Ten Strategies for Coping with Grief

Grief is a personal experience, unique to each mourner and unique to each loss. Grief comes in waves, as times of peace and calm are suddenly shattered by overpowering emotion. The following strategies provide a few suggestions to help you ride out the waves as you cope with your grief.

1. Take time out. In many ways, the experience of grief is similar to recovery from a serious illness; some days will be darker, and some will be brighter. Recognize your limits, and separate the things that must be done from those that can wait. Don't worry about keeping up with your usual schedule. If you have to cancel or reschedule commitments, people will understand.

2. Avoid making major decisions. Grief can cloud your judgment and make it difficult to see beyond the pain you're feeling at the moment. Impulsive decisions – to move or change jobs, for example – can have far-reaching implications for which you may be unprepared. If you must make an important decision, discuss your options with someone you trust, such as a friend or financial advisor.

3. Talk. Painful feelings held inside are like an infection festering in a wound – they need to come out in order for you to heal. When friends ask how they can help, ask them to just be with you and listen. Tell them how important it is for you to be able to express what you're thinking and feeling. If you think you need more than the support of your friends, consider talking with a professional counselor.

4. Express yourself creatively. Writing is another excellent way to express yourself. Try keeping a journal or writing letters, whether you send them or not. When words won't come, artistic outlets like painting or sculpting can help you to communicate what's in your heart and soul. Creative expression can bring clarity to the turmoil you feel and insight into feelings you weren't aware of.

5. Honor your loved one's memory. Preserve your memories in ways that are comforting and meaningful. Enlarge and frame a favorite photo of your loved one, or compile a scrapbook of letters and mementoes from the good times you shared. Make a quilt from his clothing, or plant a tree or a bed of his favorite flowers to create a lasting tribute. Contributing time or money to your loved one's favorite cause or charity is also a noble way to honor her memory.

6. Take care of your physical health. Grief takes a physical toll as well as an emotional toll. Rest, exercise, and proper nutrition are essential to healing. Counteract a poor appetite by eating small amounts of healthy foods rather than large meals. If you have difficulty sleeping, try taking brief naps or just putting your feet up and relaxing whenever you can. And while you may not be motivated to exercise, just taking a brief walk now and then can lift your spirits and help you to sleep at night.
7. Avoid using chemicals to numb your feelings. A glass of wine can be good for the soul and help to settle jangled nerves, but overdoing it can bring a host of new problems. Attempting to numb your feelings with alcohol, illicit drugs, or prescription medications will only prolong the pain. Eventually, one way or the other, you must come to terms with your grief.

8. Have fun. Grieving is difficult, but it doesn't mean you have to feel bad all the time; in fact, it's important to take a break from focusing on your grief. Have fun when you can, whether it's reading a good book, watching a movie, playing cards, or resuming other activities you enjoyed before your loss. Don't feel guilty about it.

9. Plan ahead for special occasions. Anniversaries and holidays can be stressful times when you've lost someone you love, and especially so in the first year or two. Talk with family members about your concerns; this may be a good time to introduce new traditions to mark special occasions.

10. Reach out. In the beginning, grief may be so intense that you just want to withdraw or isolate. Soon, though, you'll be ready to ease back into social contact. Make a date with an old friend, or invite a neighbor to lunch. Or try volunteering with your church or favorite charity – you'll make new social contacts while you help others, and you'll feel good about yourself.
What is the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death?
The Catholic Declaration on Life and Death is a health care advance directive for Florida’s Catholics and is approved by the Bishops of Florida. This directive conforms to both Florida law and the teaching of the Church.

What is an “advance directive”? A health care advance directive is a written or oral statement made and witnessed in advance of serious illness or injury to address medical situations that may arise when a person becomes incapacitated or unable to make one’s own decisions. Executing an advance directive exercises good stewardship over the gift of life.

There are two forms of advance directives: the designation of health care surrogate, which authorizes a person to make decisions for the incapacitated patient, and the living will, which gives instructions to physicians and caregivers regarding medical care and treatment at the end-of-life. The Catholic Declaration on Life and Death merges both forms into one directive.

Designation of Health Care Surrogate
Every adult, 18 years of age and older, should designate in writing at least one health care surrogate to assist them in reviewing treatment options for an unexpected health crisis. Although while the person has decision making capacity their wishes are controlling, it is very important to have a surrogate who is prepared and authorized to make decisions for the patient and ensure that the patient’s wishes are respected if the patient becomes incapacitated.

