ADVENT

Second Sunday of Advent

Shaken To Advent Awareness

On this Second Sunday of Advent the sacred texts proclaimed in our hearing speak a message intended to shake us into a renewed awareness of God's coming into our lives. We are reminded the coming of God in Jesus will demand that crooked ways of sin be made straight and that the rough places in our lives be shaken into smoothness. The prospect of Jesus' coming should shake us also with the realization of our need for penance and prayer, with a renewed resolve toward holy conduct and devotion.

Today's Bulletin is printed in thanksgiving to God.

Flowers for the Altar this weekend are donated in memory of Joyce Kresta by her family.

REFLECTION

Our God Who Comes To Save Us

John the Baptist, like his predecessors made his announcement to people who were struggling to maintain the hope that God would hear their prayer and send them a savior. His contemporaries had a great spiritual hunger. Despite the harshness of his call to repentance, they flocked to him, acknowledged their sins and were baptized. John's camel-hair clothing and leather belt identified him as a prophet. John's diet underscored the two-edged nature of his message as well as the good news that Jesus would bring. Those who accepted the Gospel of Salvation in faith would know blessings (signified by the honey); those who did not were planting the seeds of their own destruction (symbolized by the locusts).

John's voice speaks of making preparations for one who is not only greater than he, but is greater than even the emperor. He is the Lord whose way is prepared not with stones that pave a new road, but with hearts whose faith has created a welcome for him. Hearts that have turned from all else to God – this is the welcome that will receive the One who comes to baptize with the Holy Spirit.

They need your help now. Be generous.
