News and Brews is exactly what it sounds like. The ministry formerly associated with Renew International’s Theology on Tap program is getting a facelift via the Diocese of Kalamazoo’s new “Good News and Brews” young adult ministry program.

“We changed the name in hopes of reigniting the series for those who attended Theology on Tap while also attracting a new audience,” says Tim McNamara, Associate Director for Young Adult Ministry at the Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Good News and Brews will be hosted the second Thursday of the month starting May 11 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Private Dining Room at Arcadia Brewing Company’s downtown Kalamazoo location. The format of the evening will feature dynamic speakers, engaging theological topics and time for fellowship. Anyone from college through their 30s is welcome to attend. There is no entry fee.

“People want relationships,” adds McNamara. “Having a community of folks in the same general stage of life, heading the same direction, helps make life easier and provides the support we crave. Knowing that you can come share a meal with people who also want to view this life through the lens of faith helps us know we aren’t alone and that we have like-minded people, as well as God, to walk alongside us on this journey of life.”

McNamara is grateful for a new collaboration with Arcadia Brewing Company which is generously providing space and event promotion to Good News and Brews free of charge.

The Other Six Days

Inside Out Prayer

By Jane Knuth and Ellen Knuth

Jane: My sister-in-law Kim is telling me about hydras, microscopic creatures, something like plankton, who live in the ocean. “Scientists believe these creatures are biologically immortal. They do experiments where they dangle a fine hair in front of some hydra to entice one to swallow it. Then they pull the hair and the hydra turns itself inside out. It seems like this would be a disaster except it has the ability to rearrange itself and gradually become normal again.”

I ponder this a moment. “Sometimes, life feels like that.”

Kim nods. “Yes. Life events can turn you inside out. Then we have to put together a new normal us.”

Ellen: Everyone approaches prayer in different ways, and that’s what I like about it. For some it is a shared activity; a way to bring together and unite. For others, prayer is a silent meditation, most comfortable when alone and in silence. For me, prayer is a foundation, a way to work back into some form of myself when the various threads of life have turned me inside out and upside down. Depending on how disoriented I feel, my prayer takes different forms: sometimes a song, occasionally an old standard from my childhood, more often then not it has fewer words than heartfelt feelings that I put out in front of me and ask for help in sorting through.

Apart from the plankton, Merriam Webster lists three other definitions of “hydra.” One is the mythological monster slain by Hercules, another is the constellation, and the final definition is as follows: “a multifarious evil not to be overcome by a single effort.” To be sure, a single effort seldom solves all our worries or untangles all the threads, but thank goodness for a place to start!

Jane: Ellen and Kim make me think differently about prayer. Life turns me inside out and prayer leads me to a new normal. God rests in the turning and works in the leading and I, unlike the hydra, struggle against both.

Traveling Chalice Program

As a way to encourage prayer for vocations, St. Philip Parish, Battle Creek participates in the Traveling Chalice Program. The program encourages in a special way parishioners to pray specifically for an increase in vocations to the priesthood and religious life and allows families to sign-up to take the chalice home with them for the week to pray as a family for vocations.

The program has also been used in other parishes throughout the diocese. Is your parish interested in starting something similar or do you already have a special way to encourage prayer for vocations?

Hospital chaplains bring Christ’s love to the sick

By Vicki Cessna

While they may pop in and out of people’s lives quickly and quietly as they bless them, administer the sacrament of the sick, comfort worried family members, the three dedicated hospital chaplains in the Diocese are there at some of the most challenging times in a person’s life.

It was May 2016 that Bishop Bradley announced new priestly assignments for more than 80 percent of the priests serving in the Diocese. Three of those priests, Rev. Harold Potter, Rev. Kevin Covert and Rev. Rob Johansen were assigned to the special ministry of hospital chaplains. The three priests were known to have a special affinity for this important ministry and thus began a more dedicated effort.

