Dear friends,

In light of the justified uproar about Governor Andrew Cuomo signing into law the “infanticide” bill and gleefully celebrating it, I came across an article titled Lay Catholics: Stop Waiting for Bishops to do Your Job by Peter Wolfgang. It places the bulls’ eye where it should be.

“It is a familiar story. The particulars are more radical this time. But it is essentially the same story. A Catholic politician commits some grave public violation of basic human rights. Outraged Catholics call for his head on an ecclesiastical platter. The bishop wrings his hands but does essentially nothing.

The most brazen example yet is that of New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo’s celebratory enacting of a law maintaining the legality of abortion just prior to birth, and Cardinal Timothy Dolan’s refusal to excommunicate him for it.

The outrage among the faithful over the inaction of Cardinal Dolan, and countless other bishops, is understandable. I share it.

It is the role of the bishops to teach, govern and sanctify the Church. The less they do their job, the harder it is to form a laity with the proper catechesis and holy boldness to defend faith, family and the unborn in the public square.

But if your reaction to the barbarism of Gov. Cuomo consists mostly of just shaking your fist at Cardinal Dolan, you are doing something wrong. In fact, you are not doing your job as a layman.

This is something I have seen repeatedly in my fifteen years as a Catholic lay activist: The strange tendency of the lay faithful to focus almost entirely on the internal drama of the Church, to the exclusion of much else. The result is a clericalized laity that is not much more effective than the priests and bishops against whom they inveigh.

Fr. Roger Landry, in a 2013 column expressing the early hopes of the Francis pontificate, described it this way: “Clericalization means focusing fundamentally on the things of the clergy and, more specifically, the sanctuary, rather than on bringing the Gospel to the world.” In the fight for faith and family in the public square, this clericalism of the laity fails in two ways.

First, and most obviously, we lose fights that we were never really in.

In the Fall of 2007, Connecticut’s Catholic faithful erupted in anger at our state’s bishops when they chose not to fight a law from going into effect that forced the Catholic hospitals to provide the Plan B abortifacient drug. But six months earlier, when we could have stopped the bill at the legislature, the lay faithful were largely silent.

This incident was overshadowed by another attack on the Church in Connecticut two years later in which the bishops and laity did rise up and win. But in my experience, 2007 has been the rule and 2009 the exception. In most cases, the lay faithful bring far more energy to excoriating the clergy than they do to defending the faith in the public square.

Yet the laity’s most important sphere of influence is the public square and that is where the bulk of our energy should be focused. When it is not, we lose. And then we blame the bishops.

The second way in which the clericalism of the laity fails is in how it skews our vision. Instead of being focused on where we can do the most good, we chase after things that, even if achieved, would likely not bring about our desired goal. I am talking about that most cherished item on the wish-list of every disappointed pro-life Catholic: the excommunication/ denial of communion/ disinvitation from public events of pro-abortion Catholic politicians.

Yes, I think it should happen too. And yes, it should be done for the good of their own souls and to redress the scandal they have caused. But the vast majority of comments that I see, wishing for this to happen, seem to be borne out of a belief that this action would turn the tide in the fight for the unborn. That is, that politicians would change their ways or that the sleeping giant of 60 million Catholics would stop voting for them.

This is a bizarre belief that could only result from spending too much time in the exceedingly tiny subculture of the Catholic faithful and not enough time in the rest of society. It would be as if it were still 1960, when 80% of Catholics voted for Jack Kennedy, and the last six decades never happened.

I am a 49 year old man who, except for 7th grade, attended public school. My classmates were largely Irish or Italian Catholics. If, say, Cardinal Dolan had disinvited Barack Obama from the Al Smith dinner in 2012, it would not have changed a single vote among my old friends who re-elected him. They might still check off “Catholic” on a census form but most of them don’t even know who Cardinal Dolan is (or who Al Smith was). They haven’t seen the inside of a church in years. And this is true not just of many of the hundreds of people with whom I grew up, but also of members of my family of origin and almost every cultural Catholic I know.

The tendency to think a good excommunication might have the desired political effect on this crowd is a result of being too much in the Catholic bubble. In a devastating 2014 look at “The Shame of the Catholic Subculture,” John Zmirak cited research showing that the “orthodox Catholic market” in the USA is “no higher than 1.2 million.” Those are the only ones who would take positive note of an excommunication. “We need to encounter a broader range of humanity than can be found in that doctrine-conscious 5 percent.” Zmirak writes. That ought to be the goal of every faithful Catholic who is rightly disgusted over Andrew Cuomo’s celebration of the killing of unborn children in the final moments before birth.

Forget Cardinal Dolan for five minutes. Put aside the internal dramas of the church. Focus instead on Christianizing your rightful sphere of influence, the public square. Join the town committee of your preferred political party and advocate for candidates who support Catholic values. Seek out your state’s family policy council. And, on the national level, get involved with groups like CatholicVote.org. These are entities that are focused less on excommunication in the communion line and more on defeat and victory at the ballot box. And that is where we should be focused too.” Great food for thought for all of us! God bless you.

