

Texas Elite is for highly talented and dedicated players who aspire to play at the collegiate level

Making of Texas Elite Team

For those interested in trying out for a Texas Elite Basketball Club Spring/Summer Team

Here, we 'll provide some valuable information about our selection process

Types of Texas Elite Basketball Club Teams

There are three types of Texas Elite Basketball Club teams: 3SSB, Select and High School Prep. After tryouts our coaches will place players on the appropriate team level based on proper evaluation of player at tryout session. In many cases as well, players are evaluated over the course of the high school season.

Texas Elite 3SSB Teams

Texas Elite teams are comprised of players that are projected to play at the higher collegiate levels, including NCAA Division I, II and/or Junior College level. Elite teams are comprised of standout High School varsity basketball players, most whom are All-Region or All State Selections for multiple years during their career.

3SSB Teams play in NCAA sanctioned tournaments during official NCAA recruiting evaluation periods in April, May and July, in hopes of maximizing the opportunities to be seen by a wide range of college coaches. They will play 10-12 tournaments/events from March-July.

Texas Elite Select Teams

Texas Elite Select teams are comprised of very good High School Varsity Basketball players. These players either have or will make significant contributions to their respective High School Teams. Many of these players will have the opportunity to play at the collegiate level.

Texas Elite Select teams play in NCAA sanctioned Tournaments during NCAA recruiting evaluation periods in April, May and July, in hopes of maximizing the opportunities to be seen by college coaches. This guarantees that they are playing against good competition, leading to maximum improvement. They will play 10-12 tournaments/events from March- July.

Texas Elite High School Prep

Texas Elite High School Prep Teams are comprised of players trying to improve their standing on their High School Basketball Teams. These teams focus on skill development and preparation for playing at the High School Varsity level. Texas Elite High School Prep Teams play mostly local tournaments, plus one or two of in-state events. They will play 8- 10 tournaments from March – July. High School Prep Teams are usually 15U, 16U levels, but we could have a 17U teams depending on pool of players.

The Selection Process

Players are chosen for teams based on several factors, including individual skill set potential, being coachable, teamwork and team need at a specific position.

Following the tryouts, our coaching staff will get together to decide which players are the best fit for each team. The number of teams we put together for the Spring/Summer will depend on the number of players we feel will be competitive at that level and how many of the players that want to play. We will have 15U, 16U, 17U levels but we will field more teams when appropriate.