Fr. Covert, who resides at St. Ambrose Parish, Parchment and helps out in pastoral ministry at the parish as well, is chaplain at Borgess Ascension Health, Kalamazoo. In addition to visiting patients in the area’s largest Catholic healthcare system, Fr. Covert also celebrates Mass at a local nursing home. This past February he helped coordinate the World Day of Prayer for the Sick Mass with Bishop Bradley on Borgess main campus in Kalamazoo and accompanied Bishop Bradley as he visited patients in their rooms.

One of the goals of the Diocesan Pastoral Plan was to better utilize the priests’ special gifts and talents and help bring ministry to people where they are and when they need it.

Fr. Johansen ministers at Bronson Battle Creek Hospital, visiting patients and celebrating Mass every Wednesday in the Chapel. He’s grateful for the seriousness in which the hospital takes spiritual care.

“We’re really moving toward a different model of priestly ministry and pastoral care,” he said. In Battle Creek he has the primary responsibility for the hospital allowing the other priests in the collaborative to dedicate time to other pastoral needs.

“I think this model really is trying to move more efficiently to meet the needs of the faithful and make the best use of priests’ talents.”

The challenge comes in the juggling act. Fr. Johansen, for example, also celebrates Mass each weekend for St. Ambrose Parish, Delton and Our Lady of Great Oak Parish, Lacey in addition to visiting a variety of nursing homes and helping out at St. Philip Parish, Battle Creek where he resides.

“My assignment at the hospital doesn’t allow for in-depth interaction like you might have as a pastor with parishioners,” notes Fr. Johansen. “However, sometimes those 10-15 minutes with the patient and their families, offering prayers and hope, can have a profound effect. People can see us as being the face of the Church — the face of Christ that they may not see otherwise.”

And perhaps the most gratifying outcomes are when Fr. Johansen is able to reconcile people back to the Church and with the sacraments.

“If we’re not there with them and their families [in the hospitals] that might not happen,” he says.

On a recent day Fr. Harry Potter was making the rounds visiting patients at Lakeland Hospital, St. Joseph, Mich. The patients he visited on this day ranged in age from 13 to 93. Stopping in, offering a prayer of thanksgiving, assuring them they are being prayed for is a routine he repeats about five days a week. He, too, juggles this with responsibilities at St. Joseph Parish, St. Joseph.

“It may sometimes not be as evident the impact you are having but people seem very grateful,” he said.

Perhaps no one was more surprised at his gift for being with the sick then Fr. Potter himself though his hope is that more men will heed the call.

And to those men who may be hearing the call, Fr. Potter urges them to not stay on the fence too long.

“We really need more men interested in doing Christ’s work. My advice would be not to be afraid and to be brave. God is calling you.”

Catholics ready for the 100th Anniversary of Our Lady of Fatima

By Sarah DeMott

May 13, 2017 marks the 100th Anniversary of the start of the Marian apparitions in Fatima, Portugal, where the Virgin Mary visited three young shepherd children, siblings Francisco and Jacinta and their cousin Lucia, once each month from May 13 to October 13, 1917. This came almost a year after the first of three angelic apparitions that appeared to the children and taught them about prayers, adoration and sacrifice. The apparition on Oct. 13 is often called "the day the sun danced", witnessed by tens of thousands and people as far as 40 miles away reported seeing the sun dance, spin and send out colored rays of light. Throughout her apparitions, her messages to the children was always one focused on prayer, repentance and sacrificing for sins, and that peace would come to the world if people obeyed her requests. Following are some lesser known facts about the popular Marian devotion:

Fatima is one of only three Marian apparitions honored with a feast day
• St. John Paul II survived an assassination attempt on May 13, 1981 and credits the intervention of Our Lady of Fatima with saving his life.
• Jacinta was found to be incorrupt when her tomb was opened 15 years after her death.
• The spot where the "Pope of Fatima", St. John Paul II, said Mass World Youth Day Mass in Denver in 1993 is at precisely the same latitude (39.630369 degrees north) as the shrine in Fatima.

