Happy and Blessed Father’s Day
to all the Dads,
Stepdads, Grandpas & Great-grandpas!

Dios, nuestro Padre, que con Tu sabiduría y amor hiciste todas las cosas. Bendice a los padres que han tomado sobre si mismos, la responsabilidad de ser padres. Ben dice a los que han perdido su esposa a la muerte, o divorcio, y que están criando a sus hijos solos. Fortalecélos con Tu amor para que sean y se conviertan en personas amorosas y cuidadosas como está escrito. Te lo pedimos por Cristo, nuestro Señor. Amen.

God, our Father, in your wisdom and love You made all things. Bless those fathers who have taken upon themselves the responsibility of parenting. Bless those who have lost a spouse to death, or divorce, and are parenting their children alone. Strengthen by Your love that they may be and become the loving, caring persons they are meant to be. Grant this through Christ, our Lord.

Amen.

Our fathers whom we remember and honor today are examples of the mustard seed in today’s Gospel. Often fathers take a beating from the world. Like members of the Church, there are a lot of really good fathers and some not so good. I read about a man who was out on the golf course. He spotted another man who had four caddies. “Why so many caddies?” the first man asked the second.

The second golfer replied, “It’s my wife’s idea. She thinks I should spend more time with the kids.”

I suspect he’s the same Dad who was asked by his wife when they brought home their first baby to help with changing diapers. “I’m busy,” he said, “I’ll do the next one.”

The next time came around and she asked again. The husband looked puzzled, “Oh! I didn’t mean the next diaper. I meant the next baby!”

If that doesn’t make you laugh, it’ll make you cry.

The late Bill Keane was the creator of the Family Circus cartoon strip. In one of his most memorable cartoons, we see Dad relaxing in his easy chair trying to read the paper. He turns to see little Billy carrying his ball, bat and glove. Billy says, “Anytime you’re ready, Daddy, I’ll be sitting outside growing older.”

Ooh, that hurts. It’s not easy being a Dad just as it is not easy being a Mom. Of course, there are many times when dads come in handy.

I read about a beautiful wedding in which a radiant bride processed down the aisle on the arm of her father. They reached the altar where the smiling groom stood waiting. The bride kissed her father and placed something in his hand. It was . . . his credit card.

Sometimes dads do come in handy.

Comic Robin Fairbanks said, “I have an 18-year-old. Her name is Alexis. I chose that name because if I hadn’t had her, I’d be driving one.”

It’s not easy, particularly in today’s world, to be a Dad. Kids today expect so much. I personally like the comedian Phyllis Diller’s comment. She said, “I want my children to have all the things I couldn’t afford. Then I want to move in with them.”

All kidding aside, most of us here owe a tremendous debt to our fathers because of the seeds they sowed into our lives by their selfless love, support, strength and generosity. What seeds? The majority of our fathers:

- Modeled for us the right behaviors. They led by example and they avoided, “Do as I say, not as I do!”
- Taught us the importance of living the holy faith and a virtuous life, and they taught us the difference between right and wrong.
- They encouraged excellence and independent thinking.
- They listened to our thoughts and ideas with patience and good counsel.
- They loved us without reservation, but also they loved us enough to say no, when necessary.
- They exposed us to God, nature, beauty, art, music, history, and different cultures.
- They gave us quality time and made family time a priority.
- They instilled an appreciation for hard work and how to be responsible with money.
- They created boundaries and explained the rules. Discipline was important.
- They taught us to respect our elders and authority, to be polite, courteous, and helpful to all.
- They inspired us to give back to the community and help others.
- They challenged us to develop their minds.

The incredible effect of the mustard seeds that our fathers sowed was expressed best in a very moving essay titled, God Bless Our Dad Who Drugged Us! It reads as:

The other day, someone at a store in our town read that a methamphetamine lab had been found in an old farmhouse in the adjoining county, and he asked me a rhetorical question, “Why didn’t we have a drug problem when you and I were growing up?”

I replied: “I did have a drug problem when I was young: I was drug to church on Sunday morning. I was drug to church for weddings and funerals. I was drug to family reunions and community socials no matter the weather. I was drug by my ears when I was disrespectful to adults. I was also drug to the woodshed when I disobeyed my parents or told a lie or brought home a bad report card or did not speak with respect, or when I spoke ill of the teacher or the preacher or if I didn’t put forth my best effort in everything that was asked of me. I was drug to the kitchen sink to have my mouth washed out with soap if I uttered a profane four-letter word. Then I was drug to pull weeds in mom’s garden and flower beds and cockleburs out of dad’s fields. I was drug to the homes of family, friends, and neighbors to help out some poor soul who had no one to mow the yard, repair the clothesline, or chop some firewood. And, if my father had ever known that I took a single dime as a tip for this kindness, he would have drug me back to the woodshed.

Those drugs are still in my veins; and they affect my behavior in everything I do, say, and think. They are stronger than cocaine, crack, or heroin. And, if today’s children had this kind of drug problem, America would be a better place. Amen to that!

And God bless our dads who sowed the seeds of goodness in us and nurtured those seeds and cared enough to drug us.

Happy Father’s Day!

Yours in Christ, Fr. Joseph Shea

Talk to your teens about handling workplace violence

Many teens will get their first job while still in high school. Building a work ethic is a great and necessary skill, but teens need to be informed about how to handle possible workplace violence. Coworkers are not always thoroughly screened, and your teen could face another employee’s rage or anger that could put them in danger. Talk to your teens about warning signs—short tempers, intimidation, drug use—and about how to remove themselves when they feel unsafe in a situation, and how to report any concerns they have, to a safe adult. CALENDARIO DE ACTIVIDADES

¿Sabía Usted?

Muchos adolescentes tendrán su primer trabajo mientras todavía están en la escuela secundaria. Construir una ética de trabajo es una gran y necesaria habilidad, pero los adolescentes también deben estar preparados a manejar situaciones potencialmente violentas en el trabajo. Los compañeros de trabajo no siempre son investigados exhaustivamente, y su hijo adolescente podría enfrentar la rabia o el enojo de otra persona que lo pone en peligro. Hable con sus hijos adolescentes acerca de las señales de advertencia: falta de temperamento, intimidación, consumo de drogas y sobre cómo retirarse cuando se sienten inseguros en una situación.