Florida law permits a surrogate to receive health information and to assist in making health care decisions prior to incapacity if so designated.

The health care surrogate should be chosen carefully as someone who will represent the patient’s wishes regarding medical care and treatment or act in the patient’s best interest if those wishes are unknown. If the patient has not designated a health care surrogate, a framework provided in state law determines who makes decisions on behalf of an incapacitated patient.

The “Living Will” section of the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death gives the surrogate a basic framework for understanding the patient’s wishes regarding end-of-life care or treatment. Having a discussion with one’s surrogate and family members and keeping them informed of goals, hopes, options and concerns will provide helpful information and comfort to all involved if and when future decisions are made on ones’ behalf.

What if no surrogate is available or no surrogate is designated?
A section of the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death provides guidance regarding end-of-life care and treatment to those who are left to make decisions even if no surrogate is available or none has been designated.
Living Will
A living will specifies one’s wishes should a person become unable to express those wishes at the time health care decisions are needed at the end of life. There are many forms of living wills available, some of which are not consistent with Catholic teaching.

Circumstances Requiring Special Attention
Consulting with family, physicians, clergy, and pastoral health care workers is especially helpful for one who must make difficult decisions. One need not make these decisions without the support, advice, and guidance of others.

Additions to the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death
Space is provided in the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death to add personal directions. Caution and care should be taken in making additions, as certain instructions set in writing could be problematic in some unforeseen circumstances. For instance, a particular treatment that may not be desirable long term could be life-saving and health-restoring when used for a short time. The following are examples of appropriate additional instructions:
- Organ donors may wish to add: “I hereby donate any needed organs (or tissue) as an anatomical gift if I meet medical criteria at the time of my death.”
- A woman of childbearing age should add: “If I am pregnant, then take every reasonable means to preserve the life of my unborn child.”

Things to Do:
- Complete the Catholic Declaration on Life and Death and have it witnessed.
- Discuss your wishes about health care decisions with family members and surrogates now, while able.
- Choose health care providers who are familiar with and respectful of your values.
- After executing an advance directive, and after discussing the issues with your family and surrogate, provide copies to your surrogate (and alternate), family, attorney, physician(s), and the hospital or nursing home (upon each admission).
- Craft a separate document with information important to you. It could include a list of persons to be notified if you are sick or dying, special prayers you would like, a request for or extension of forgiveness, and expression of thanks, your funeral plans and obituary information. Tell your surrogate about this document and keep it with your Catholic Declaration on Life and Death.

Things to Remember:
- The best way to make sure wishes are known and followed is to designate and prepare one’s own surrogate in advance of a medical emergency.
- Hospice teams are specially trained to care for persons with terminal illness. Ask your health care provider if hospice is appropriate for you or your loved one.
- If a person completes more than one advance directive, the most recent one is in effect; the others are invalid.
- An advance directive can be updated at any time by a person with capacity, provided the change is properly witnessed. Such changes are best made in writing.
- Asking for or demanding assisted suicide, euthanasia or mercy killing is not only wrong for the person signing the document, but making such a request also does a serious injustice to physicians, family and medical personnel to whom such immoral demands are made.
- The Catechism of the Catholic Church reminds us that “[t]he dying should be given attention and care to help them live their last moments in dignity and peace. They will be helped by the prayer of their relatives, who must see to it that the sick receive at the proper time the sacraments that prepare them to meet the living God.” (CCC #2299)
The following are excerpts from Church teaching documents:

ALL LIFE HAS INESTIMABLE VALUE
“Even the weakest and most vulnerable, the sick, the old, the unborn and the poor, are masterpieces of God’s creation, made in his own image, destined to live forever, and deserving of the utmost reverence and respect.”

-- Pope Francis

HOPE FOR ETERNAL LIFE THROUGH DEATH
Christ’s redemption and saving grace embrace the whole person, especially in his or her illness, suffering, and death. The Catholic health care ministry faces the reality of death with the confidence of faith. In the face of death – for many, a time when hope seems lost – the Church witnesses to her belief that God has created each person for eternal life.

TO CARE WHEN WE CANNOT CURE
The task of medicine is to care even when we cannot cure. Physicians and their patients must evaluate the use of the technology at their disposal. Reflection on the innate dignity of human life in all its dimensions and on the purpose of medical care is indispensable for formulating a true moral judgment about the use of technology to maintain life. The use of life-sustaining technology is judged in light of the Christian meaning of life, suffering, and death.