Pope Francis will visit the Marian shrine at Fatima on May 12-13, during which time he will canonize Francisco and Jacinta. The siblings became two of the youngest Saints ever on May 13, 2000 when Pope John Paul II beatified them. The cause for Sr Lucia's beatification concluded its first phase in Portugal earlier this year and is not being examined at the Congregation for the Causes of Saints.

Pope Francis also declared to be the Jubilee Year of Fatima for the entire anniversary year, Nov. 27, 2016-Nov. 26, 2017. Not sure how to observe this special time of Marian devotion? Consider choosing one or more of Mary's requests made during her apparitions in Fatima:

• Pray before any statue of Our Lady of Fatima on the 13th of each month from May to October, pray in honor of Mary (Consider making a pilgrimage to Our Lady of Fatima Parish, Union City-see cover image) and pray an Our Father, recite the Creed and invoke Our Lady of Fatima.
• You are unable to get around due to age, illness, disability or other serious cause, you can spiritually unite yourself to the jubilee celebrations on the 13th of each month from May to October and offer intercessory prayers to God through Mary.

Parishes honor Our Lady of Fatima with special celebrations

The Fatima Anniversary Mass and Prayer Procession begins with a 9 a.m. Mass at both St. Joseph Church, St. Joseph or St. Bernard Church, Benton Harbor. A prayerful procession from both churches will follow after Mass to St. John Church, Benton Harbor (approx. two miles) to assemble for a short prayer service at 10 a.m., opportunity for a plenary indulgence and a May Crowning. Fellowship and refreshments to follow; transportation will be provided back to cars. All are encouraged to wear blue in honor of Our Lady. Contact: Linda Zienty, lzienty@comcast.net or Ada Green, 269-927-4248. There will also be prayer events on the 13th of each month from May to October and a Mass on Oct. 13, 2017 at St. Bernard Church.

St. Mary Parish, Kalamazoo – May 13-14 and Oct. 6-7
St. Mary parish in Kalamazoo, along with the Oratory of St. Philip Neri, will hold a series of events in honor of the Fatima anniversary. The key events will be an act of Marian consecration at the Masses Saturday and Sunday, May 13th and 14th, special first Saturday meditations throughout the year, and a conference October 6th and 7th, preceding the anniversary of the sixth apparition and the Miracle of the Sun. The Marian Conference will feature both local and national speakers, a Living Rosary vigil, a simple opening dinner and general presentation, as well as breakout talks on topics of interest to the anniversary and other Marian subjects, concluding with a closing Mass and banquet. Registration information will be made public this summer.

St. Peter Parish, Douglas and San Felipe de Jesus Parish, Pennville
A Triduum of Preparation and Centennial Celebration to honor the Apparitions of Our Lady of Fatima will be held from July 19 to 22, 2017. All events held at St. Peter Parish, Douglas. July 19, a multi-lingual rosary will begin at 7 p.m. followed by refreshments. On July 20, confessions will be heard from 5 to 7 p.m. followed by a Holy Hour of Reparation. On July 21, Vespers will begin at 6 p.m., followed by Stations of the Cross with an outdoor procession in rosary garden. July 22, Mass at 5 p.m. will be concelebrated by Bishop Paul J. Bradley and Rev. Fabio Garzon, followed by a banquet at 6 p.m. Guest Speaker David Carollo, Executive Director of The World Apostolate of Fatima, USA, will speak at 7 p.m.

The Catholic Difference

The importance of Jackie Robinson

In the history of the modern American civil rights movement, three iconic moments are typically cited.

May 17, 1954: The U.S. Supreme Court hands down its decision in Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, declaring segregation — “separate but equal” — public schools unconstitutional.

