Dear Lord,

We pray that the Blessed Mother wrap her mantle around Your priests and through her intercession strengthen them for their ministry. We pray that Mary will guide Your priests to follow her own words,

“Do whatever He tells you” (Jn 2:5).
May Your priests have the heart of St.

Please pray for:

Deacon James Dvorak
St. Mary’s Seminary

Joseph, Mary’s most chaste spouse. May the Blessed Mother’s own pierced heart inspire them to embrace all who suffer at the foot of the cross. May Your priests be holy, filled with the fire of your love, seeking nothing but Your greater glory and the salvation of souls. Amen.

Weekly Reflection ~ June 28

13th Sunday in Ordinary Time

We tend to respond to people we meet according to their status. We are very careful to treat those deemed important with courtesy and respect. Yet, each person is a child of God and our brother or sister. Each person is special and beloved in God’s eyes. How do you treat the store clerk, garbage collector, or street beggar? Do you treat them as someone special in God’s eyes? Are you so focused on your own concerns that you do not notice the needs of others? Consider how you might become more aware and respectful of those you encounter in the course of your day.

“I promise you that whoever gives a cup of cold water to one of these lowly ones because he is a disciple will not want for his reward

Keeping Our Faith in Challenging Times

We look around and see precautions that many of us are taking to protect ourselves physically. We take any guidelines and suggestions recommended by our leaders seriously. We eat balanced meals to keep ourselves healthy, wear our masks, and are careful about keeping our distance in crowds; we avoid unnecessary contacts and we stay safely at home as much as possible. At this point we do not know how long we will be concerned about danger from COVID-19. Because many places of worship may still have some restrictions, and because many of us may have concerns about mixing with congregational crowds, I often hear people, especially the elderly, expressing concern about not being able to be nourished by Masses and the sacraments. May I reassure you that God is always with us. It is in times such as these that we are rekeeping Our Faith in Challenging Times minded of all those of good will who may be deprived of spiritual support. Just think of all who are politically persecuted for practicing their faith. Let us pray especially for them. And then let us remember and pray for all those in mission or isolated areas who have limited access to the Mass and sacraments. I often think of an experience I had, during which I developed a more profound appreciation for the spiritual bounty which we often have here. Years ago, I spent a summer at an Incarnate Word Mission base down in Oaxaca in southern Mexico. Teen-aged girls would spend two years at the Mission learning Spanish and basic catechetical skills, after which they would go back to their mountain villages where they would catechize in their indigenous languages. During the summer, the Sisters and a native priest would travel to these villages to check on them. Two of us U.S. Sisters joined them on one of these visiting trips. Talk about isolation! No wonder there were so many indigenous languages. There seemed to be little connection between the villages in the mountains. It was too far or too difficult to walk, and roads and modes of transportation for the villagers were very rare. Sometimes we could see the next village in the distance as we were traveling, but it would take all day to wind down the mountain on rough dirt roads and up the next mountain to get to the village. I was so amazed at the depth of the faith of the people. They would walk long distances to spiritual activities or opportunities to learn. I remember seeing them sit on a log for six hours straight for a lesson on the role of the laity in the Church. They took care of the evangelization in the Church; they only saw a priest a few times a year -- if that often. So let us thank God for the opportunities that we DO have as we continually strive to deepen our love and relationship with God and with one another.
