

Are you a survivor of human trafficking?

The Coalition to Abolish Slavery and Trafficking (CAST) helps people who have been in forced prostitution, forced labor and slave-like conditions by providing legal and social services, including shelter and shelter referrals.

Any survivor of human trafficking, whether it's labor or sex trafficking, a foreign national or a U.S. citizen, or an adult or a child can receive CAST's services at no charge.

YOU ARE A HUMAN TRAFFICKING SURVIVOR IF:

1. You were FORCED OR THREATENED TO WORK at any type of job and you could not leave it
2. Someone FORCED, THREATENED OR COERCED you into working in PROSTITUTION
3. You were UNDER 18 and you engaged in prostitution

No one has to have hit you or put you in chains for you to be a victim of human trafficking. People can be controlled by others in many different ways. The law protects you even if you didn't recognize that you were being controlled until later.