August 28, 1963: Two hundred thousand Americans participate in the March on Washington and hear Martin Luther King, Jr., proclaim his dream of a country in which his children will be judged by the content of their character rather than the color of their skin; ten months later, Congress enacts the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

March 3, 1965: Civil rights marchers are assaulted by police tear gas and billy clubs on the Edmund Pettis Bridge in Selma, Alabama; five months later, President Lyndon B. Johnson signs into law the Voting Rights Act, vindicating the Selma marchers’ cause.

These were noble moments, worth remembering: I certainly cherish my memories of encounters with Bayard Rustin, who organized the March that made Dr. King a national emblem. Yet I also believe there was a fourth iconic moment in America’s journey from a land fouled by segregation to the most racially egalitarian nation on the planet. The man at the center of that fourth dramatic moment was an American legend whose accomplishments should rank as high as anyone’s in the pantheon of civil rights heroes.

On April 15, 1947, the Brooklyn Dodgers opened their National League season against the Boston Braves at Ebbets Field. The Dodger first baseman that day was Jackie Robinson: the first African-American to play in a major league game since the infamous “color line” was drawn in 1880s. At UCLA in 1939-41, Robinson was perhaps the greatest amateur athlete in the country, a star in track-and-field, football, and basketball. After service as an Army officer in World War II, he was playing shortstop for the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League when he was signed to a minor league contract by “The Mahatma,” Branch Rickey, a cigar-chomping Methodist and the Dodgers’ general manager. Rickey was determined to break the color line, and he deliberately chose Jack Roosevelt Robinson to do so.

And not because Jackie Robinson was a mild-mannered wallflower. But precisely because he was a warrior who, in the words of Leo Durocher, “didn’t just play to play, he came to shove the [expletive deleted] bat.” (“I’ll leave the rest of the quote to your imagination.) Robinson was to be a warrior with a difference, however: Rickey, an adept psychologist who believed in the essential fairness of the American people, wanted a man with the courage not to fight back against the racist slurs, beanballs, and spikings that were sure to come his way — except by giving an unforgettable performance on the field.

Which is what Jackie Robinson, the immortal Number 42, delivered. Grainy black-and-white videos today remind us of a truth the baseball world learned seventy years ago: on the opening day of a new season, there has never been anything more exciting in baseball, including the majestic home run and the overpowering no-hitter, than 42 stealing a base, especially home. Rather than hollering back at bigots during his rookie year, Robinson beat them with a slashing, attacking style of baseball that helped lift the Dodgers to the National League pennant and brought them within one game of a World Series victory over the mighty Yankees (who didn’t sign an African-American player until Elston Howard in 1955).

It was a performance for the ages. And it changed America.

In this entertainment-saturated twenty-first century, it may be hard to recall the grip baseball had on the national emotions and imagination in 1947. But as the late Columbia University cultural historian Jacques Barzun (an immigrant from France) used to say, whoever wants to understand the heart and mind of America had better understand baseball. On April 14, 1947, that nation-defining pastime still embodied the nation’s original sin. The next day, Jackie Robinson began to accelerate a change in America’s heart and mind. That change made possible Brown v. Board of Education, the Civil Rights Act, and the Voting Rights Act.

On the sapphire jubilee of his first game in the majors, America owes 42 an enormous round of applause and a prayer for the repose of a noble soul.

Catholic Relief Services annual collection

scheduled for May 20 and 21

Director, Trauma Recovery Program

For many of us, our mothers provided the first experiences of “attachment” — a concept theorized by Mary Ainsworth and John Bowlby. “Attachment” in this sense refers to the safe and secure sense of ourselves we feel because of the availability of that parent or caregiver. The bond between child and mother (or primary attachment figure) is complex, with life-long implications. How we understand that first relationship informs our future relationships and ways of looking at our world.

In ideal circumstances, our mothers (or fathers, or other primary caregivers) help us to feel secure in our world, from the time we are infants. When we cry, we are comforted. When we are frightened, we feel safe. When we feel happy, our primary caregiver affirms our happiness. When we are worried, we are allowed to find peace. We know we matter, that we are important. We feel secure, and we learn to have confidence in ourselves, and the world in which we live.