CONSIDERING BENEFITS AND BURDENS
A person has a moral obligation to use ordinary or proportionate means of preserving his or her life. Proportionate means are those that in the judgment of the patient offer a reasonable hope of benefit and do not entail an excessive burden or impose excessive expense on the family or the community.

A person may forgo extraordinary or disproportionate means of preserving life. Disproportionate means are those that in the patient’s judgment do not offer a reasonable hope of benefit or entail an excessive burden, or impose excessive expense on the family or the community.

FAITHFUL STEWARDS OF OUR LIVES
The truth that life is a precious gift from God has profound implications for the question of stewardship over human life. We are not the owners of our lives and, hence, do not have absolute power over life. We have a duty to preserve our life and to use it for the glory of God, but the duty to preserve life is not absolute, for we may reject life-prolonging procedures that are insufficiently beneficial or excessively burdensome. Suicide and euthanasia are never morally acceptable options.

RELIEVING PAIN
Patients should be kept as free of pain as possible so that they may die comfortably and with dignity, and in the place where they wish to die. Since a person has the right to prepare for his or her death while fully conscious, he or she should not be deprived of consciousness without a compelling reason. Medicines capable of alleviating or suppressing pain may be given to a dying person, even if this therapy may indirectly shorten the person’s life so long as the intent is not to hasten death. Patients experiencing suffering that cannot be alleviated should be helped to appreciate the Christian understanding of redemptive suffering.

HUMAN SUFFERING
It is faith in Christ that enlightens Christians regarding sickness and the condition of the aged person, as in every other event and phase of existence. Jesus, dying on the Cross, gave human suffering a transcendent value and meaning. Faced with suffering and sickness, believers are invited to remain calm because nothing, not even death, can separate us from the love of Christ.

-- Pope Benedict XVI
Address to the Pontifical Council on Health Care, November 17, 2007

ON QUESTIONS OF NUTRITION AND HYDRATION
In principle, there is an obligation to provide patients with food and water, including medically assisted nutrition and hydration for those who cannot take food orally. This obligation extends to patients in chronic and presumably irreversible conditions (e.g., the “persistent vegetative state”) who can reasonably be expected to live indefinitely if given such care. Medically assisted nutrition and hydration become morally optional when they cannot reasonably be expected to prolong life or when they would be “excessively burdensome for the patient or [would] cause significant physical discomfort, for example resulting from complications in the use of the means employed.” For instance, as a patient draws close to inevitable death from an underlying progressive and fatal condition, certain measures to provide nutrition and hydration may become excessively burdensome and therefore not obligatory in light of their very limited ability to prolong life or provide comfort.

EUTHANASIA AND ASSISTED SUICIDE
As a gift from God, every human life is sacred from conception to natural death. The life and dignity of every person must be respected and protected at every stage and in every condition.

Issues and Action/Human Life and Dignity Webpage (2015)
As Christians, we profess faith in the incarnation of the Word made flesh and His bodily resurrection, which we will share on the Last Day. We are reminded of the words of Saint Paul who wrote to the Corinthians: “You must know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit who is within the Spirit you have received from God. You are not your own. You have been purchased, and at a price. So glorify God in your body”. (I Corinthians 6:19-20)

Q1: Does the church allow cremation of the body?
A1: Catholics may choose cremation, provided it in no way expresses a denial of the Catholic teaching of the dignity of the body, created by Almighty God to be a temple of the Holy Spirit and destined to share fully in the Resurrection of the just on the Last Day.

Although the church understands that certain circumstances and preferences may exist for individuals or relatives to seek cremation, she maintains as a first preference the funeral rites with the body present and its immediate burial in a cemetery.

Q2: What is the first step in considering cremation?
A2: Catholic faithful are encouraged to seek the counsel of their pastor before choosing cremation.

Q3: If cremation is chosen, when should the body be cremated?
A3: The church recommends that the body be cremated after the funeral, thus allowing for the presence of the body at the funeral Mass. When pastoral circumstances require it, however, cremation and committal may take place even before the funeral liturgy.

Pastors in Florida can grant permission on an individual basis for cremated remains to be present at the funeral Mass.

Q4: How should the final disposition of the cremated remains be handled?
A4: The final disposition of cremated remains should always reflect the Christian belief in the bodily resurrection and the respect afforded to the human body, even after death.

Q5: What is the proper method for final disposition of the cremated remains?
A5: The church recommends that the burial or entombment of the cremated remains occur without delay, once the cremation process is completed.

Cremated remains are to be placed in an urn (or other suitable container) and either buried in the ground or at sea, or entombed in a columbarium.

