With this collection you support programs that address the causes of poverty and provide a sustainable future for those who are struggling across the country. In addition, 25 percent of funds collected remains in our diocese to fund local anti-poverty projects. Please prayerfully consider how you can support this collection and work on the margins. More information about the Catholic Campaign for Human Development can be found at www.usccb.org/cchd/collection.

Apocalipsis 11, 4-12
Lucas 18, 1-8
As we approach the final Sunday of the Church’s year, our attention is directed toward a dual realization – our eternal life and the life of mankind in general. For the atheist, death is the end and summation of our life; however, for the Christian, death is only the beginning of an eternal existence of love and completion or ruination and eternal torment brought about by our own actions and desires. Throughout various cultures, there exists beliefs that good triumphs over evil in the end. It is this final judgement that gives way to the perfection of God’s creation and the restoration of order after the chaos caused by the introduction of evil into our existence through the exercising of our free will. This re-creation is the fulfillment of God’s Divine Plan brought about by His great love and desire to walk, once again, with mankind in Paradise.

Today’s first reading is from the Book of the Prophet Daniel. In this reading, the apocalyptic scene depicts the coming of Michael, the archangel and great prince, during the time of great distress. This guardian of Israel will collect the righteous and separate them from the wicked who will be sentenced to everlasting horror and disgrace. The selected wise will shine luminously and lead the good to justice and eternal happiness. The selection of this account primes us to rectify our actions and make sure they are in compliance with the Will of the Lord who will judge us at our death and at the time of fulfillment. It is at this time that Christ will restore all back to God.

It is this same intercessor, Christ Jesus, that the second reading from the Letter to the Hebrews discusses. Christ is portrayed as the only source for this restoration. Being both the eternal High Priest and the eternal sacrificial lamb, Jesus makes perfect the fallen humanity and consecrates all. This once and for all time sacrifice of Christ has created the New and final Covenant displaying for all humanity the depth of agape love the Creator has for his own. This new relationship has transformed the old and has established order where disorder previously existed due to the fall of Adam and Eve. It permanently separates good from evil or the Just from the Unjust. It is the final reconciliation of man with God and the perfection of creation for eternity.

This separation is the scene depicted in the Gospel of Mark. In today’s Gospel, Jesus warns his disciples of what is to come. Christ prognosticates a great tribulation that will be marked by a great cosmic event This event will herald the return of Jesus to Earth with his angels to gather up the righteous and punish the wicked. As is usual, this scripture marks more than one event. This prophecy foretells the fall and the destruction of the Temple by the Romans in the immediate future as well as the end of the Ages prophesied by Daniel and anticipated by Christians. Jesus warns his followers that they must prepare because no person, not even Himself, knows the time for these events to occur. That being the case, it behooves all to transform their hearts with the mercy of God; thus, preparing themselves for the apocalyptic events and Jesus’ final appearance.

Holy Mother the Church takes the opportunity to remind us of our needed transformation. Next week, we celebrate the Solemnity of Christ the King of the Universe. To prepare ourselves for this solemnity and for our own particular judgement should it occur, Holy Mother the Church calls us to discernment and prayer. The timing of her request reflects the same timing that Jesus was giving the people of his time. Christ knew that since the New Temple, the Church, was being built then the Old Temple would fall. Its desecration and total destruction would be viewed as the “end times”. From that time onward, Jews would have no place to join God in their supplications for the forgiveness of their sins. Likewise, the Church knows that since we do not know the time of our own worldly destruction or death, we, too, must seize the opportunity to approach God and ask for our own forgiveness by Him and our brothers and sisters. Are we going to continue by Him and our brothers and sisters. Are we going to continue our worldly ways or are we going to allow God to soften our own worldly destruction or death, we, too, must seize the opportunity to approach God and ask for our own forgiveness by Him and our brothers and sisters. Are we going to continue our worldly ways or are we going to allow God to soften our hearts of stone and replace them with a natural and divine heart of love and mercy? As we conclude the Church’s year, our own fate lies in our own decisions and in the mercy of the One who came to forgive all who had “ears to hear”.

SAINT OF THE WEEK

St. Agnes of Assisi - November 19th
Born in 1197 in Assisi, St. Agnes, the younger sister of St. Clare, left home for the monastery even though her family was against it. When they tried to bring her back, her body became so heavy that several knights could not budge her. Her uncle tried to strike her but was temporarily paralyzed in his attempt. She was finally left alone and she matched her older sister's devotion to prayer and endured strict penances. A group of Benedictine nuns nearby asked St. Clare how to become “Poor Ladies” like their order, so she sent St. Agnes to become the abbess of their monastery. She returned in 1253 as St. Clare was dying. Three months later, she followed her sister in death. Some thought these nuns were wasting their lives, but actually the opposite was true. The world has been greatly enriched by the example of these poor contemplatives.