This is how mothers (and other primary attachment caregivers) play such an important role in our lives.

For many reasons, this ideal upbringing is not guaranteed. Family life is complicated. Perhaps both parents need to work, and the substitute caregivers are not very loving. Sometimes a parent or caregiver’s own distress — from substance use or mental illness, his or her own complicated upbringing, the sudden loss of a parent or partner, etc. — affects how we are treated. Additionally, our unique perception of life events also plays a role in how we interpret our world, our childhood environment. Often, because of vulnerabilities beyond our choosing, we suffer misunderstanding, abuse, neglect or trauma.

This is how “attachment theory” is related to the Trauma Recovery Program.

One in six adults has experienced some form of trauma or abuse before reaching adulthood. Left unresolved, this history might have a powerful influence on future relationships and outlook on life. The past (painful as it may be) really can leak into the present, and our future. So, while a history of neglect, abuse, or trauma may have happened years ago, the effects continue to undermine our current relationships, our emotional well-being, and our sense of selves as worthwhile and secure.

We may not even realize the consequences of a troubled history. A co-worker, spouse, or loved one may be the first to notice that our emotions or reactions are too intense, or that we are “experts” at avoiding important conversations or decisions, for example. A true friend or loved one may have the courage to bring our attention to how the past is negatively affecting our lives.

The Trauma Recovery Program provides a welcoming and safe environment for people to explore how past hurts have affected present relationships and life situations. This Program is not about re-hashing the past, but moving forward in a better way. Tools for ongoing recovery are an important part of the Trauma Recovery Program.

We don’t all come from perfect childhood experiences. The Trauma Recovery Program invites participants to choose better options for the present and for the future. Contact: 269-381-8917, ext. 223 for more information, and to register for the next classes.

Those struggling with mental health issues need support

By Debra Hess

Since 1949, May has been declared Mental Health Month in the United States. Communities and national organizations sponsor events in May to educate us on caring for our own mental health and to raise awareness of the many people who experience mental illness. One in five people suffer from a mental illness in any given year and one in 17 suffers with a serious mental illness. Mental illness can be as debilitating as a physical disability and is the leading cause of long-term disabilities in the U.S. for citizens between the ages of 15 to 44.

Mental illnesses are medical conditions involving alterations in thinking, emotion or behavior and are associated with distress or problems functioning in social, work or family activities. Four broad categories of mental illnesses are: thought disorders, mood disorders, anxiety disorders, and personality disorders.

Mental illness can affect anyone regardless of background, age, gender, income, social status, race, or religion. While mental illness can occur at any age, three-fourths of all mental illness begins by age 24. Mental illnesses are medical conditions, just like diabetes or arthritis. They are not the result of personal weakness or lack of character. Mental illness in children affects the whole family. Symptoms of the illness may be perceived as misbehavior and parents may feel judged. Families and persons with mental illness need support not judgment.

Treatments are effective in helping people successfully manage mental health conditions but nearly two-thirds of all people with diagnosable mental illnesses do not seek treatment. Stigma is a substantial barrier that must be overcome. Stigma is the bias against, distrust, stereotyping or avoidance of persons with mental illness and can be as difficult to cope with as the symptoms of the illness.

The National Catholic Partnership on Disability (NCPD) notes that people with mental illness often feel isolated and the myths and misunderstandings about mental illness may keep some people and their families from participating in their faith community. The NCPD further notes that “at times we unwittingly act and speak in ways that devalue people with mental illness. We must constantly evaluate our attitudes and be vigilant in our efforts to treasure each person as a member of the Body of Christ.”