Catholics are strongly encouraged to be buried or entombed in a Catholic cemetery, or if one is not available, the Catholic section of a non-Catholic cemetery.

Q6: What practices for handling cremated remains are to be avoided?
A6: The practice of scattering cremated remains on the sea, from the air, or on the ground, or keeping cremated remains in the home of a relative or friend of the deceased are not the reverent disposition the church requires. Such methods of disposing of cremated remains are inconsistent with the due respect and honor that the church wants to preserve for her departed children.

The practice of a common grave, ground or niche where the cremated remains of several persons are scattered, poured, buried or combined without individual urns is to be completely avoided in Catholic cemeteries. Catholics should not select this practice for the final disposition of their mortal, cremated remains.

Q7: Can cremated remains be divided or combined with those of others?
A7: Each urn is to contain the cremated remains of only one person. The cremated remains of one person are not to be divided but rather are always kept in the same urn.

Q8: Can cremated remains be buried at sea?
A8: The cremated remains of the body may be properly buried at sea in the urn, coffin or other container in which they have been carried to the place of committal.

The answers provided here are excerpted from the Statement and Policy on Cremation, approved by the Bishops of Florida, December 4, 2006. For complete text of this policy, please contact your pastor or visit www.flaccb.org/provincepolicies/Cremation12-06.pdf.
CATHOLIC DECLARATION ON LIFE AND DEATH
ADVANCE DIRECTIVE
(HEALTH SURROGATE DESIGNATION/LIVING WILL) OF

Introduction
I am executing this Catholic Declaration on Life and Death while I am of sound mind. It is intended to designate a surrogate and provide guidance in making medical decisions in the event I am incapacitated or unable to express my own wishes.

Statement of Faith
I believe that I have been created for eternal life in union with God. The truth that my life is a precious gift from God has profound implications for the question of stewardship over my life. I have a duty to preserve my life and to use it for God’s glory, but the duty to preserve my life is not absolute, for I may reject life-prolonging procedures that are insufficiently beneficial or excessively burdensome. Suicide and euthanasia are never morally acceptable options.\(^1\) If I should become irreversibly and terminally ill, I request to be fully informed of my condition so that I can prepare myself spiritually for death and witness to my belief in Christ’s redemption.

Designation of Health Care Surrogate
In the event that I become incapacitated, I designate as my surrogate for health care decisions (if no surrogate is to be appointed, please write “none” in place of “name” below):

Name:________________________________________________________
Address:_______________________________________________________
Phones (H, W, C):______________________________________________

If my surrogate is unwilling or unable to perform his or her duties or cannot be contacted, I wish to designate as my alternate surrogate (if no alternate surrogate is to be appointed, please write “none” in place of “name” below):

Name:________________________________________________________
Address:_______________________________________________________
Phones (H, W, C):______________________________________________

This directive will permit my surrogate to make health care decisions, and to provide, withhold, or withdraw consent on my behalf; to apply for public benefits to defray the cost of health care; to receive my personal health care information; and to authorize my admission to or transfer from a health care facility. My surrogate is further appointed as my “Personal Representative.”\(^2\) This directive is not being made as a condition of treatment or admission to a health care facility. This document must be signed and witnessed on the other side to be valid.

\(^2\) As defined by 45 CFR 164.502(g), for purposes of compliance with Federal HIPAA Laws and Regulations (the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996).
Living Will
The following gives guidance for carrying out my wishes at the end of life. If at any time I am incapacitated and I have a terminal condition or I have an end-stage condition, and if my attending or treating physician and another consulting physician have determined that there is no reasonable medical probability of my recovery from such condition(s), my health care surrogate (designated above, if any) will be authorized to make decisions for me in accordance with my wishes expressed in this Declaration. If my surrogate cannot be contacted (or I have not named a surrogate), then I request and direct that each of the following be considered in making a decision for me.

That:

1. I be provided care and comfort, and that my pain be relieved.
2. No inappropriate, excessively burdensome nor disproportionate means be used to prolong my life. This can include medical or surgical procedures.
3. There should be a presumption in favor of providing nutrition and hydration to me, including medically assisted nutrition and hydration, unless:
   a. They cannot reasonably be expected to prolong my life; or
   b. The means used to deliver the nutrition and hydration are excessively burdensome and do not offer sufficient benefit or would cause me significant physical discomfort; or
   c. I am imminently dying from an irreversible condition.
4. Nothing be done with the intention of causing my death.
5. Spiritual care be provided, including sacraments whenever possible.