Yours in Christ,

Fr. Joseph Shea

“Helping Build Up the Domestic Church”

What is the “Domestic Church”? The term “Domestic Church” refers to the family, the smallest body of gathered believers in Christ. Though recovered only recently, the term dates all the way back to the first century AD. The Greek word ecclesiola referred to “little church.” Our Early Church Fathers understood that the home was fertile ground for discipleship, sanctification, and holiness. Are you and your family saints in training in your own “little church”? Your answer should be YES! Visit the Office of Faith Formation for more information on training to be saints!

R.C.I.A. Dismissal Sessions

Perhaps you’ve seen the Catechumens (unbaptized) and Candidates (already baptized) being “dismissed” after the Homily at the Sunday 9 AM Mass, exiting down the center aisle and wondered, “where are they going and what are they doing”? The Catechumens and Candidates are not yet fully initiated Catholics and cannot partake in the Eucharist. So they are “Dismissed” to a private area to discuss what they just heard. The Dismissal Session focuses on a greater understanding of the Readings and Homily just proclaimed. They are asked to reflect on the Readings and Homily and to apply the teachings to their lives. What did I hear? What does it mean to me in my life? and What changes do I need to make in my life from what I’ve heard today? This reflection and sharing takes place in the Dismissal Session. We can all ask ourselves these questions and reflect on them, especially during this upcoming Lenten Season.

A new RCIA Inquiry group is forming. As a Disciple of Christ, invite someone to “Come and See” what our Catholic Faith is about. There is no commitment in the early phase of the Process. Contact the RCIA Office: 805 526-5513. As their Church Family, please continue to pray for our Catechumens and Candidates as they discern their readiness to become Fully Initiated Catholics.

Did you Know?

To establish confidence with your children start with questions about their daily activities.

Sometimes children will behave in a manner quite unusual for them – stress, misunderstanding, or some form of abuse can be related to such behaviors. If you see your child exhibiting unusual behavior, talk with your child about their day or recent experiences in an open-ended conversation. Do ask factual questions, such as, “What did you do today? Did you do anything unusual today? Who did you see today? Did anyone say or do anything that was unusual or even upsetting? Then, ask feeling questions as a follow-up, and remember that sometimes it’s easier for a child to talk about someone else’s feelings first.

Fr. John Moloney’s Retirement

Fr. John, thank you for your many years of priestly service. Congratulations on your retirement. We are very happy that you will be staying with us for many more years. May you enjoy the rest of the journey that God has planned for you!

After 46 wonderful years of priesthood and 2 years here at St. Rose of Lima, Fr. John Moloney has decided to retire. We are so glad that he has decided to stay at St. Rose to assist us in his retirement when he is not traveling.

Fr. John will celebrate a Mass of Thanksgiving on Sunday, March 17, 2019 at 11:00am.

We are having a wonderful luncheon in the parish hall after Mass with a delicious menu—Mexican, Filipino, Italian and good old American food, complete with wine. Because of the expected overflow crowd, we are selling tickets to this reception. All monies received from the tickets will be given to Father John to assist him when he travels during his retirement. We have now less than 100 tickets available for the reception and the suggested donation price is $25. To reserve your tickets please contact us at the rectory. NO CAUSAR DAÑO

Escuchamos por un buen rato antes de llegar a la “culminación ingeniosa” de la primera lectura de hoy: si bien hubiera sido fácil hacerlo, David no causará daño al ungido del Señor. Nosotros, por supuesto, sabemos que Jesús es el Mesías, el ungido de Dios, mas la Biblia usa ese término para distintas personas. Es la manera bíblica de indicar quién ha sido elegido por Dios para un lugar y misión especial dentro de la historia de la salvación. En el Evangelio de hoy, Jesús presenta una abultada lista de aquellos a quienes, por ser hijos de Dios, no debemos dañar, sino más bien amar: nuestros enemigos, los que nos maldicen o nos hacen daño, los que nos deben dinero, los ingratos, los malvados. El punto de la enseñanza de Jesús no es alentar esos tipos de comportamiento en otros, sino más bien formarnos a imagen de nuestro Padre celestial cuando incrementamos las oportunidades para amar incondicionalmente, sin esperar nada a cambio; ser misericordiosos y compasivo, aun cuando sería más fácil no serlo. ¿SABÍA USTED?

A veces, los niños se comportan de una manera bastante extraña: el estrés, los malentendidos o algún tipo de abuso pueden estar relacionados con tales comportamientos. Si ve que su hijo/a muestra un comportamiento inusual, hable con él o ella abiertamente sobre el día o las experiencias recientes. Haga preguntas de los hechos del día, tales como: “¿Qué hiciste hoy? ¿Hiciste algo inusual hoy? ¿A quién viste hoy? ¿Alguien dijo o hizo algo que fuera inusual o incluso molesto? Luego, como seguimiento, hágale preguntas sobre sus sentimientos, y recuerde que a veces es más fácil para un/a niño/a hablar de los sentimientos de otra persona primero.