Actions and words that stigmatize can be obvious, such as jokes or comments, or they can be subtle such as avoiding a person. The NCPD suggests that we work to create an accepting community in our parishes where people are as comfortable sharing about their mental illness as they are about any other illness such as a heart condition or cancer. Some specific actions we can take include acknowledging and seeing the person before the illness. For example, use the phrase “a person with mental illness” rather than “a mentally ill person.” When you hear misleading statements, speak up with facts, and kindly point out what is unacceptable.

Supportive relationships are essential in all of our lives. As the NCPD points out “having a supportive relationship with a person with mental illness does not require the expertise of being a psychotherapist just as supporting a friend with cancer does not require being an oncologist.”

For more information on how to welcome and value the people in our families, communities and parishes with mental illness, read “Welcomed and Valued Building Faith Communities of Support and Hope with People with Mental Illness and Their Families” which is posted on the website of the National Catholic Partnership on Disability at www.ncpd.org.

Debra Hess is the CEO of Van Buren Community Mental Health and a member of the Diocesan Commission for Ministry to Persons with Disabilities. The commission, lead by Lisa Irwin, Associate Director, Parish Life&Lay Leadership, seeks to educate, affirm, counsel, advocate, and collaborate relating to issues pertinent to persons with disabilities. Bishop’s Annual Appeal begins this month

Did you know that the average annual cost to educate a seminarian is $50,000? Or that last year close to $90,000 raised over the appeal goal was returned to parishes for local projects?

This month the Bishop’s Annual Appeal for 2017 begins with “commitment” weekend planned for May 6th and 7th. An informational packet was mailed to registered parishioners last month with a personalized pledge card and letter from Bishop Bradley. “As we reflect on our call to holiness,” writes Bishop Bradley, “our call to be Jesus’ disciples, our call to change the world, I invite you to reflect on the many ways your participation in the Bishop’s Annual Appeal can help strengthen and make even more vital the good works of the Church in southwest Michigan.”

Descanse en Paz Angelita Rodriguez, 1932-2017

Mariella de los Angeles Rodríguez, Angelita como todos la conocíamos, ya está gozando de la presencia de Dios a quien ella tanto amó y en quien siempre confió. Murió el pasado sábado 15 de abril del 2017. Angelita fue una persona de un gran corazón, muy comprometida y bondadosa no solo con su familia sino también con la Iglesia y con toda la comunidad hispana.

Siempre tenía una sonrisa y su casa abierta para todos. Por más de treinta y cinco años, junto a su esposo, el Dicácono Maximino, sirvió a la comunidad de San Felipe de Jesús y también perteneció al Comité Diocesano de Pastoral Hispana de la Diócesis de Kalamazoo. Angelita y el Dicácono, fueron una pareja modelo que se querían y apoyaban mutuamente. Angelita fue una de las primeras esposas hispanas de la diócesis que dieron el “Sí” para que su esposo sirviera a la Iglesia de Kalamazoo como Dicácono Permanente.

De parte del Comité Diocesano de Pastoral Hispana, de la Oficina del Ministro Hispano, de toda la comunidad hispana y de parte de la Diócesis de Kalamazoo, les damos nuestro más sincero pésame al Dicácono Maximino, a sus hijos, nietos, biznietos, hermanos a y todo el resto de su familia. Y agradecemos el valioso testimonio de vida de Angelita, que nos anima como personas y como comunidad de fe a caminar con amor y alegría sirviendo a quienes más nos necesiten. Que su presencia espiritual y su imagen sonriente y dulce los colme de fortaleza y paz en estos momentos de dolor por su despedida.

Que Angelita y su hermana Ignacia Martínez, quien murió en el mes de septiembre del 2016, y su nieto, junto a sus hijos, nietos, biznietos, hermanos y a todo el resto de su familia.

Angelita fue una persona de un gran corazón, muy comprometida y bondadosa no solo con su familia sino también con la comunidad hispana de la diócesis que dieron el “Sí” para que su esposo sirviera a la Iglesia de Kalamazoo como Dicácono Permanente.

“Viviendo Como Pueblo de Dios en Tiempos Difíciles”

El pasado 22 de marzo el Comité Administrativo de la Conferencia de Obispos Católicos de los Estados Unidos emitió una reflexión pastoral titulada “Viviendo Como Pueblo de Dios en Tiempos Difíciles”. En esta declaración, los obispos exhortan a cada uno de nosotros a hacer lo posible para acompañar a los migrantes y los refugiados que buscan una vida mejor en los Estados Unidos.

Parte de la reflexión:

Vivir como pueblo de Dios es vivir en la esperanza de la resurrección. Vivir en Cristo es recurrir al amor sin límites de Jesús que nos fortifica contra la tentación del miedo. Oren para que nuestra participación en el debate sobre temas de inmigración y refugiados pueda traer paz y consuelo a los más afectados por cambios actuales y propuestos en la política nacional.

No debemos de perder de vista el hecho de que detrás de cada política está la historia de una persona en busca de una vida mejor. Pueden ser una familia inmigrante o refugiados haciendo sacrificios para que sus hijos tengan un mejor futuro. Como pastores de una Iglesia peregrina, no nos cansaremos de decir a las familias que tienen el valor de salir desde su desesperación hacia el camino de la esperanza: “Esta mos con ustedes”. También puede tratarse de una familia que busca seguridad debido a una creciente amenaza de violencia extremista. Es necesario proteger a los Estados Unidos de una manera que no nos haga perder nuestra humanidad.

Recomendaciones para que estén preparados:

Si un funcionario de ICE (Immigration and Customs Enforcement) viene a su domicilio, la persona puede rehusar a abrir la puerta hasta que el funcionario le presente una orden judicial. Es necesario proteger a los Estados Unidos de una manera que no nos haga perder nuestra humanidad."

Journalist recounts her “crash course in loving” in new book Motherprayer

By Kelly Hughes

Writer Barbara Mahany’s ability to capture the beauty of small moments, honed as a reporter and columnist for the Chicago Tribune, captivated readers of her first book, Slowing Time. Now, she turns her attention to the sacred mysteries of mothering in Motherprayer: Lessons in Loving (Abingdon Press, $18.99 hardcover), with a hope to apply these lessons to the world beyond our own familial bubbles.

For Mahany, who has two sons, “Motherprayer” captures the essence of what mothers do: a way of loving that becomes prayer beyond words. “Mothering was my crash course in love,” she says, teaching her how to “love in the way we yearn to be loved: Without end. Without question. Without giving in to exhaustion. Love with a big and boundless heart. With eyes and ears wide open. Love even when it’s not so easy.”

“Three threads of me — mother, journalist, once and always a nurse — combined in ways I’d not anticipated,” Mahany says. As she kept watch “on the species I birthed,” she kept field notes, gathered here in the book. The arc begins with her first pregnancy and continues on to the present day, written in real time: on the eve of first grade; the first night her firstborn drove off alone in the family car; while grieving a daughter lost to miscarriage; after a crushing baseball loss that broke a second-grader’s heart. These and other moments are extracted from motherhood “to ask the toughest questions, lay bare essential truths, and seize whatever shards of illumination I might have stumbled upon.”

Mahany is Catholic and her husband is Jewish, so her family encounters God in the rituals and idioms of two faith traditions. She writes about this weaving together of traditions in the faith life of her family. Since motherprayer can at times be expressed through food, readers will find recipes “From the Cookery Files” throughout the book, such as “Birthday Mac and Cheese (Or for Any Day When Comfort Is All You Need),” “Height-of-Summer Peach Shortcake,” and “Welcome-Home Brisket.”

“Mothering a child is the most sacred calling of my life,” Mahany writes. “It begs all I am and all I’ve got, and then some. Without prayer — the inside line to angels, saints, and Holy God — I’d not have made it, not even close, to labor and delivery. Nor a single day thereafter.”
